Three Returned To City Council

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

A newcomer to city politics, Presbyterian minister the Rev. Robert W. Jeambey will be the only new face on Lincoln's City Council. Lincoln voters selected the three incumbents — Steve Cook, Bob Sikyta and Dick Baker — and the Rev. Mr. Jeambey to the four council spots.

The incumbents won their second terms in the same order they placed in the 1971 election with architect Cook on top with 22,772 votes, businessman Sikyta second with 20,636 votes, and pharmacist Baker third with 15,979 votes.

In the primary Cook had led with Sikyta second, the Rev. Mr. Jeambey third and Baker fourth.

Standing Could Change

But the almost 600 absentee and disabled ballots could change the third and fourth place ratings. Only 262 votes separated Baker and the Rev. Mr. Jeambey, who captured 15,717 votes at the polling booths.

Steve Tiwald, the youngest candidate at 25, started early and waged an active campaign. But it wasn't enough. He trailed in fifth place, taking 14,923 votes.

In his second try for a council seat, attorney Bill Thierstein took sixth place with 13,540 votes. The only woman candidate, Mary Rogge, a homemaker and part-time pharmacist, came in seventh with 10,965 votes and realtor Jim Carson was last with 7,771 votes.

'Mud Slinging'

Though primarily issue-oriented, the council race was marked with campaigning labeled as "mud slinging" by some candidates.

Baker was criticized because he was awarded a contract to operate a pharmacy at Lincoln General Hospital Physicians Building while he was a member of City Council.

But Baker's hard-hitting cam-

Voters Retire Schwartzkopf

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

City Council President Helen Boosalis is Lincoln's first woman chief executive.

The popular lawmaker smashed Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's re-election bid, receiving 54 6% of the votes cast Tuesday compared to 45.3% for Schwartzkopf.

Mrs. Boosalis, 55, said she is "still a little numb" from her victory She said she had no way of assessing the impact Schwartzkopf's last ditch advertising campaign had on the 35,190 people who went to the polls Tuesday.

Schwartzkopf, 59, who was trying to overcome his No 2 position in the April primary election, refused to comment on the effect his advertising blitz had on the election outcome

Schwartzkopf, who has said he has received "bad press," said earlier Tuesday he only was trying to point out the differences in philosophy between himself and Mrs Boosalis

Other Stories Page 11

Last week, Schwartzkopf's campaign committee paid for a series of ads and television broadcasts purporting to introduce a liberal-conservative issue into the race.

Schwartzkopf workers attempted to show that Mrs Boosalis' election would turn control of City Hall over to the "rad-lib" element, resulting in no-growth for business and industry, increasing unemployment and lax law enforcement policies.

Leadership Said Issue

While privately decrying what she called Schwartzkopf's smear tactics, Mrs Boosalis continued to hammer away at what she perceived to be the basic issue of the campaign — leadership. The 16-year council veteran said she can do a better job

And 18,773 Lincoln voters agreed with her and put her at the city's helm for the next four years

Mrs. Boosalis said she does not contemplate any administrative changes in city government now since she has been consumed with election efforts

Nevertheless, she acknowledged she will be "sitting in and watching" city operations for awhile

"It'll probably be a little different viewing things from an administrative standpoint than from the council's view," she said

Promises To Follow Through

She pledged she will follow through on programs proposed during the campaign, such as initiating a coordinated parking system for downtown Lincoln

Schwartzkopf said he doesn't know what he'll be doing after May 19 when the new mayor takes office

He and his wife Dorothy will "take it easy for a few weeks and then we'll be in the job market," Schwartzkopf said.

He extended his congratulations to the council president saying, "I wish her the best of everything."

Schwartzkopf, who had won election to two terms, became the third of Lincoln's last four mayors to be defeated in re-election bids.

Won Over Incumbent

In 1967, Schwartzkopf won over Mayor Dean Peterson, who lost in the primary but sought write-in votes and ran third in the general election.

In 1959, Bartlett E Boyles ousted Mayor Bennett Martin. Only Martin had filed for election but Boyles had won nomination with primary election write-in votes.

Tornado Rips Through Omaha

3 Killed; Damage Runs Into Millions

From Press Reports

Omaha — At least three persons were killed, more than 100 injured and thousands were left homeless when a tornado roared into metropolitan Omaha Tuesday afternoon.

Damage was estimated in the millions of dollars.

Search and rescue operations continued into the night after Gov. J. James Exon, who happened to be in Omaha when the storm hit, issued a disaster declaration and ordered all Army and Air National Guardsmen in the Omaha area to duty.

Soldiers patrolled the ravaged areas through the night with loaded rifles and fixed bayonets to thwart looting and preserve order.

Story On Page 8

Heaviest damage was in a 300-square block area in the southwest section and a 500-square block area in the northwest part of the city. An apartment complex, a bank and more than 500 homes were destroyed, officials said.

Residents Evacuated

Some of the worst damage was at the Wentworth apartment complex, the largest in the area and located in the southern suburb of Ralston. The 1,000 or so residents were evacuated when 70% of the buildings were destroyed.

Early Tuesday night Mayor Edward Zorinsky declared a full emergency covering a 2,000-square block area and gave police authority to arrest persons with no business there.

All off-duty firemen and police were called to help and the Red Cross set up temporary shelters, including one at Boys Town, to care for the homeless.

Acting Douglas County Coroner James Keenan identified the dead as Lloyd Kramer, in his 40s, Margaret Burke, 87, and Pamela Myers, 23. Keenan said "I think there is a fourth one dead too."

Crushed By Debris

According to police, Kramer died when the roof of a service station on which he was standing collapsed as he watched the tornado approach. An officer said the employe was killed when covered by falling debris.

The Meyers woman died when the restaurant where she worked was hit by the twister. Keenan did not know how Mrs. Burke died.

There were unconfirmed reports that another man also died in the 69th St. and Maple area, possibly from a heart attack

Both Exon and Zorinsky called the situation the "worst" they've ever seen.

After touring the area in a National Guard helicopter, the governor said, "It's just devastating. We saw at least 500 homes and living units totally destroyed and thousands of others damaged. It's just amazing that we didn't have more loss of life and injuries than we did."

Reports flowing into the city's disaster command post indicated that many persons were trapped in buildings devastated by the tornado.

Some of the 150 Guardsmen called out were dispatched to the hard hit 72nd St. area which contains Omaha's night club district and a 12 to 15-block area of businesses.

Robert Batt, general manager of the sprawling Nebraska Furniture Mart, said "everything is just ruined" and estimated damage to his business alone at $5 million.

Batt said the 40 to 45 customers and employes in the store took refuge in a bomb shelter below the store and were temporarily trapped when crates of furniture slammed down on top of the opening.

Patrol cars with loudspeakers traveled thoughout the ravaged areas notifying the homeless of the nearest aid point.

Looters Arrested

Sarpy County Sheriff Patrick Thomas said several arrests for looting were made in the suburban southwest Omaha area.

A policeman armed with mace patrolling the 72nd St. area said there were reports of people looting the ravaged areas.

Omaha Postmaster John Munnelly said two female employes were critically injured when the tornado slammed into the West Branch Post Office Station on 72nd St. The workers, Rosemary Jackson and Elaine McIntosh, were taken to Bergan Mercy Hospital in a postal truck because a rescue unit couldn't reach the scene.

The churning winds peeled off the roof of the long one-story Downtowner Motel in the 72nd St. area.

Mrs. Mary Brezinski, a bookkeeper at Nebraska Tile near the intersection of 69th and Maple, said she and fellow workers were herded into the basement of the one-story building just moments before

Hatcher Declared Winner Of Primary

GARY, Ind. (AP) — Mayor Richard G. Hatcher drew overwhelming support from inner-city black precincts to win the Democratic nomination for a third term Tuesday night over Dozier T. Allen Jr., a fellow black and former political ally.

Final official returns gave Hatcher, a nationally prominent black political leader, 30,377 votes to Allen's 22,844.

The victory virtually assured Hatcher of re-election in November. A Republican mayor has not been elected since 1943 in this northwestern Indiana steel city of 175,000 residents, 53 per cent of whom are black.

Allen had led most of the night as predominately white precincts were the first counted. He had been expected to do well in those areas, but his aides said they wre disappointed by a low voter turnout.

Hatcher had declared himself the winner early in the contest on the basis of unofficial returns. His final tally was 56.4 per cent of the votes cast.

jallen, 44, once managed Hatcher's campaign for city councilman. He was reported to have made sizable gains in the last two weeks against Hatcher, 41, a bachelor attorney who was first elected in 1967 when he upset the white political machine.

James F. Hilton, Hatcher's first police chief and a Democrat-turned-Republican, appeared to have the GOP nomination with an 8-1 lead over insurance salesman Thaddeus Romanowski. Both are white.

The winner was virtually assured of a November victory in this city of 175,000 persons, 53 per cent of whom are black. A Republican mayor has not been elected since 1943.

Falstaff Only Unbeaten Team

By BOB MOYER

Falstaff emerged as the only unbeaten team after six nights of play in the Lincoln AAA Fast Pitch Softball League Tuesday night at Ballard Field.

Falstaff defeated Dick Flynn Buick, 5-1, in a battle between two previously unbeaten clubs in the first game of a doubleheader and then Stan's Lounge dropped Valentino's, 7-1, to give Val's their first loss of the season.

The win gave Falstaff a 3-0 mark. Stan's Lounge, Misty Lounge and Dick Flynn Buick are all now 2-1.

Bill Slaughter, Duane Eichorn and winning pitcher Bill Crumb pounded home runs to pace Falstaff to the win and it is that type of strong hitting along with the development of Crumb as a third pitcher to go along with veteran stoppers Jay Phipps and Lefty Sheary — that Falstaff manager Bill Ketterer is hoping will lead his club to city and state championships.

Falstaff finished third in the state last year after losing the city championship to Stan's Lounge in a playoff and Ketterer feels this year's team is stronger.

"We've got much better team morale this year," Ketterer noted. "They play real well together."

Ketterer has made some changes in personnel this season. Bryce Doebele has rejoined the team after four years in the Navy, shifting last year's catcher Rick Boals to left field.

Also veteran third baseman Ken Forbes has moved to right field and Jim Smith, an outfielder last season, has been put at third.

"Ken's no spring chicken any more," noted Ketterer. "We felt moving him to outfield would help out his knees and allow to hit better. Plus, Smith played three years at Nebraska as a third baseman, so he's no stranger there."

The rest of the lineup is set with Slaughter at first, Ned Eckman at second, Tom Novak at shortstop and Eichorn in center.

The heart of the team is still the pitching — led by the veterans, Sheary and Phipps.

"They told me they'd keep on pitching until somebody started hitting them regularly," noted Ketterer, who doesn't have anything to worry about this year, at least. Both Sheary and Phipps have pitched well in early outings.

In the nightcap, Stan's Lounge exploded for six hits and six runs in the final two innings to break open a 1-1 pitcher's dual between Stan's John Jackson and Valentino's Ron Martin.

Omaha Blanks Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Omaha's Tom Bruno pitched a two-hit shutout Tuesday night, striking out 10 Indianapolis batters en route to a 1-0 victory in the American Association.

The only hits off Bruno (1-0) were singles by shortstop Junior Kennedy in the first and ninth innings.

Omaha got just four hits off three Indianapolis pitchers, but the Royals scored what proved to be the winning run in the fifth inning when Keith Marshall walked and, with two outs, Steve Staggs doubled to right-centerfield.

Bruno went the didstance and walked three Indianapolis batters.

Olympic Village Bans Firearms

MONTREAL (AP) — Competitors in shooting events at the 1976 Summer Olympics will not be allowed to bring their firearms into the Olympic Village, the committee for organizing the Games announced Monday.

It would be the first time in Olympic history that such a restriction has been placed on the Games' target shooters.

"It's because of recent events that we have had to take this measure," said Pierre Charbonneau, a vice-president of the organizing committee. "We have agreed from the outset with security staff that there would be no firearms in the Village."

McFarland, Briscoe Trade Clubs In NFL

From News Wires

The Miami Dolphins acquired running back Donny Anderson and reserve tight end James McFarland, a former Husker standout, from the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday for wide receiver Marlin Briscoe, a former UNO standout, and reserve running back Hubert Ginn.

Dolphins coach Don Shula made it plain at a news conference that he expects the 32-year-old Anderson to fill the hole left by the departure of Jim Kiick to Memphis of the World Football League.

Kiick was noted for catching passes in crucial third-down situations.

Besides that, Texan Garry Don Anderson, entering his 10th year in the National Football League, will serve as a backup punter for the Dolphins' Larry Seiple. He has a 39.6 average and boots them high the way Shula likes.

In Briscoe, the Cardinals will be getting the man who led the Dolphins in pass receiving in 1973, the season Miami capped with a second consecutive Super Bowl victory.

Briscoe, a seven-year veteran, was hampered by injuries last season but is reported in top shape.

Briscoe had asked to be traded because he felt he was kept too long in injured reserve status last season.

"This will give Briscoe what he wants — to go with a good team that believes in throwing the ball," Shula said.

In five years with St. Louis, the 6-foot-5, 225-pound McFarland has played behind Jackie Smith, one of the premier tight ends in pro football.

Shula said his interest in the North Platte, Nebraska native stemmed from the fact that Andre Tillman has not recovered well from a rookie season knee injury last year.

Donny Anderson
Kiick's Replacement

A backup is needed for Jim Mandich and Marv Fleming, who is approaching retirement age.

McFarland, who lives in Lincoln, said he has agreed to a multi-year contract with the Dolphins and talked with Shula and George Young, Miami's director of player personnel.

"The Dolphins expressed an interest in me, so I wasn't surprised by the trade," McFarland said. "Hopefully this will give me a chance to play more."

Ginn, entering his sixth year as a pro, is a good special teams man who spent three years with the Dolphins, a year with the Baltimore Colts after a trade for Don Nottingham, then came back to the Dolphins last year as a free agent.

In other pro football news Phil Olsen, Los Angeles Rams' reserve defensive end, agreed to terms with Denver and wide receiver Otto Stowe, a former Iowa State standout, came to the Rams from the Broncos in a transaction involving two free agents.

Quarterback Bob Lee of the Atlanta Falcons officially became a free agent when head coach Marion Campbell announced that he no longer fits in the Falcon plans.

The New Orleans Saints announced they have signed wide receiver Al Barnes as a free agent and released another wide receiver, Sam Havrilak, on waivers.

Phil Iselin, president of the New York Jets, thinks he has made Joe Namath an offer the quarterback can't refuse.

The offer is a reported $1 million over three years for the 31-year-old star who played out his option with the National Football League club last season.

Iselin thinks Namath will take it. The Jets boss just doesn't know when.

Aeros Defeat Quebec, 5-3

HOUSTON (AP) — Gordie Howe scored two goals and the Houston Aeros won a third period shooting match to defeat Quebec 5-3 Tuesday night and take a 2-0 lead in their World Hockey Association World Cup Championship series.

Tatum Matching Strides With Mary Lou Jasnoch?

By CHUCK SINCLAIR
Prep Sports Writer

As a North Platte High School sophomore, Cindy Tatum is already matching sprinting strides with Nebraska's foremost female track star and 1974 Sunday Journal and Star Girl Prep Athlete of the Year, Mary Lou Jasnoch.

But Tatum isn't obsessed with the desire to surpass Jasnoch's three year accomplishments despite already owning a Class A gold medal from the 1974 state track meet.

She's set no goals to win more gold medals or set more records, but if she accomplishes the one thing she's set out to, all that may come.

Tatum wants to steadily improve her times over the next two years, and considering she's already tied with Jasnoch in the 100 (:10.8) and only two-tenths of a second off in the 220, the odds are better than even she'll make it.

Another plus factor for Tatum is her start — it's not very good — so there's room for improvement. "I've had a lot of trouble with it," she said. "I think I'm just bringing the top of my body up too fast, but it costs me time in the shorter races."

Even with her admitted slow start, Tatum holds a share of the Class A state meet record in the 50, an event now dropped, and holds the Class A 100 record by herself.

Tatum and coach Linda Carlson have been working on the start this week trying to spot any flaws before Friday's district meet at North Platte.

"We video-taped the start this afternoon," Tatum said Tuesday, "and they seem to be getting better."

Of all the Class A districts to be involved in, the meet at North Platte will definitely be the toughest on sprinters as Tatum is joined by Grand Island's Liz Lee, second behind Tatum on this week's 100 charts.

Besides Tatum and Lee, Kearney's Jayne Brummer (third at :11.1) and Columbus' Judy Koziol (:11.2) will also be pressing for a qualifying position in the May 17 state track meet also to be held at North Platte.

So far this year, Lee and Tatum have split in outdoor meets with Tatum winning the Big 10 title in her best of :10.8 and Lee winning the Trans-Nebraska title.

Indoors at the Kearney Invitational, Tatum beat Lee in a 50-yard dash.

North Platte's Friday district meet is just one of four Class A meet's held for qualifying, with three scheduled for Friday.

Ralston will hold its meet Thursday while Seward and Omaha Burke join North Platte on Friday.

In Class B, Plattsmouth held its meet Tuesday, but Schuyler, Wisner, York, Grand Island Northwest, Scottsbluff and Broken Bow are Wednesday sites. Omaha Roncalli winds up Class B qualifying Friday.

Class C also began Tuesday at Plainview.

Class D begins Wednesday at Crete, Tekamah, Friend, West Holt and Alma and concludes Thursday at Central City, Lexington, McCook and Bayard.

Star Prep Cagers May Follow Moses Malone

New York (UPI) — Bill Willoughby of Englewood, N.J., and Daryle Dawkins of Orlando, Fla. — Two of the most sought-after high school players in the nation — have applied for the National Basketball Association's hardship draft and apparently have have switched their focus toward the pro ranks, UPI learned Tuesday.

The 6-8 Willoughby, who has already signed a national letter of intent with the University of Kentucky, has until 24 hours prior to the NBA draft to honor that committment by removing his name from the hardship list.

However, it was learned that both Willoughby and Dawkins have already been approached by at least three NBA clubs in regard to passing up college and going the Moses Malone route — directly into the pros. Malone went from a Virginia high school right to the Utah Stars of the ABA.

Regarded as the finest all-around forward prospect in the country, Willoughby averaged 32 points and 16 rebounds this past season while leading Englewood to the New Jersey state championship.

Dawkins, a 6-11 center from Evans High School in Orlando, has not signed any letter of intent, but was likely headed for the University of Florida should a pro offer not meet his demands.

Reportedly, though, Dawkins has already entered into negotiations with the Philadelphia 76ers.

It is expected that the NBA will announce Thursday the complete list of players applying for the hardship draft. The regular league draft will be held the last week of May.

Morning Briefing
A Sports Roundup

BASEBALL

The Philadelphia Phillies may have the big bat they claim they've needed. Dick Allen, the former White Sox home run hitter who retired during the closing days of last season, may be transfered back to the Phils from the Braves after the controversial slugger refused all approaches from Atlanta.

Dick Allen

General Managers Paul Owens of Philadelphia and Eddie Robinson of Atlanta have apparently reached an agreement with only one problem remaining — satisfying the Braves' player demands.

Atlanta obtained the rights to negotiate with Allen from the White Sox after last season for $5,000. If they were successful in signing him, the Braves would have turned over a player to Chicago. However, Allen said he would like to return to Philadelphia, where he played from 1964-69.

Another first: Frank Robinson meted out his first fine since becoming the Cleveland Indians manager by fining outfielder Charlie Spikes for missing his cutoff man for the second time. Spikes was fined $100 for the mental mistake.

The Milwaukee Brewers said reserved ticket requests exceed the number of seats available for the 1975 All-Star game on the first day orders were accepted.

Pitcher Woodie Fryman of the Montreal Expos and second baseman Dave Cash of the Phillies have been named Co-Players of the Week in the National League.

Baltimore Orioles' owner Jerold C. Hoffberger says he doesn't see much chance of selling his American League team before the end of the season.

There are at least six more steps which have to be completed before the sale of the club is finalized, Hoffberger said.

Twenty persons who live near the Oakland Coliseum have sent letters of protest to the city manager, saying the booming cannonades that follow each home run and each home victory of the A's are hazardous to their health and are rudely awakening.

Outfielder Cleon Jones was scheduled to meet with New York Mets General Manager Joe McDonald to explain his brush with the St. Petersburg, Fla., law after being arrested after he was found sleeping in the nude in a parked van with a 21-year-old woman.

FOOTBALL

The top priority item for Seattle's National Football League-team-to-be? According to John Thompson, general manager, that item will have to be a nickname.

"Timewise — scouting, the nickname and a start on ticket sales are of immediate concern," Thompson said. "Sure, the selection of a head coach is very important, but it's not important timewise."

Albert Bowker, chancellor of the University of California, spurred by complaints from neighborhood groups, says he will recommend that the university stop renting Memorial Stadium to the Oakland Raiders after this season.

Tony Cristiani, defensive tackle at Miami, and Joe Colquitt, a linebacker from Kansas State, have been signed by the Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Canadian Football League.

Cincinnati Bengals football player Bob Maddox pleaded innocent to a charge of possession of an hallucinogen for sale. Maddox and Terry Dunningham, were arrested March 12 at Maddox's apartment.

The Southern California Sun has announced the signing of its first player for the 1975 season — defensive tackle Dave Roller from the University of Kentucky team circa 1970.

The British Columbia Lions signed former Alcorn Stater linebacker Larry Cameron.

HORSE RACING

Churchill Downs track president Lynn Stone said further measures will be taken next year to control the infield throng and prevent attempts to swarm the rail during the Derby.

Hundreds of spectators first went over and then through infield fences minutes before the race this year, leaning over the rail along the backstretch, waving, reaching out and shouting.

Jockey Menotti Aristone, aboard Bombay Duck, said his horse lost interest in the race after he was struck by a hurled beer can in the backstretch. Bombay Duck finished last.

Chuck Corolla, assistant manager of the Jockey's Guild, called the situation "very dangerous."

"They reach out and try to grab hold of the jock," Corolla said. "That's a bad thing. If they ever got their hand on the reins or something like that, they'd flip that horse end over end and cause a terrible accident.

Go Aflame was destroyed Monday night in a fire that broke out in a barn at Vernon Downs Raceway.

Rose, Morgan Help Reds Win

By United Press International

Pete Rose had four singles and Joe Morgan pounded out three hits including a two-run homer to aid Jack Billingham in gaining his third win as the Cincinnati Reds downed the San Diego Padres 7-3 Tuesday night.

Morgans's homer, his second of the season, accounted for two of three runs the Reds scored off loser Sonny Siebert in the first inning. Tony Perez doubled home Danny Driessen with the other run.

In other National League action San Francisco romped over Atlanta 7-1, Pittsburgh beat New York 2-1, Montreal downed Chicago 9-4 and Philadelphia at St. Louis fell to the rain.

The Reds added a fourth run in the second inning when Rose singled home Cesar Geronimo. The Padres scored three runs in the fourth inning, the last two coming on Willie McCovey's third homer of the season.

The Reds went ahead 5-3 in the fifth when George Foster doubled in Johnny Bench, and they added two more runs in the sixth, one scoring on Driessen's sacrifice fly and another on a balk by Padre reliever Dave Tomlin.

Pete Falcone picked up his third win of the season by two-hitting the Braves and Chris Speier hit a home run in the Giants' win.

Falcone wasn't on the Giants' official roster at the start of spring training. He allowed four walks, struck out five and did not allow a hit through the first six innings.

Rain interrupted a pitching duel after 7 1-2 innings between Ken Brett, who had given up four hits, and Tom Seaver, six hits, but Manny Sanguillen had driven in two Pirate runs with doubles to give them the win over the Mets. Brett and Seaver had six strikeouts apiece.

Mike Jorgensen's grand slam home run in the fourth inning highlighted the Expos' victory over the Chicago Cubs. Rick Monday hit a home run for Chicago.

In a West Coast game, Don Sutton pitched a four-hitter to become the majors' winningest pitcher and Ron Cey clouted his seventh homer in sparking the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 3-1 victory over the Houston Astros.

Pete Rose

Steve Garvey singled in two runs in the fifth inning to give him 23 RBI, tops in the majors, for the season.

Sutton improved his season's record to 6-1 and ran his string of consecutive scoreless innings to 23 2-3 before yielding a solo homer to Bob Watson in the ninth inning. Sutton now has won 18 of his last 19 decisions over two seasons, including World Series and National League playoffs.

Tigers Defeat Brewers

By United Press International

Joe Coleman one-hit Milwaukee Tuesday night, and Ron LeFlore backed him up with two RBI and a run scored to give the Detroit Tigers a 4-2 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

George Scott's two-run homer in the first inning was the only hit off Coleman.

Scott would not have batted had shortstop Tom Veryzer fielded a potential double play ball cleanly. Veryzer got only the force-out at second on Robin Yount as Sixto Lezcano reached first on a grounder. Then Scott unloaded.

Coleman struck out eight and walked four as he raised his record to 2-3.

In other AL action, Boston beat Cleveland 4-1, Kansas City whipped Texas 6-2, and Minnesota downed Chicago 4-1.

Bob Montgomery singled in two runs to lead the Red Sox over the Indians. Bill Lee struck out two and walked two, scattering six hits. He lost his shutout bid in the sixth inning when George Hendrick smacked his fourth homer of the season. It was the Lee's third victory and third complete game in six decisions.

George Brett singled up the middle to start a four-run eighth inning rally and give the Royals a victory over the Rangers. Nelson Briles, now 30, allowed six hits and ended a three-game losing streak for the Royals.

Bill Campbell saved starter Dave Goltz's victory by striking out five of the nine batters he faced as the Twins held off a White Sox rally. The Twins collected 11 of their 12 hits off Wilbur Wood, a 20-game winner in each of the last four seasons, who took his sixth defeat against one win.

Warriors Topple Bulls

OAKLAND (UPI) — Rick Barry scored 32 of his 36 points over the final three periods and the Golden State Warriors overcame a 19-point deficit to stun the Chicago Bulls 111-106 and square their NBA Western Conference championship series Tuesday night.

The best-of-seven series stands at 2-2 with the fifth game being here Thursday night.

The game started as if the Bulls were going to blow the Warriors out. Jerry Sloan and Bob Love each scored 11 points as Chicago bolted to a 35-18 lead after one quarter and increased it to 39-20 in the first minute of the second period.

Golden State then began finding the range and got a big boost off the bench from Jeff Mullins. The Warriors outscored Chicago 30-13 the rest of the quarter to pull within 52-50 at the half.

Mullins scored eight of his 12 points in the period and the Warriors connected on 60 per cent of their shots to storm back into contention.

Barry erupted for 14 points in the third period but the Bulls retained their two point edge, 84-82, entering the frantic final quarter.

The Warriors took the lead for good three minutes into the period when reserve forward Derrek Dickey hit a layup for a 90-88 lead. The inspired play of center Nate Thurmond kept the Bulls within striking range down the stretch but Dickey's basket earned an eight point lead with 2:30 left as the Warriors maintained their momentum.

Sloan scored 22 points and Chet Walker added 21 for Chicago, which now has a 2-26 playoff record on the road.

Veteran Farmer Returns To Ak-Sar-Ben

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Bob Farmer has some very special memories of Ak-Sar-Ben.

"I scored my first win as a rider here in 1941 on a horse named Pargo," said the veteran racing official who returned to Ak-Sar-Ben this year as a patrol judge after a short absence. "I never was an outstanding rider and I'm sorry for that.

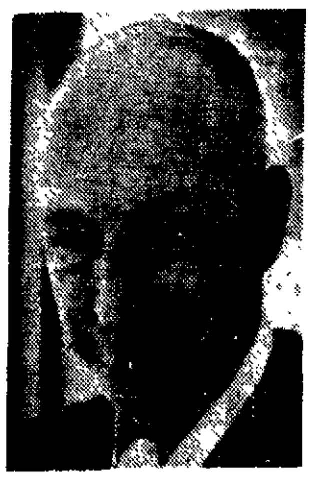
"It was my favorite occupation since I was a very young boy but for all the work I put into it, it was a very short career indeed," he said.

Sometimes, however, things happen for the best.

After going "about 25 mounts" without a win in 1940, Farmer finally broke the jinx at Ak-Sar-Ben. After scoring "about six wins" at Ak, he tallied 24 wins in 19 days to annex top rider honors at Beulah Park in Ohio.

However, he was pressed into military service in 1942, thus ending his riding career. But that didn't stop him from beginning a new career as a racing official.

He began as a patrol judge in 1956 at the now defunct race track at Toledo, Ohio. Since then, he has worked 12 tracks in capacities such as patrol and placing judge, paddock judge, identifier and clerk of scales.



Bob Farmer
Returns To Omaha

Farmer was once a regular official on the Nebraska circuit. His last year traveling the entire five-track run in Nebraska was 1972.

"Since then, I've worked Oaklawn Park (in Hot Springs, Ark.) and the 60-day meet at Blue Bonnets in Montreal and then the 120-day meet at Detroit Race Course," he said. "This year, Hazel Park (near Detroit) starts on July 15 and Ak-Sar-Ben ends on the 12th, so it worked out great for me to come here.

"I like working at Ak-Sar-Ben. This is my fourth year here and I really enjoy the people I'm associated with," he added.

"I really had no idea I'd ever return here as an official," he continued. "I wasn't thinking in those lines at all, but now I'm most grateful to be back."

Farmer, one of three Ak patrol judges, supervises the control tower to the right of the finish line. He watches the stretch run for irregularities.

"I watch to see if the horses come in contact with each other or if anyone suffers any disadvantages," he noted. "I'm a protector as well as an enforcer. If I see anything wrong, I call the stewards and advise them of what I saw.

"Then they rerun the film. They make the final decision, but I'm an aid to them," he pointed out.

One of the game's most respected officials, Farmer noted the improvements that have occurred in thoroughbred racing since he's been a participant and official.

"They've put doors on the starting gates, installed the photo finish, the film patrol, started using the saliva and urine tests and the tatoo system," he said. "I't a far cry from the 1930 movies that showed crooked jockeys and officials and doped horses in each race.

"I feel honored to be in my position and I'm proud of my profession," he said. "I've spent my entire productive life in racing and I have no regrets."

Racing undoubtedly feels the same about Bob Farmer.

Saigon Reds Condemn 'Robbery' By U.S.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The United States agreed Tuesday to a Thai government request to stop removing South Vietnamese aircraft flown here by refugees. But the U.S. carrier Midway sailed out of Thai waters with at least 25 jets and fighter planes already aboard.

The new Communist government in Saigon, which claimed the right to the planes, said in a Liberation Radio broadcast it had learned of the removal from Utapao Air Base and "severely condemns this robbery by the Ford government."

Other broadcasts from Saigon said the new city government will be introduced to residents at a mass rally Wednesday morning at the metropolitan administrative offices — the former presidential palace long occupied by Nguyen Van Thieu.

Live entertainment and television coverage were promised. Saigonese were urged to be bring pictures of Ho Chi Minh, be orderly, on foot and on time.

On the refugee island of Guam, the captain of a ship arrived with 5,030 Vietnamese said at least 50,000 persons had been left behind in boats in the waters off Saigon "howling and crying, 'Come back!'" Capt. Arthur Boucher, of Cherry Hill, N.J., said people were afloat in maybe 500 boats and scrambling to get on ships.

Other Vietnamese refugees continued to fly out of Guam for the United States. The United States also launched an airlift of 988 Cambodian refugees from Thailand to the United States, including former President Sau Kham Khoy.

In Washington, President Ford was quoted as saying opposition to accepting as many as 150,000 refugees from Indochina in the United States "makes me damned mad."

Broadcasts by Phnom Penh's new regime said it would respect the national and territorial integrity of neighboring states but would not allow any foreign troops on Cambodian soil. This would apply to South Vietnam, Laos and Thailand. It was not known whether North Vietnam was included.

Thai Foreign Minister Chatichai Choonhavan announced that the United States had agreed to suspend the removal of the 122 South Vietnamese military planes flown here by refugees in the last days of the old regime. State Department officials in Washington later confirmed it.

However, witnesses said at least 25 planes already had been lifted to the Midway in the Gulf of Thailand by U.S. Jolly Green Giant helicopters. Washington sources said 27 A37 light bombers and most, if not all, of 25 F5 Freedom Fighters were aboard the ship when it sailed, but this could not be confirmed by witnesses.

The United States claimed the planes because it supplied them to the former Saigon regime, but the new South Vietnamese government also claimed them as the spoils of war. Thailand, a U.S. ally that also wants to live in peace with its Communist neighbors, was caught in the middle and decided to hold onto the planes.

North Vietnam again demanded that all ships and planes used by South Vietnamese to flee their country be returned to the revolutionary government. Hanoi's official news agency, in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo, said the North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry issued a statement saying: "The Thai government should not invoke any pretext whatsoever to turn down this legitimate demand of the South Vietnamese people.

"If the Thai government connives with the U.S. by letting it usurp the property of the South Vietnamese people . . . it must bear all the conseyuences of its action."

One Saigon broadcast said young volunteers cleaning city streets and putting up new political posters had given up loud shirts for plain, clean dress, and "they all wear short hair."

The new government also reported securing offshore islands and called on all vessels still hanging off shore to come back in. Starting Wednesday, the revolutionary navy announced, naval ships will be waiting for communications from Vietnamese ships at sea and will lead them safely to harbor. Earlier broadcasts said recolutionary warships had taken Truong Sa Island, in a small archipelago claimed by Vietnam, the Philippines and China.

Ford Motor President Unavailable

Charlie Casey, 31, an Oklahoma City welder, drove to Detroit in his 3-month-old Mustang II Ghia which he considers a lemon. He wanted to see Lee Iacocca, president of Ford Motor Co. Casey said he thought Iacocca would be sure to agree that the $5,400 car was a lemon. He got as far as an Iacocca assistant who said the Ford president was tied up on the telephone. Seeing Iacocca was impossible, Casey said he was told. "They made it pretty clear I shouldn't wait."

Critic Calls Committee Cut In Pentagon Proposal 'Phony'

Washington (UPI) — The House Armed Services Committe voted Tuesday to cut $3.7 billion from the Defense Department's proposed $29.8 billion weapons budget, but $1.3 billion of the cut was for military aid to South Vietnam.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., a critic of Pentagon spending, said South Vietnam military aid is a moot issue and called the overall cut "phony."

The committee voted to give the Pentagon all of the $948.5 million it asked to develop the controversial B1 bomber. It pared $45 million from the $2.7 billion sought for development of the Trident submarine and its missile system.

Meantime the Senate Armed Services Committee voted to cut $222.3 million from the B1 bomber program, a reduction intended to permit continued research and development but not a start on production.

The Senate committee also voted 10 to 4 to authorize $109 million for development of a new generation of more accurate strategic nuclear missiles. The vote overturned subcommittee rejection of the proposal, which is being sought by the administration as a new military option for the president somewhere between conventional warfare and all-out nuclear war.

The missile, described as a maneuverable re-entry vehicle or MARV, is strongly opposed by Sen. Thomas McIntyre, D-N.H., and others who fear its capability of disarming Russian missiles in their silos would invite a first-strike nuclear attack. A floor fight to defeat it was promised.

Aspin, an outspoken critic of defense spending, said the House committee's claim of a $3.7 billion cut in Pentagon requests "is phony."

"It was done with mirrors," he said. "The cut really amounts to only $1.7 billion."

Additionally, Aspin said, $933 million the committee called a cut from Navy shipbuilding requests represented a Pentagon estimate of the impact of inflation "and we're going to have to come up with that money and maybe more next year. They just put if off, not cut it."

The committee bill is only an authorization measure — in effect, a spending ceiling — and actual appropriation of money must come in a separate bill. The measure would cover a 15-month period, starting July 1, 1975, and ending Sept. 30, 1976.

The committee went along with the Pentagon request to limit pay increases for the military to 5%, but made it clear that if civilian federal pay is increased over that level then military pay would also go up.

Other cuts made by the committee included:

—$260.2 million from the $775 million the Air Force asked to develop an airborne radar system.

—$185.8 million from the $236 million requested for the advanced airborne command post.

—Elimination of the $21.8 million the Navy asked for development of the A7E attack plane.

The committee measure also gave the Pentagon nearly the exact armed services personnel level it sought, setting active duty strength by Sept. 30, 1976, for the Army at 793,000; Navy, 535,860; Marines, 196,498; and Air Force at 590,000.

Doctors' Strike Spreads To Southern California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A doctors' strike protesting soaring malpractice insurance costs spread Tuesday to Southern California.

Doctors in Los Angeles and San Diego refused to go into operating rooms in what was described as an act of support with San Francisco Bay area doctors who canceled surgery six days ago when their insurance was hiked more than 300 per cent.

At the same time about 400 doctors asked state legislators in Sacramento for relief from higher rates, as Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. weighed whether to call a special legislative session to find a solution to the malpractice crisis.

As Northern California doctors refused to treat many patients in the sixth day of their partial boycott, an estimated 250 doctors staged a one-day walkout in San Diego, where a spot check showed less than 25 per cent of the operating rooms in 10 major hospitals in use.

In Los Angeles, nonemergency surgery at 10 hospitals was canceled and reduced at two others as doctors staged a one-day walkout to support demands for massive reform of the medical malpractice system.

"Unlike Northern California, where the insurance has been canceled, doctors here still have insurance," said Steve Gamble, a vice president of the Los Angeles Hospital Council. "This is really a sympathy demonstration to get the problem corrected before it affects us down here."

Amateur Golfers, Beware!

If you're an amateur golfer and are thinking of entering either the Duffer's Classic or the Golf For Millions events, think again. You'll become a professional if you do.

That was the warning contained in a release from the United States Golf Association as a result of inquiries about the amateur status ramifications of those recently announced competitions.

The USGA said it has ruled that all who entér and participate in these events in an attempt to win money violate the rules of amateur status and cease to be amateur golfers.

The rules preclude "playing for prize money or its equivalent in a match, tournament or exhibition. The USGA emphasizes that the violation occurs when the player attempts to win money.

Sponsors who disregard the amateur rules do a disservice to the game, in the eyes of the USGA. It feels golf has grown and prospered under a code that makes a sharp distinction between amateurism and professionalism, a code that is endorsed by both the PGA and USGA.

"Golf For Millions" is an event originating in Los Angeles and the Duffer's Classic, promoted by George Gobel, is based in Whicita, Kan. There is an unnamed competition under the aegis of the "World Golfers' Association, Marina del Rey, Claif.

Peru Native Retires

Nelson Fisher. a native of Peru, recently retired after an illustrous career as horse racing handicapper and tennis writer for the San Diego Union. Fisher recalls that in his younger days he picked up 50 cents a call for phoning in results of Peru State to The Lincoln Star.

"Peru State, your records will show, went some five years undefeated in basketball," Fisher, a long-time friend of mine from Kentucky Derby days, wrote the other day. "They finally lost out to the Kansas City Hillyers in the era when the so-called AAU (really sort of semipro) tournament was the championship windup of them all. I think that was the way, though memory can become deceptive.

During Fisher's days of covering tennis, a little gal named Maureen Connolly was growing into a big star in San Diego. He's the man responsible for giving her the nickname of "Little Mo" back when she was 11 years old.

Fisher is keeping his retirement from being a bore by helping promote The Bishop's Schools' tennis camp in LaJolla, Calif.

The school last year had students from 11 states and six foreign countries.

Among its graduates are at least four who compete on the Virginia Slims tour — Patti Hogan, Nancy Orstein, Chris Kemmer and Janet Newberry. Over the years. other big names in tennis learned their lessons there, people like Alice Marble, Mo Connolly, and Jaren Hantze.

Catching Up On Sports

Kansas defeated Kansas State 94-60 in a dual track meet last Saturday, making the Wildcats heavy favorites to win next week's outdoor title at Oklahoma. Most impressive run was by KSU's Ted Settle with a 4:02.9 in the mile. The Wildcats' Bob Prince won the halfmile in 1:50.5. K-State's coach, DeLoss Dodds, said Kansas will "run away" with the conference title and that his team and Oklahoma will battle for second place.

North Carolina State has signed 7-2 center Glenn Sudhop of South Bend, Ind., to a basketball tender. He was a teammate of Nebraska recruit Val Martin.

Wisconsin defeated Nebraska last season behind quarterback Gregg Bohlig. Now, Bohlig is gone and Coach John Jardine still is looking for a replacement after no one came to the fore in spring drills.

Petitions Opposing Betting Presented

Des Moines (UPI) — Petitions bearing the names of more than 20,000 Iowans who oppose legalizing pari-mutuel betting were presented here Tuesday to state senators.

The petitions were solicited by several church groups from across Iowa and were officially presented to Sen. Eugene Hill, D-Newton, a chief opponent of the bill, which is on the senate and house calendars.

The Rev. Paul King, executive secretary of the Iowa Council of Churches, said the petitions represented each senatorial district and were gathered in a period of two weeks.

He estimated 17 or 18 different denominations were represented in the petitions, which he said came mostly from the central Iowa area east of Fort Dodge and west of Waterloo.

Up to this point, 14,837 signatures supporting legalization of pari-mutuel betting — mostly from a group known as Iowans for pari-mutuel — had been filed with the senate.

A total of 4,878 persons had signed peititions against the legalization. Hill said the 20,000 names today "evens things out."

"I think it will have an impact and offset those who have favored it," Hill said.

"It comes at a time when Iowans are expressing concern on all types of gambling and are getting tired of being known as the Vegas of the midwest."

The Rev. Mr. King said there had been some misconceptions about increased support for legalized horse race track betting in Iowa.

"There are so many misconceptions about what it will be," he said. "People think it is easy money when it is really against all Christian principles."

Also on hand for the presentation were representatives of the United Methodist Church, Church of the Nazarene and Lutheran Church as well as a group calling itself Citizens group, Ray Hayes of Des Moines, said the names were gathered through the use of a mailing list through the Council of Churches and that additional names would be forthcoming.

Hill said the move was a "complete surprise" to Senate Democratic Leader George Kinley of Des Moines, who has led the fight to legalize pari-mutuel betting in Iowa.

Kinley had little comment on Tuesday's action, saying "it's a good project for Gene Hill to get into."

Syas Blasts Pheasant Plan

By Associated Press

Omaha Sen. George Syas, chairman of the legislature's Constitutional Revision and Recreation Committee, said Tuesday that a Game and Parks Commission decision to spend $50,000 to release penraised pheasants was a waste of sportsmen's money.

Syas said it would be better to spend the money raised from upland game stamps to provide pheasant habitat.

He said "The game commissioners' decision may be good public relations due to the fact that many people do not know the biological facts of the pheasant.

"It is wasteful and expensive to release birds into the wild after the initial stocking," Syas said.

Bicycle Races Scheduled

The Husker Road Club has set two races for the weekend with the first on Saturday in Omaha and the second Sunday in Pioneers Park.

No Confetti In Roberts' Bucket

Sacramento, Calif. (AP) — Dave Roberts of the Hawaii Islanders was getting heat from Sacramento fans, so he decided to cool them off.

The Islanders' third baseman grabbed a bucket of water from the bench after Sunday's 10-2 Pacific Coast League loss to Sacramento and doused about a half-dozen spectators behind the Hawaii dugout

Roberts. a former major leaguer with the San Diego Padres. was suspended for one game and fined $25 by Roy Jackson, PCL president.

"It was strictly a practical joke," Roberts said. "But I was retaliating for my teammates to the fans' constant ribbing."

Rod Laver
Twice A Bridesmaid

Laver: Desire Missing?

DALLAS (AP) — One would assume the single most desired prize in Rod Laver's millionaire tennis career would be the World Championship of Tennis title.

Wrong. The red-haired rocket, who has pocketed $99,731 with a 30-5 won-loss record in 1975, isn't staying awake at night in anticipation of his first match against Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md., Wednesday night.

"I'll do as well as I can but I don't have a huge burning desire," Laver said calmly.

Here's a man who has won them all, including Grand Slams in 1962 and 1969. Yet, he has twice been a bridesmaid in the WCT finals to Ken Rosewall He was defeated in the semifinals by Stan Smith in 1973 and lost to Smith in the quarterfinals last year.

"I feel good and I'm playing well," said Laver, an Australian who now lives in Corona del Mar, Calif. "My chances are excellent . . . I only have to beat three players."

The tournament begins Wednesday night in Moody Coliseum on the Southern Methodist campus with Mexico's Raul Ramirez meeting Bjorn Borg, the 18-year-old wonder from Sweden. The Laver-Solomon match follows.

On Thursday night, Australia's John Alexander plays Tennessee's Roscoe Tanner while America's Arthur Ashe and Britain's Mark Cox meet in the second match.

The semifinals will be played Friday night and the third place match on Saturday. The finals are scheduled for national television beginning at noon CDT Sunday.

Bench Strength Will Be Factor

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — The Washington Bullets, holding a two-to-one game advantage in the NBA Eastern Conference playoff series, take on the defending champion Boston Celtics Wednesday night and to contradict a once-popular commercial: it's what's in back that counts.

The bench strength of the two teams may prove decisive in the contest which will either see the Bullets move to within one game of eliminating Boston or the Celtics squaring the bestof-seven series at two victories apiece.

In the first two games won by Washington, a pair of reserve Bullets — Nick Weatherspoon and Jimmy Jones—provided key help, compiling 53 points between them. But in Boston's 101-90 home victory over the Bullets Saturday, Paul Silas, as a replacement for Don Nelson, kept Washington's Elvin Hayes in check and hauled in 25 rebounds. Boston coach Tom Heinsohn and Washington's K. C. Jones, former Celtic teammates, credited Silas' performance with getting the Boston back into contention.

However, Boston's other top sub, Paul Westphal, has yet to perform up to par with his sharp-shooting, hitting on only 7 of 21 field goal attempts. He's been only a little colder than the rest of his teammates as the Celtics averaged but 38.8

Northeast Tops Southeast, 4-2

Paced by the hitting of John Kloefkorn and Doug Votava and Dale Mahlman's pitching, Lincoln Northeast downed Southeast, 4-2, at Sherman Field Tuesday.

John Kloefkorn singled in Doug Neill, who walked, and Votava, who had singled, to score the winning run for Northeast in the third inning.

In the first inning, Bruce Reed doubled in Votava, and in the fourth, Don Hickman, a pinch runner for Mahlman, scored from second on Votava's second hit of the game.

Mahlman, the winning pitcher, now has a record of 4-2.

Mindszenty, 83, Dies; Prince Of 'Silent Church'

Vienna (UPI) — Jozsef Cardinal Mindszenty, a prince of the "silent church" who became a symbol of resistance to communism at the height of the cold war, died Tuesday in Vienna in what he called "complete and absolute exile" from his native Hungary. He was 83.

Mindszenty, convicted of treason, espionage and blackmarketeering in an infamous Communist show trial in Budapest, Hungary, in 1949, was released from life imprisonment by Hungarian freedom fighters during the 1956 Hungarian uprising.

But he was forced into a sort of self-imposed imprisonment in the U.S. embassy in Budapest when Russian troops crushed the revolt.

He remained in the embassy for 15 years until he was freed four years ago under an agreement between the Vatican and the Hungarian government. Under the amnesty, he pledged never to return to Hungary, a promise, he said later, was the "heaviest cross of my life."

The small, stooped prince of the church had opposed the Nazis before the Communists and spent nearly a third of his life in prison cells or self-imposed exile for his beliefs. He was forced to retire as primate of Hungary by Pope Paul VI last year and in the end saw the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church as his greatest enemy.

Dies After Operation

A spokesman at the palace of Vienna's Archibishop Franz Cardinal Koenig said the Mindszenty died of heart failure in a Vienna hospital Tuesday about four hours after undergoing prostate surgery. The spokesman said the doctors at the hospital "saw no reason to be concerned about his health but the strain of the operation apparently was too much."

A Vatican spokesman said Tuesday the Pope sent two messages of blessing to Mindszenty before his death.

Mindszenty spent his last years reading, praying and writing his memoirs in a home for Hungarian theology students in the Austrian town of Pazmaneum — as close as he could legally live to the Hungarian border — and maintained until his death his authority as spiritual head of the Catholic Church in Hungary.

UPI

MINDSZENTY . . . freed from prison in 1956 by freedom fighters.

He vehemently opposed the Vatican decision announcing his removal from office in Feb. 5, 1974, declaring: "Cardinal Mindszenty cannot abdicate."

He repeated those words in the final paragraph of his "memoirs," adding, "There is nothing more to say — and this is what I found waiting to greet me at the end of the road, complete and absolute exile."

In his memoirs, the cardinal said he would have remained in the embassy in Budapest but for a letter from then-President Richard Nixon which convinced him he was an unwelcome guest who had become a barrier to U.S.-Soviet detente.

Mindszenty said: "He (Nixon) recommended that I bow to my fate."

Born Jozsef Pehm March 29, 1892, he trained for the ministry as the only education open to the Hungarian poor. He changed his name to Mindszenty — after the village where he was born — and became a parish priest in 1919.

He Struggled Against Nazis

Ten days after Nazi troops occupied his country March 19, 1944, Mindszenty was appointed bishop of Veszprem and began his struggle against the Nazi regime. Seven months later he was arrested by the Nazis and remained in prison until Hungary's liberation the next year.

Pope Pius XII rewarded him with the primacy of Hungary and the red cardinal's hat as a prince of the Church.

Mindszenty was one of the princes of the "silent church" in the cold war years after World War II when the Soviet-Western alliances forged by the war against the Nazis dissolved and an Iron Curtain descended on the borders between Western and Eastern Europe.

His famous show trial in 1949, which ended in a death sentence later commuted to life imprisonment, marked the darkest period of church-state relations in Eastern Europe and brought outcries of indignation from the free world.

Visted U.S. In 1973

Mindszenty visited the United States in 1973, two years to the day after he left his exile in Budapest.

He flew into Kennedy Airport Sept. 28, 1973, and was welcomed by Terence Cardinal Cooke of New York. The next day he went to New Brunswick, N.J., where he dedicated the newly renovated Church of St. Ladislaus in that predominantly Hungarian community.

Tuesday, the bell of St. Ladislaus tolled for 50 minutes to mark his death.

Asked what Mindszenty meant to Hungarians and Hungarian-Americans, the Rev. Julian Fucer, pastor of St. Ladislaus, said: "He was our bishop, our preacher, our inspiration. The carindal was everything — the best of Christianity, the best of Hungary."

Poverty Level Revised

WASHINGTON (AP) — An urban family of four earning less than $5,050 a year is considered poor according to revised poverty-level guidelines issued Tuesday by the Labor Department.

The new income level is $500 higher than a year ago and reflects increases in consumer prices over the past 12 months, the department said.

The poverty-level income for an individual living in a metropolitan area was raised from $2,330 to $2,590. Individuals living in rural areas are considered poor if their annual income is under $2,200, a level $220 higher than a year ago.

For a rural family of four, the annual income level was raised from $3,870 to $4,300.

The guidelines are used by federal, state and local officials in administering manpower programs under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act which provides job and training opportunities for persons classified as economically disadvantared, unmployed or underemployed.

Army Engineers Seek Expansion Of Authority

Washington (AP) — The Army Engineers, seeking to expand its jurisdiction over U.S. waters, has proposed a regulation which would give it authority over every lake, stream, stock pond, irrigation ditch and marsh in the nation.

It could require farmers to obtain a permit before plowing fields adjacent to levees, dredging irrigation ditches or enlarging artificial stock ponds. It could force a mountain dweller to get federal approval to protect land against stream erosion.

The proposal, the strongest of four alternatives submitted by the agency for public comment, is supported by the Environmental Protection Agency. All four would greatly expand the Engineers' authority to regulate the dredge or fill operations involving waters or wetlands.

The proposals stem from a recent federal court decision giving the corps jurisdiction over the dumping or dredging on "waters of the United States," a phrase the Corps says has never been legally defined. The proposals represent an attempt to define the phrase, the Corps said.

The four proposals:

1. Grant the Corps authority over every coastal and inland artificial or natural body of water in the nation, including wetlands. The Corps said this "would extend federal authority to regular dredge or fill operations in the thousands of square miles of land protected by levees. In those areas farmers may require a federal permit before beinning plowing or land leveling operations."

2. Limit Corps authority over coastal waters to the mean high water mark or salt water vegetation line, whichever extends further, and inland waters to navigable waters and their primary tributaries up to their headwaters. In most cases, the Corps said, a federal permit would not be required for operations involving less than 100 cubic yards of material.

3. Extend the Engineers' authority as in proposal No. 1, but follow current procedures for issuing dredge or fill permits only in navigable waters. For other waters such as stock ponds and drainage ditches, permits would be issued unless appropriate state agencies object.

4. Extend Corps authority as in No. 2, and the issurance regulations as in No. 3. This is the proposal preferred by the Corps.

All Corps permits would be subject to revocation by the administrator of the EPA.

All comments should be submitted to the Corps by June 6.

Saigon Reds Condemn 'Robbery' By U.S.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The United States agreed Tuesday to a Thai government request to stop removing South Vietnamese aircraft flown here by refugees. But the U.S. carrier Midway sailed out of Thai waters with at least 25 jets and fighter planes already aboard.

The new Communist government in Saigon, which claimed the right to the planes, said in a Liberation Radio broadcast it had learned of the removal from Utapao Air Base and "severely condemns this robbery by the Ford government."

Other broadcasts from Saigon said the new city government will be introduced to residents at a mass rally Wednesday morning at the metropolitan administrative offices — the former presidential palace long occupied by Nguyen Van Thieu.

Live entertainment and television coverage were promised. Saigonese were urged to be bring pictures of Ho Chi Minh, be orderly, on foot and on time.

On the refugee island of Guam, the captain of a ship arrived with 5,030 Vietnamese said at least 50,000 persons had been left behind in boats in the waters off Saigon "howling and crying, 'Come back!'" Capt. Arthur Boucher, of Cherry Hill, N.J., said people were afloat in maybe 500 boats and scrambling to get on ships.

Other Vietnamese refugees continued to fly out of Guam for the United States. The United States also launched an airlift of 988 Cambodian refugees from Thailand to the United States, including former President Sau Kham Khoy.

In Washington, President Ford was quoted as saying opposition to accepting as many as 150,000 refugees from Indochina in the United States "makes me damned mad."

Broadcasts by Phnom Penh's new regime said it would respect the national and territorial integrity of neighboring states but would not allow any foreign troops on Cambodian soil. This would apply to South Vietnam, Laos and Thailand. It was not known whether North Vietnam was included.

Thai Foreign Minister Chatichai Choonhavan announced that the United States had agreed to suspend the removal of the 122 South Vietnamese military planes flown here by refugees in the last days of the old regime. State Department officials in Washington later confirmed it.

However, witnesses said at least 25 planes already had been lifted to the Midway in the Gulf of Thailand by U.S. Jolly Green Giant helicopters. Washington sources said 27 A37 light bombers and most, if not all, of 25 F5 Freedom Fighters were aboard the ship when it sailed, but this could not be confirmed by witnesses.

The United States claimed the planes because it supplied them to the former Saigon regime, but the new South Vietnamese government also claimed them as the spoils of war. Thailand, a U.S. ally that also wants to live in peace with its Communist neighbors, was caught in the middle and decided to hold onto the planes.

North Vietnam again demanded that all ships and planes used by South Vietnamese to flee their country be returned to the revolutionary government. Hanoi's official news agency, in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo, said the North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry issued a statement saying: "The Thai government should not invoke any pretext whatsoever to turn down this legitimate demand of the South Vietnamese people.

"If the Thai government connives with the U.S. by letting it usurp the property of the South Vietnamese people ... it must bear all the conseyuences of its action."

One Saigon broadcast said young volunteers cleaning city streets and putting up new political posters had given up loud shirts for plain, clean dress, and "they all wear short hair."

The new government also reported securing offshore islands and called on all vessels still hanging off shore to come back in. Starting Wednesday, the revolutionary navy announced, naval ships will be waiting for communications from Vietnamese ships at sea and will lead them safely to harbor. Earlier broadcasts said recolutionary warships had taken Truong Sa Island, in a small archipelago claimed by Vietnam, the Philippines and China.

Ford Motor President Unavailable

Charlie Casey, 31, an Oklahoma City welder, drove to Detroit in his 3-month-old Mustang II Ghia which he considers a lemon. He wanted to see Lee Iacocca, president of Ford Motor Co. Casey said he thought Iacocca would be sure to agree that the $5,400 car was a lemon. He got as far as an Iacocca assistant who said the Ford president was tied up on the telephone. Seeing Iacocca was impossible, Casey said he was told. "They made it pretty clear I shouldn't wait."

Critic Calls Committee Cut In Pentagon Proposal 'Phony'

Washington (UPI) — The House Armed Services Committe voted Tuesday to cut $3.7 billion from the Defense Department's proposed $29.8 billion weapons budget, but $1.3 billion of the cut was for military aid to South Vietnam.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., a critic of Pentagon spending, said South Vietnam military aid is a moot issue and called the overall cut "phony."

The committee voted to give the Pentagon all of the $948.5 million it asked to develop the controversial B1 bomber. It pared $45 million from the $2.7 billion sought for development of the Trident submarine and its missile system.

Meantime the Senate Armed Services Committee voted to cut $222.3 million from the B1 bomber program, a reduction intended to permit continued research and development but not a start on production.

The Senate committee also voted 10 to 4 to authorize $109 million for development of a new generation of more accurate strategic nuclear missiles. The vote overturned subcommittee rejection of the proposal, which is being sought by the administration as a new military option for the president somewhere between conventional warfare and all-out nuclear war.

The missile, described as a maneuverable re-entry vehicle or MARV, is strongly opposed by Sen. Thomas McIntyre, D-N.H., and others who fear its capability of disarming Russian missiles in their silos would invite a first-strike nuclear attack. A floor fight to defeat it was promised.

Aspin, an outspoken critic of defense spending, said the House committee's claim of a $3.7 billion cut in Pentagon requests "is phony."

"It was done with mirrors," he said. "The cut really amounts to only $1.7 billion."

Additionally, Aspin said, $933 million the committee called a cut from Navy shipbuilding requests represented a Pentagon estimate of the impact of inflation "and we're going to have to come up with that money and maybe more next year. They just put if off, not cut it."

The committee bill is only an authorization measure — in effect, a spending ceiling — and actual appropriation of money must come in a separate bill. The measure would cover a 15-month period, starting July 1, 1975, and ending Sept. 30, 1976.

The committee went along with the Pentagon request to limit pay increases for the military to 5%, but made it clear that if civilian federal pay is increased over that level then military pay would also go up.

Other cuts made by the committee included:

—$260.2 million from the $775 million the Air Force asked to develop an airborne radar system.

—$185.8 million from the $236 million requested for the advanced airborne command post.

—Elimination of the $21.8 million the Navy asked for development of the A7E attack plane.

The committee measure also gave the Pentagon nearly the exact armed services personnel level it sought, setting active duty strength by Sept. 30, 1976, for the Army at 793,000; Navy, 535,860; Marines, 196,498; and Air Force at 590,000.

Doctors' Strike Spreads To Southern California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A doctors' strike protesting soaring malpractice insurance costs spread Tuesday to Southern California.

Doctors in Los Angeles and San Diego refused to go into operating rooms in what was described as an act of support with San Francisco Bay area doctors who canceled surgery six days ago when their insurance was hiked more than 300 per cent.

At the same time about 400 doctors asked state legislators in Sacramento for relief from higher rates, as Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. weighed whether to call a special legislative session to find a solution to the malpractice crisis.

As Northern California doctors refused to treat many patients in the sixth day of their partial boycott, an estimated 250 doctors staged a one-day walkout in San Diego, where a spot check showed less than 25 per cent of the operating rooms in 10 major hospitals in use.

In Los Angeles, nonemergency surgery at 10 hospitals was canceled and reduced at two others as doctors staged a one-day walkout to support demands for massive reform of the medical malpractice system.

"Unlike Northern California, where the insurance has been canceled, doctors here still have insurance," said Steve Gamble, a vice president of the Los Angeles Hospital Council. "This is really a sympathy demonstration to get the problem corrected before it affects us down here."

Rail District Eyes Conflict

Legally, there appears to be no conflict of interest problem which would arise from the appointment of John Longsdorf as director (executive officer) of the Lincoln-Lancaster Railroad Transportation Safety district (RTSD).

Longsdorf, who has worked as a "coordinator" for the district for two years, is on leave of absence from the Union Pacific Railroad. UP is one of six railroads involved in RSTD relocation projects. Earlier the RSTD board's attorney issued an opinion which said no legal conflict of interest would exist between Longsdorf's corporate ties and his duties as an employe for a quasi-governmental body. The board had decided to officially name Longsdorf to the directorship which was vacated by the resignation of now-County Engineer Marvin Nuernberger.

Now the board has changed its mind and has delayed the appointment. It has asked the Society of Professional Engineers for its opinion on whether a conflict of interest would exist (in the professional sense, we presume) if Longsdorf were named to the post.

Longsdorf's competence is not at issue. His link with the Union Pacific is.

We think that the average person would question the propriety or the appearances of a railroad employe acting in an executive capacity for a tax-supported agency which will be making far-reaching decisions about the relocation of rail routes in this county and which has to work with half a dozen railroads. The appearance of conflict, at least, is overwhelming.

The RSTD board is on the right track in asking for another opinion as to potential conflict.

How's Your Blood Pressure?

It would appear that the Nebraska Heart Association's hypertension screening program being conducted all this month is off to a good start. Lincoln spokesmen for the program noted that the free high blood pressure detecting clinics last Sunday drew substantial numbers of people.

The heart association's statewide hypertension screening program is one of the most ambitious health programs ever to be undertaken in Nebraska. Hopefully over 100,000 people in the state will be checked. This is due respect for a killer disease.

The program could do a world of good for a significant number of people who don't realize they may have this specific health problem.

High blood pressure undetected and untreated can lead to heart failure, kidney failure or stroke. Detected and treated, the chances of heart or kidney failure or stroke are considerably lessened. The heart association notes: "the frightening thing about high blood pressure is that people are apathetic about the disease. They can't seem to take seriously a disease that does not make them feel sick".

We hope the attention devoted to high blood pressure this month will make people think seriously about it. Black Americans have special cause to be aware of hypertension, or high blood pressure, since they are twice as prone as white Americans to suffer from it.

Each Sunday in May free high blood pressure checks will be available from 1 to 5 p.m. at Treasure City, 27th and Hwy. 2; Gateway Shopping Center Mall; Richman-Gordman, 48th and Vine; K-Ray Pharmacy, Belmont Shopping Center; YWCA, Havelock; Walgreen Pharmacy, 48th and Normal; Treasure City, 48th and Leighton; Brandeis, 11th and O; Open Door Health Center, 25th and R; K-Ray Pharmacy, Westgate Shopping Center and Indian Village Pharmacy. Lincoln-Lancaster Health Dept. nurses will staff similar screening centers the same Sunday hours at public health nursing stations in Raymond and Hickman and the shopping center at Waverly. Other screening clinics will be held throughout the state.

Why not make a point of visiting one of the clinics? Just a few minutes could make years and years of difference.

Price-Fixing Advances

The liquor price-fixers won another round this week when LB204 survived a kill motion and then won second stage approval with enough votes for enactment.

LB204 would require that retail liquor prices be at least 15% above wholesale cost. Supposedly the bill is designed to protect the "little guy" liquor retailer from the price advantages offered by high volume retail dealers and the use of bargain liquor prices as loss leader items by stores which primarily sell other merchandise.

Any way you cut it, it is price-fixing.

More than helping the little guy retailer compete with the big guy, in our opinion, it will guarantee a bigger gross for all retailers and amount to a tighter grip on the consumer's pocketbook by the liquor industry.

The senators keep passing this kind of stuff and the governor keeps vetoing it. When will people wake up and tell the senators to knock it off?

TOM WICKER

Deficits And Democrats

WASHINGTON — A comprehensive poll taken for the Republican National Committee confirms the finding of other surveys that the American people, remarkably enough, still regard inflation as the No. 1 problem of the nation, with unemployment rates second. Yet, unemployment rose to 8.9% of the work force in April, a post-World War II record, while the rate of inflation has been declining in recent months.

In another part of the Republican poll, however, respondents were asked which issue was most important for them personally, rather than for the country generally. Six out of 10 said unemployment was more important to them personally than inflation — which suggests that it would be a political error of the first magnitude for either party to worry too much about inflation at the expense of putting people back to work.

That is just what some congressional Democrats — for example, the able Rep. Ab Mikva of Illinois, a member of the Ways and Means Committee — fear their party may be doing. Mikva thinks a $3.6 billion program to create 450,000 public service jobs, for instance, is much too limited at a time when eight million persons are out of work and another half-million are so discouraged they've stopped looking for jobs.

The new House budget committee, moreover, has assumed a target of reducing unemployment only to 7.4% by the end of calendar 1976 — a goal so conservative that many Democrats regard it as unacceptable. The Senate budget committee's unemployment target is even more conservative — 8% by the end of July 1976.

Mikva believes that the Democrat's relative reluctance to provide for more public service jobs is due in part to over-confidence that the big tax reduction bill already passed provides sufficient stimulus to economic recovery. But another major reason, in his opinion, is an active fear of increasing the huge deficits already in prospect, and being blamed for those deficits by President Ford.

The House budget committee proposes a deficit of $73.2 billion for fiscal year 1976; the Senate committee proposal would produce a deficit of $69.6 billion. Ford's budget calculated that there would be a $60 billion deficit, and he has left no doubt that he would attack as inflationary any deficit out of the general $60 to $70 billion range.

In fact, however, the $73 billion deficit projected by the House would represent 4.4% of a Gross National Product estimated at $1.7 trillion. The Democratic Study Group has pointed out that the $12.8 billion deficit for fiscal year 1959, during the last big recession, was about 4% of that year's G.N.P. Since the unemployment situation now is worse than it was then, a deficit beyond the $60 billion to $70 billion range would not necessarily be out of line.

Both George Meany of the A.F.L.-C.I.O. and Rep. Brock Adams of Washington, chairman of the budget committee, contend that the primary cause of the deficit is going to be the recession itself, rather than excessive spending by Congress. That is, every increase of one per cent in unemployment in today's economy results in a $16 billion increase in the federal budget deficit.

That $16 billion is accounted for by $14 billion in lost tax revenues and $2 billion in increased spending for unemployment compensation. Adams therefore calculated that if unemployment could somehow be reduced to 4.2% in fiscal 1976, the Ford budget would be in balance and the House and Senate budget proposals not far out.

No amount of job-creating programs, of course, could produce a result so spectacular, but these figures do suggest that, as Meany told a House subcommittee, "The problem is not the budget and the budget deficit. The problem is the jobs."

Aside from these economic calculations, there may be a good political reason for the Democrats to open up the purse and the deficit in an effort to put more people back to work. Ford intends to capitalize upon any improvement in the unemployment rate in 1976 to claim that under his administration, the recession has bottomed out and things are looking up. And while the Democrats will counter that, if so, it was their tax cut that was responsible, a president in office usually gets much public credit for improving economic times.

On the other hand, what will the Democrats be able to claim? For the party of Franklin Roosevelt to go into an election campaign boasting an unemployment target of over 7% is not much of a platform, tax cut or no tax cut.

But if the Democrats openly accept Ford's challenge on the budgetary issue, with the stated purpose of putting people back to work more quickly than he or they now contemplate, they will have a traditional Democratic platform and can make the solid economic claim that they are attacking the major cause of the deficit — unemployment.

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. — "You and I haven't had a cup of coffee together in a long time," said Richard Nixon. He had fixed this pot himself, and hastened to assure a frowning secretary that it was the first cup he had tasted all afternoon. Evidently he has been forced to cut back on his Navy coffee-guzzling habit.

The last time I had seen him was during the final week of his presidency, nine months ago, when he was under as much strain as any political figure had ever undergone. Since then Nixon had survived his brush with death and conflicting reports had come out of San Clemente that the former President was either morose or confident, still in poor health or on the mend.

Nixon has not given any press interviews since his resignation, and will not give one now; he will say his piece in his own time and his own way. Under those rules, a visit by a former colleague turned journalist hardly seemed a good idea before, but on the day that Russian-built tanks knocked down the gates of the presidential palace in Saigon, it seemed to me useful to history to spend some time with Nixon under any rules.

No hard news in this column, then, either direct or indirect, about the Nixon reaction to the collapse of South Vietnam, the embittered charges of ex-President Thieu or the triumphs of isolationism in the United States. Only some general impressions of mine, for what they are worth:

He looks much better. The haunted, hunted look of the final days in the White House-turned-bunker is gone. He is ruddy from the California sun, able to talk for an hour or so with a visitor without visibly tiring; the hand holding the coffee cup is steady.

He sits with his leg elevated on the ottoman of the velvet-covered chair that traveled with him from his New York apartment in the 60's, to the Lincoln sitting room, and finally to the office of what used to be called the Western White House on Coast Guard property near Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Nixon is not unmindful of the irony of Camp Pendleton's being the receiving point for so many of South Vietnam's refugees. It is as if they and he, who had been locked together throughout his presidency, wound up abandoned on the same doorstep though there is considerable difference between their straits and his. A cartoon in the Los Angeles Times shows a refugee, bowl in hand, at the door of Nixon's home: "We're your Camp Pendleton neighbors, Mr. Nixon; may we borrow a cup of rice?"

Such mocking by fate cannot but hurt, and the renaming of Saigon as Ho Chi Minh City — which had been the communist goal all the while they had been professing talk of peace — surely smarts as well. But Nixon remains publicly silent, not even putting out any "it is known that he believes" leaks, because he is determined not to say anything or empower anybody to hint at anything that might be construed as less than total support of President Ford and Secretary Kissinger.

Talking to Nixon now is a more heartening experience than anticipated because he has begun to look ahead, and no longer spends all his time brooding about everything that went sour. He is well briefed on current affairs, presumably from intelligence sources as well as from newspapers, and I hope he will have something to say about foreign policy before the fall of 1977, when his book is scheduled to appear.

Meanwhile, he has started work on his memoirs. He is limited to a few hours each day, during a period of convalescence that he expects to last until the fall, when he plans to increase his work load. He has been forced to begin at the beginning: Because the records of his White House years have not yet been made available to him, he has begun pouring over materials about his early life, his family, his beginnings in politics, his vice presidential years, the 1960 defeat and his comeback.

Needless to say, this is not the portion of his memoirs for which the public breathlessly awaits, and he is aware that what he has to say about the 18 months following his re-election will determine how anything else he has to say will be received.

But the law's delay in permitting his access to his White House records dictates his current subject matter, which is generally uplifting to work on. His fatalism is back, which is a source of strength, and when visitors probe to get his current feelings about Messrs. Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Mitchell and other unpardoned old colleagues, the former President expresses only sadness for the wreckage of their lives.

Nixon massages his knee and flexes it to get it to work, then rises to walk a visitor to the door. He wonders what souvenir he can give the visitor to take away, since there are no more presidential cuff links or golf balls for the concluding gesture he likes to make. A picture of Nixon in retirement — "the blue-coat shot" autographed by him, and not by Rose Woods for him — hits the spot.

In parting, the former President says matter-of-factly, "I'm surviving." And so he is; for the Ishmael of American politics, life goes on.

The Countdown

Blair, Neb.

The first session of the 84th Unicameral is drawing to a close. Everything considered, to this point, the Legislature has done above averagely well, notwithstanding the expected demogoguery of Ernie Chambers, still "raking up old leaves" and still insisting on trying to get his colleagues to intrude into spheres in which they do not belong — still beating racist drums.

In the fading moments of this session, a majority of our legislators would do well to heed the warnings and challenges of Governor Exon. They should stay clear of improvident spending measures and should forget personal pique and frustration in their thoughtful consideration of legislation considered in the final hectic days. I would hope that they weigh most carefully all gubernatorial vetoes, particularly before any overriding efforts.

It Was Not A Joke

Lincoln, Neb.

As a teacher in one of the elementary schools and the mother of a sixth-grader at Prescott School, I would like to voice disapproval of Ivan Travnicek's article in last Friday's Star. The headline, several paragraphs and the cartoon-like picture conveyed to the reader that this presentation was some kind of joke. Obviously Mr. Travnicek lacks the understanding he should have to write about kids.

The pupils and teachers in Unit C at Prescott spent many hours of study and planning before Monday night's excellent program. They worked hard and long and learned much. They deserve a great deal of credit for their interest in how their state government works.

One of our goals as parents and educators should be to help each child improve his self-image. How much kinder it would have been if Mr. Travnicek had thought through what he wrote and had capitalized on building up the self-image of Mike and all his classmates.

I would like to make it known that I am not the James Hoyt whose name appeared in editorial ads supporting Citizens for Concerned Government. I am a city employe and can neither support nor imply support of any candidate.

Furthermore, I would not have my name on this ad if I were NOT a city employe. I would suggest that in the future, those who lend their names to such campaigns have the convictions to use their middle initials and addresses.

What 'Wilderness' Means

Lincoln, Neb.

We noticed the letter from the person who wrote, saying that Wilderness Park is an eyesore, with weeds and old trees. We wonder if he knows what the word "wilderness" means. According to Webster's Dictionary, it means: "A tract or region uncultivated and uninhabited by human beings."

We have enough parks in Lincoln with the grass getting a haircut every week. Why can't we show our children a real piece of land that is untouched by man? Our kids are going to see lots of four-lane highways in their lifetimes.

We are in favor of Wilderness Park's being left alone.

Sport Of Ice-Skating

Lincoln, Neb.

I would like to comment on ice-skating in Lincoln. My son has for several years made one to two trips a day to Omaha so that he could actively engage in skating. It is my understanding that the ice at both Ak-Sar-Ben and Benson Park is used up to 20 hours a day, seven days a week. This is with Pee-Wee Hockey, 4-H Skating, professional hockey, university hockey, public skating and the Omaha Figure Skating Club.

Many times I have heard from Pershing Auditorium that the reason there is no skating is that they must make a profit — this, in spite of the fact that it is a municipal auditorium, incorporated on a non-profit basis. To give some idea of the extent to which the so-called profit incentive is used in our auditorium, it should be noted that the City Recreation Department makes payments to the auditorium for certain public skating time. My son has been requested, during certain teaching sessions sponsored by the City Recreation Department when ice is available, to assist and teach skating which he gladly and voluntarily does. When inquiry was made of Pershing officials if he could practice on those days when he assisted in teaching ice-skating to children, when no one else was on the ice, the profit incentive was the response — yes, he could practice — for $40 an hour! Some days he practices four to eight hours. Upon completion of the teaching sessions, when no one else is using the ice at Pershing, he must then go to Omaha so that he can practice.

The Lincoln Figure Skating Club at one time had over 100 members who were very active; this was at a time when the auditorium indebtedness was retired. With a change in auditorium management and the ensuing lack of ice, the club has now disbanded and many of its members go to Omaha. The University of Nebraska Hockey Team practices in Omaha, often at midnight or later, due to the lack of ice here.

On the rare occasions when the auditorium has had ice available for public skating, with the minimum of publicity to the general public, most sessions have been crowded, particularly the late sessions (for university students). During Christmas vacation, the response to the City Recreation Skating Program was overwhelming. The scheduled classes were filled well in advance, and the number who came to the auditorium without prior registration required three additional instructors. Private groups requested the ice for skating parties between public sessions, adding to the profit incentive.

These are rare instances, however, as there is no regular ice schedule and advance planning for classes and/or parties is not possible.

Possibly our profit incentive should be looked at from another standpoint; the profit that is available might not necessarily go to the City Auditorium. However, in the long-run, we might save some of the taxpayers' money from being expended by the juvenile and police departments by giving the youth and other citizens of our city the opportunity to use up some of their energies in the good, clean sport of ice-skating, whether it be playing hockey or figure skating. If ice were available, it would give the citizens of the community something to do instead of walking the streets and wondering what to do, particularly in the winter months when most recreation is forced indoors.

A Corrupt Society

DuBois, Neb.

I wonder if the Vietnamese refugee program isn't another one of the real or potential disasters that continually seem to originate in the White House.

By now it should be apparent to everyone that the collapse of South Vietnam was caused largely by corruption throughout their society. This corruption was fouled by over-abundant U.S. aid but nevertheless was developed and perpetuated by a certain undesirable element of that society.

It can also be safely assumed that the most elite corps of that army of corruption have become refugees to the U.S. These people have contributed immeasurably to the collapse of their own homeland.

My question is, what will they contribute to ours?

Mindszenty, 83, Dies; Prince Of 'Silent Church'

Vienna (UPI) — Jozsef Cardinal Mindszenty a prince of the "silent church" who became a symbol of resistance to communism at the height of the cold war, died Tuesday in Vienna in what he called "complete and absolute exile" from his native Hungary. He was 83.

Mindszenty, convicted of treason, espionage and blackmarketeering in an infamous Communist show trial in Budapest, Hungary, in 1949 was released from life imprisonment by Hungarian freedom fighters during the 1956 Hungarian uprising.

But he was forced into a sort of self-imposed imprisonment in the U.S. embassy in Budapest when Russian troops crushed the revolt.

He remained in the embassy for 15 years until he was freed four years ago under an agreement between the Vatican and the Hungarian government. Under the amnesty, he pledged never to return to Hungary, a promise, he said later, was the "heaviest cross of my life."

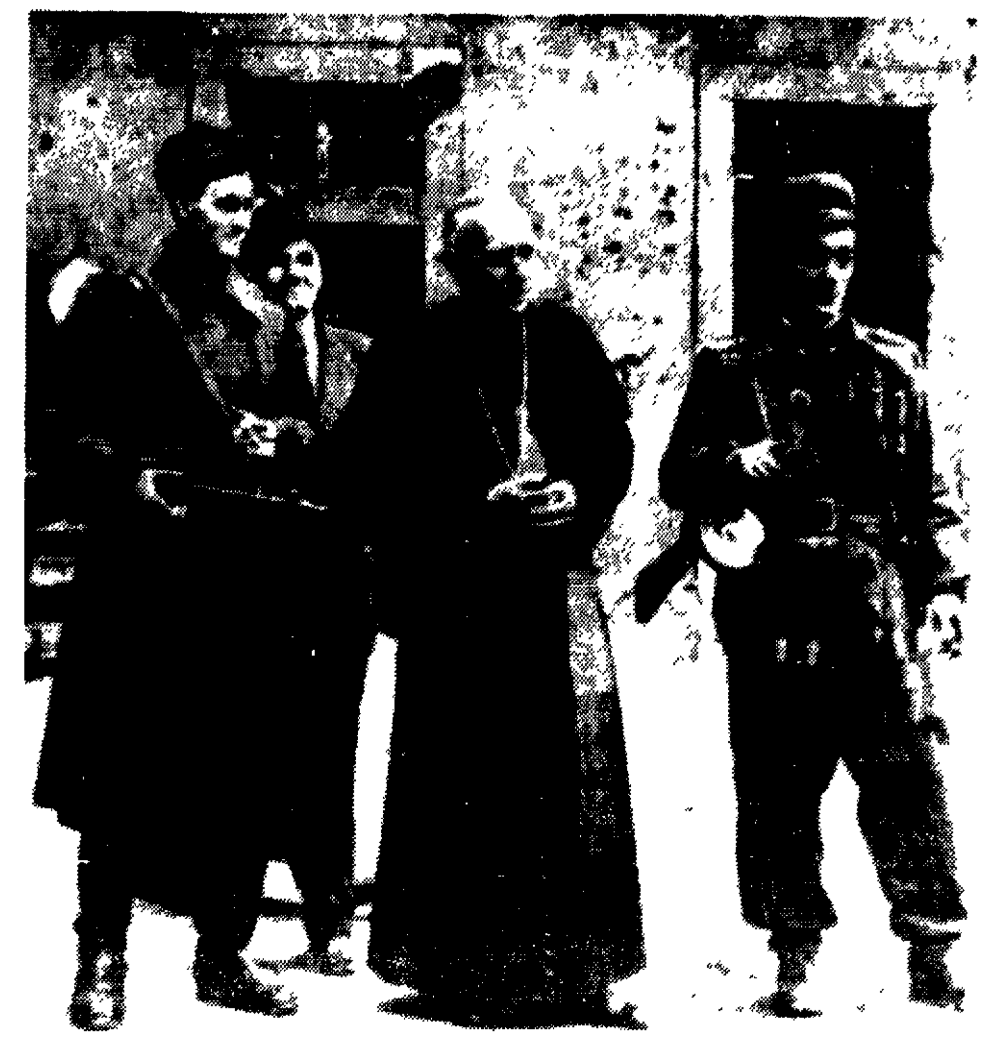
The small, stooped prince of the church had opposed the Nazis before the Communists and spent nearly a third of his life in prison cells or self-imposed exile for his beliefs. He was forced to retire as primate of Hungary by Pope Paul VI last year and in the end saw the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church as his greatest enemy.

Dies After Operation

A spokesman at the palace of Vienna's Archibishop Franz Cardinal Koenig said the Mindszenty died of heart failure in a Vienna hospital Tuesday about four hours after undergoing prostate surgery. The spokesman said the doctors at the hospital "saw no reason to be concerned about his health but the strain of the operation apparently was too much."

A Vatican spokesman said Tuesday the Pope sent two messages of blessing to Mindszenty before his death.

Mindszenty spent his last years reading, praying and writing his memoirs in a home for Hungarian theology students in the Austrian town of Pazmaneum — as close as he could legally live to the Hungarian border — and maintained until his death his authority as spiritual head of the Catholic Church in Hungary.



UPI

MINDSZENTY . . . freed from prison in 1956 by freedom fighters.

He vehemently opposed the Vatican decision announcing his removal from office in Feb. 5, 1974, declaring. "Cardinal Mindszenty cannot abdicate."

He repeated those words in the final paragraph of his "memoirs," adding, "There is nothing more to say — and this is what I found waiting to greet me at the end of the road, complete and absolute exile."

In his memoirs, the cardinal said he would have remained in the embassy in Budapest but for a letter from then-President Richard Nixon which convinced him he was an unwelcome guest who had become a barrier to U.S.-Soviet detente.

Mindszenty said: "He (Nixon) recommended that I bow to my fate."

Born Jozsef Pehm March 29, 1892, he trained for the ministry as the only education open to the Hungarian poor. He changed his name to Mindszenty — after the village where he was born — and became a parish priest in 1919.

He Struggled Against Nazis

Ten days after Nazi troops occupied his country March 19, 1944, Mindszenty was appointed bishop of Veszprem and began his struggle against the Nazi regime. Seven months later he was arrested by the Nazis and remained in prison until Hungary's liberation the next year.

Pope Pius XII rewarded him with the primacy of Hungary and the red cardinal's hat as a prince of the Church.

Mindszenty was one of the princes of the "silent church" in the cold war years after World War II when the Soviet-Western alliances forged by the war against the Nazis dissolved and an Iron Curtain descended on the borders between Western and Eastern Europe.

His famous show trial in 1949, which ended in a death sentence later commuted to life imprisonment, marked the darkest period of church-state relations in Eastern Europe and brought outcries of indignation from the free world.

Visted U.S. In 1973

Mindszenty visited the United States in 1973, two years to the day after he left his exile in Budapest.

He flew into Kennedy Airport Sept. 28, 1973, and was welcomed by Terence Cardinal Cooke of New York. The next day he went to New Brunswick, N.J., where he dedicated the newly renovated Church of St. Ladislaus in that predominantly Hungarian community.

Tuesday, the bell of St. Ladislaus tolled for 50 minutes to mark his death.

Asked what Mindszenty meant to Hungarians and Hungarian-Americans, the Rev. Julian Fucer, pastor of St. Ladislaus, said: "He was our bishop, our preacher, our inspiration. The carindal was everything — the best of Christianity, the best of Hungary."

Poverty Level Revised

WASHINGTON (AP) — An urban family of four earning less than $5,050 a year is considered poor according to revised poverty-level guidelines issued Tuesday by the Labor Department.

The new income level is $500 higher than a year ago and reflects increases in consumer prices over the past 12 months, the department said.

The poverty-level income for an individual living in a metropolitan area was raised from $2,330 to $2,590. Individuals living in rural areas are considered poor if their annual income is under $2,200, a level $220 higher than a year ago.

For a rural family of four, the annual income level was raised from $3,870 to $4,300.

The guidelines are used by federal, state and local officials in administering manpower programs under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act which provides job and training opportunities for persons classified as economically disadvantared, unmployed or underemployed.

Army Engineers Seek Expansion Of Authority

Washington (AP) — The Army Engineers, seeking to expand its jurisdiction over U.S. waters, has proposed a regulation which would give it authority over every lake, stream, stock pond, irrigation ditch and marsh in the nation.

It could require farmers to obtain a permit before plowing fields adjacent to levees, dredging irrigation ditches or enlarging artificial stock ponds. It could force a mountain dweller to get federal approval to protect land against stream erosion.

The proposal, the strongest of four alternatives submitted by the agency for public comment, is supported by the Environmental Protection Agency All four would greatly expand the Engineers' authority to regulate the dredge or fill operations involving waters or wetlands

The proposals stem from a recent federal court decision giving the corps jurisdiction over the dumping or dredging on "waters of the United States," a phrase the Corps says has never been legally defined. The proposals represent an attempt to define the phrase, the Corps said.

The four proposals:

1. Grant the Corps authority over every coastal and inland artificial or natural body of water in the nation, including wetlands. The Corps said this "would extend federal authority to regular dredge or fill operations in the thousands of square miles of land protected by levees. In those areas farmers may require a federal permit before beinning plowing or land leveling operations."

2. Limit Corps authority over coastal waters to the mean high water mark or salt water vegetation line, whichever extends further, and inland waters to navigable waters and their primary tributaries up to their headwaters In most cases, the Corps said, a federal permit would not be required for operations involving less than 100 cubic yards of material.

3. Extend the Engineers' authority as in proposal No. 1, but follow current procedures for issuing dredge or fill permits only in navigable waters. For other waters such as stock ponds and drainage ditches, permits would be issued unless appropriate state agencies object.

4. Extend Corps authority as in No. 2, and the issurance regulations as in No. 3. This is the proposal preferred by the Corps.

All Corps permits would be subject to revocation by the administrator of the EPA.

All comments should be submitted to the Corps by June 6.

Basement Gives Shelter As House Blows Away

By JOEL THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Omaha — the hospitalization of a cancer-stricken cousin was the occasion for Ev Meritt's ill-timed visit to Omaha. She and her daughter Sherri Meritt, both of Rapid City, S.D., were with the failing woman's husband, Lee McMahill, at his home when the tornado sirens went off.

McMahill luckily had a basement to provide shelter. Five minutes later, that was all he had. The three, huddled shaking but uninjured in the basement, looked up to find the house had blown away.

Lifted off the foundation by a tornado which ravaged west Omaha Tuesday afternoon, the McMahill house blew across 84th St. — four lanes wide with a median — and disintegrated in a chaos of toothpicks and two-by-fours in the backyard of the Michael Tierney residence facing the next street to the west.

'Can't Rebuild'

At least a half-dozen homes on that street, So. 84th Ave., were severely damaged, most of them demolished. "I don't know what people are going to do now," said Tierney, shaking his head. "They can't rebuild. These houses are a total loss."

Fortunately, he said, no one in the neighborhood was injured.

Tierney's house at 4965 So. 84th Ave. was in relatively good shape. The twister had exploded the roof of his kitchen, but the rest of the house — and most of the Tierney family's personal belongings — were intact.

His next-door neighbor, Andrew Perich of 4977 So. 84th Ave., was not so fortunate. The roof of his house, along with much of the family's personal property, had vanished. The house was a total loss. "I hope I'm insured," he said.

Saw Apartments Hit

Perich said he watched from the southwest window of his sunken family room as the massive, undefined black cloud ripped its way through the Wentworth Apartments — a huge complex of rental units to the southwest of his home and perhaps a quarter-mile away across an open field. "You could see it picking up everything," he said. "It just boiled."

He and his daughter Anita hurriedly took cover. Like everyone else on the block, they escaped serious injury as the twister destroyed their home.

"You heard the hollow sound, like a big roar, and then the glass started flying," said Perich, who added he has seen other tornadoes in Oklahoma. "You're just lucky to be alive," he said.

The next house to the south was also in ruins. Maureen Murphy, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Rovert A. Murphy of 4983 So. 84th Ave., arrived home from school just in time to warn her mother. Rev. Murphy was away.

Barely Got Downstairs'

"It was just coming across Wentworth when I got home," Maureen said. "We just barely got downstairs." She said the twister made a buzzing sound as it passed over and created a tremendous pressure in the ears.

Next door to the Murphys at 8404 Lakeview stood the wrecked home of the Robert Frieszes. A married Friesz daughter, helping her mother and two brothers salvage personal effects, wondered aloud whose insurance would replace the demolished home. Her parents had just sold it, she said.

Across Lakeview, in an indirect line between Wentworth and storm-wrecked So. 84th Ave., a row of mobile homes stood completely intact. A few trailer-dwellers stood in their yard surveying the damage across the street in disbelief.

Bedlam of Ambulances

The aftermath of the storm was a bedlam of ambulances evacuating the injured from Wentworth Apts., policemen diverting curious crowds of persons to keep traffic lanes open for emergency vehicles, and homeowners trying to sustain a cheerful graveyard humor as they searched through the rubble for their belongings.

McMahill, troubled already by his wife's illness, now stood in his neighbor's backyard next to his beached bathtub, a dazed look on his face, trying to smile. Half a dozen friends sifted through the splinters of his house, sorting clothes and knickknacks and furniture into piles.

Was his house insured? "I hope so," he said. "I don't know where the insurance papers are, but I'm not going to worry about that now. There's too much to do."

the storm struck. She said when they came out of the basement "the building was gone."

Authorities said 1,000 persons were evacuated from the heart of the stricken area in southwest Omaha when a gas main broke.

Hospital Damaged

The Bergan-Mercy Hospital's self care unit, housing 35 patients, was destroyed. The tornado also broke windows, overturned furniture and brought down ceilings throughout the rest of the hospital.

Some workers and patients suffered injuries, most injured by flying glass.

However, the hospital remained in operation, treating at least some 50 of the injured.

"Generally, the medical injuries are pretty well under control," said Public Safety Director Richard Roth. "Sightseers are the biggest problem . . . There are a lot of power lines down and it is dangerous for people to come into the area."

Exon was in Omaha for a speaking engagement Tuesday night at Offutt Air Force Base. Mayor Zorinsky was speaking to about 60 elementary school students at the new City-County building when the tornado hit.

Taken Underground

The mayor said, "We told the students they were going to see a part of the building most classes never see." The students were then escorted to the underground floors as a safety precaution.

Everett Rokahr, a teacher, was in Grandmother's Lounge, a few blocks from the Wentworth complex, when the tornado struck. He said everyone inside made it downstairs before the twister destroyed the brick and steel building.

About two miles north at Temple Israel, Rabbi Sidney Brooks was conducting classes for about 20 youngsters when the tornado knocked out all of the windows, damaged the ceiling and broke water mains. He said about four children were cut.

Possibly Twin Funnel

Weathermen said that one large twister or possibly a twin funnel cloud caused the damage in the northwest section. They had no immediate explanation for the devastation in the southwest.

Storm sirens began an eerie wail over Omaha about 4:30 p.m. as black clouds moved in from the southwest on the wings of a weak and slow-moving cold front. When the sirens stopped at 5:15 p.m., the skies had lightened and the twisters were gone. Hail, high winds and heavy rain accompanied the storm.

Amateur Radio Course Planned

The Union College Amateur Radio Club is offering a 24-week amateur radio course beginning Sunday, May 18, at the college's Jorgenson Hall.

No experience is necessary to enroll in the class. Participants will be eligible for a novice class license when the class ends.

Race Track Just Missed By Funnel

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Tuesday has to rank as one of the most harrowing days in the history of Ak-Sar-Ben horse racing.

"Sure, we were scared," admitted Ak-Sar-Ben executive director and general manager Dick Becker after a tornado narrowly missed striking the track during the height of Tuesday's racing program.

"We had heard about the storm warnings all morning," Becker said. "Our security people were on the roof and I think it was at about 4:40 that I told Bill (track announcer Bill Murphy) to read the announcement."

Murphy told patrons to move inside the grandstand away from exposed areas.

With that, roof personnel — including stewards, placing judges and newsmen — raced downstairs as the tornado loomed near the Ak-Sar-Ben area. Apparently, Murphy and director of racing Neal Chicutt were the last to leave the roof.

"We read the announcement at 4:40 and we raced again at 5 p.m.," Becker said. "Of course, I was worried we might have to call the whole program off. We really didn't know where it (tornado) was or how many there were.

"Our security people told us a huge tornado was heading right towards us and then suddenly it swerved down 72nd St.," Becker said. "We were real fortunate that there was no damage here."

Heavy damage was reported around the immediate Ak-Sar-Ben area, but apparently the barns, grandstand and grounds area at the track escaped the fury of the storm.

After the tornado had passed, Becker said the Omaha Police Department and Ak-Sar-Ben were in close contact as to whether or not to proceed with the scheduled program.

"They advised us not to call off the races and send 8,000 or 9,000 people out on the streets," Becker said. "The outside gates leading to and from the track were blocked temporarily."

Ak-Sar-Ben officials turned on the public pay telephones after the storm passed to allow patrons to call out and inform their friends and relatives they were safe. Rules prohibit the public telephones from being in operation during racing hours.

The storm delayed the start of the third race about six minutes. The rest of the program continued without incident, although it was obvious the patrons and officials were still jittery.

Two Hurt

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Steve Krisiloff sustained a foot injury Tuesday afternoon when his racer bumped the wall twice and hit the pit entrance at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Earlier in the day, rookie Chuck Gurney, 26, Livermore, Calif., escaped injury when his car tangled with the wall.

Three-time "500" champion A.J. Foyt also made his 1975 debut at the track and quickly installed himself among the speed leaders in practice for the May 25 Indianapolis 500mile race.

Krisiloff, Parsippany, N.J., was taken to Methodist Hospital for treatment of the foot injury after his machine crashed coming out of the No. 4 turn just 17 minutes before the track closed for the day.

The racer, which was extensively damaged, went out of control, did a half-spin and bumped the inside wall, slid 186 feet, thumped the wall again, spun around and went another 183 feet, hitting the pit entrance. In all, the car traveled 829 feet from the point it went out of contol until it stopped.

Gurney lost control in the No. 2 turn and hit the inside retaining wall near the spot where veteran Mike Hiss cracked up Monday. Jigger Sirois, Hammond, Ind., crashed Sunday in the No. 1. He escaped injury.

Opponents Dream, Flyers Roll To Stanley Cup Finals Berth

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — While their outclassed opponents still are dreaming about miracles, the high-rolling Philadelphia Flyers will be seeking to stretch their unbeaten skein to an incredible 22 games Wednesday night and gain entrance to the Stanley Cup finals.

In as perfect a defense as any defending champion could hope for, the Flyers swept past Toronto in four games in their opening round and now have taken the first three games of the semifinals from the New York Islanders.

Another victory Wednesday night would give the Flyers their second consecutive playoff sweep and send them into the final round against the survivor of the Buffalo-Montreal series.

The Islanders have been in this situation before—just two weeks ago, in fact—when they lost the first three games against Pittsburgh before rallying to become only the second team in National Hockey League history to rebound from such a deficit.

"Here we go all over again," Islander Captain Eddie Westfall joked Tuesday, mindful of the fact that although they are in the same state, Philadelphia isn't Pittsburgh. "We don't seem to get going until we're three games down."

New York Coach Al Arbour, also aware that his season may not extend more than another game, added of his players, "They've got to feel their backs against the wall."

Making the Islander task even more hopeless was the return to duty of goaltender Bernie Parent to the Philadelphia net in Sunday's 1-0 victory. In his five playoff games this season, Parent has three shutouts.

For its part, New York has been hurt by the failure of Bob Nystrom, its leading goal scorer during the regular season with 27, to score once in 13 games. He has been stopped on 41 shots, and following Sunday's game he said, "Okay, no more. Enough's been said about it. I've cried enough about it. I'm going to try not to let it bother me anymore. I've gotten to where I'm worried too much about scoring a goal and not thinking at all about other things, like checking."

Arbour indicated he would make some line changes for Wednesday's game, and the obvious one would be to return Bob Bourne to the lineup. The rookie center hasn't been dressed for the last seven games.

One note of muted optimism was struck by Islander defenseman Denis Potvin, who said, "We're going to have to open up against them. We're going to have to play a strong defensive game too, though. We're going to have to score three or four goals a game. If we do we can win the series. We'll have to leave it to the defense to hold them to two."

Opener Slated

Hastings — Hastings Raceway will have its season opener Friday night at 8 at the Adams County Fairgrounds with late model stock cars, modifieds and a new sportsman class.

Cyclones Sign Prep Gymnast Robert Taylor

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Robert "Tiger" Taylor, regarded as the nation's top all-around high school-age gymnast, will attend Iowa State University next fall, ISU gym Coach Ed Gagnier said Tuesday.

Taylor, Valparaiso, Fla., won the national AAU Junior Olympic all around title in 1969, 1971 and 1974. Taylor also captured individual titles in floor exercise, vaulting, parallel bars and high bar in the 1974 Junior Olympic meet.

He did not compete on the high school level because his school did not field a team.

"Tiger was my top prospect this year," said Gagnier, who has led the Cyclones to seven consecutive Big Eight championships and two NCAA titles in the past three years.

Pimlico Entries At Seven

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Golden Chance Farm's Master Derby, fourth in the Kentucky Derby, Tuesday became the seventh colt to join the lineup of expected starters in the 100th running of the Preakness Stakes May 17 at Pimlico.

Master Derby's trainer, W.E. "Smiley" Adams, informed Pimlico General Manager Chick Lang that he plans to ship the son of Dust Commander from Louisville by van Thursday evening and is expected to arrive at Pimlico Friday morning.

Master Derby had won five straight races, including the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland and the Louisiana Derby at New Orleans, before finishing fourth in the Kentucky Derby.

Supreme Court To Uphold Durousseau Suspension?

State Racing Commission attorneys Tuesday asked the State Supreme Court to uphold a lower court's decision supporting a commission revocation of L. J. Durousseau's jockey license.

The suspension resulted from a finding that Durousseau had attempted to use a mechanical device in the eighth race at Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha on May 9, 1974.

The device was found during a check of jockeys just prior to the race. Durousseau, however, said he had no knowledge of the device and never saw it before a steward's hearing.

In terms of legal points, the jockey's attorneys argued there were procedural defects in the handling of the matter by the State Racing Commission. The Douglas County District Court disagreed and the man's attorneys appealed.

Commission attorneys told the high court the commission had no choice but to suspend the jockey under the circumstances in the name of the public interest.

"It is difficult to imagine a circumstance in which public interest is more entwined with licensure than in racing," the attorneys said. "Bettors are betting in excess of $10,000 per race and in excess of $1,000,000 per day and the state is receiving parimutuel taxes in the millions of dollars."

Therefore, the attorneys said, "It is essential to the public interest that the racing commission be supported in their efforts to police, through their licensure prerogatives, those persons participating in racing in order that the public confidence in the integrity of racing not be destroyed and that the individual bettor not be defrauded."

The commission's revocation order on Durousseau's jockey license carried a Jan. 1, 1977 expiration date.

Sabres Defeat Canadiens, 5-4

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Rene Robert of the "French Connection" line slammed in a pass from the faceoff circle at 5:56 of overtime Tuesday night to give the Buffalo Sabres a 5-4 victory over the Montreal Canadiens in their Stanley Cup semifinal series.

The victory enabled the Sabres to take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series, which moves back to Montreal Thursday night.

Twister Levels Little Magnet

By MAXINE WOLF
Star Staff Writer

Tornadoes skipping through northeastern Nebraska Tuesday afternoon virtually leveled the small Cedar County town of Magnet, caused extensive damage at Pierce, and destroyed farm buildings in several rural areas.

Miraculously, no injuries were reported. Residents had been alerted for possible torandoes via National Weather Service warnings.

Magnet's business section was demolished and practically every house in town was either destroyed or damaged. The community, located in extreme southwestern Cedar County, has a population of 88.

Hit Elevator First

Entering the southeast corner of Magnet, the funnel cloud destroyed the elevator, lumber yard, grocery store, Phillips 66 oil station, city hall and a number of storage buildings, according to Ernie Voss, postmaster at nearby McLean, who arrived on the scene shortly after the tornado hit.

As the tornado moved through the community in a northwesterly direction, the funnel just missed the Magnet school by about 150 feet.

Volunteer firemen from nearby communities aided in cleanup at Magnet.

Sightseers in the tornado area were causing problems, authorities said.

Early Afternoon

Magnet was struck about 2:15 p.m. after a tornado was first indicated about seven miles southwest of Norfolk at 12:30 p.m., moving northward.

The tornado was tracked to the Pierce vicinity where it struck the western portion of that community of 1,360, located 10 miles northwest of Norfolk.

In Pierce one of the three tornadoes in the area swirled through a block and a half wide path, narrowly missing the town's elementary school, where some 200 students were huddled in the hallway.

"Thank God we didn't get hit," said principal Donald Cook. "We were as close to it as I ever want to be."

Ripped Chimneys

The high winds tore off several chimneys on the Pierce school building and at least one window was shattered.

Don Zimmer, Pierce civil defense director and publisher of the Pierce County Leader, said "we feel very, very fortunate there were no injuries."

In addition to damaging the elementary school, the tornado at Pierce demolished an unoccupied trailer, tore half the roof off the Foster Manufacturing Co. building and took the roof completely off the Bennett Grain building.

Chris Tensen said he was working his field near Pierce when he saw a twister on the ground, another to the east of Pierce and another to the north and east.

Trees, Lines Downed

Trees and power lines were knocked down at Pierce. Firemen, civil defense personnel and volunteers were called for assistance.

Heavy livestock losses and considerable damage to a couple of farms about five miles north of Pierce was reported by authorities.

At least three farmsteads — southwest of Winside in Wayne County suffered storm damage.

All the buildings except the house were destroyed on the Chester Marotz farm, located about six miles southwest of Winside. Boards were blown through windows at the Marotz home and were found embedded in the walls. No one was injured, Marotz said, but several head of livestock were killed.

Dale Deck, who farms about one mile west of Marotz, also lost all his farm buildings but the house. Deck's brother, Myron, whose farm is one-quarter mile west, also reported damage from the funnel.

Touched Near Colon

Another twister touched down southeast of Colon in Saunders County on the Wally Anderson farmstead. A corn crib was moved off its foundation and a two-car garage was blown apart.

Except for some porch damage and broken windows, the house on the Anderson farm escaped major damage. A nearby shelterbelt was torn up.

Anderson and his son, Ron, who farms the land, had left the farm only about 20 minutes before the twister struck. Jim McDermott, who had been living on the farm, moved out just a week ago.

Tornadoes were also spotted north of Coleridge, north of Stanton, and at Osmond.

Stanton police said winds of 70 to 80 miles per hour struck an area northeast of there and extensive damage was reported in a rural area east of town.

FmHA Official Talks About Loan Program

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

"Virtually every loan is different and each farmer's problem is different," said Bud Riblett, head of the farmer programs division of Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) loans in Lincoln.

"And there is a lot of confusion about how the loan programs work," he said.

Riblett responded to questions and complaints about the loan program in an effort to unsnarl some of the misunderstandings that have turned up about the programs. The programs are designed to aid financially troubled farmers.

"This series of programs is the most difficult to administer that I have experienced in 20 years," Riblett said.

A part of the problem apparently comes from the fact that there are separate programs for livestock producers and crop producers.

The crop program is weather related while the livestock losses are termed economic in nature, even if it is in part due to weather problems.

"The crop program is designed to cover actual losses suffered by the farmer because of a disaster, such as drouth. He must have had at least a 10% reduction in his income to qualify and the maximum amount of the loan cannot be more than the amount of the loss," he explained.

"There is no money in the program to plant the 1975 crop, nor can it be used to purchase or pay off debts on equipment not deemed essential to a farming or ranching operation, such as an automobile," he said.

The farmer is expected to go to his regular creditor to obtain credit for fertilizer, fuel, seed and other things needed to get his 1975 crop in the ground.

Some farmers have complained that bankers have refused to extend credit to farmers who have a disaster loan. Riblett, however, said there is no real reason for the refusal.

"We try to secure these loans with real estate whenever possible. Some farmers early in the program did have chattel security on cattle and machinery but it is only on these specific items and not on any other property the farmer may own," he said.

Riblett added that chattel mortages were required when a farmer operated only rented land or lacked adequate equity in his land to cover the amount of the loan.

The crop disaster loans do have two attractive features in spite of the limitations on them. "They have five years to pay back the money and the annual interest is only 5% of the principal," he said.

Normally a fifth of the principal and all the interest is due each year, but FmHA realizes it may not be that easy so it is possible to reduce the first year's payment, or if the crop year is excellent, to speed up the repayment, according to Riblett.

The cattle emergency loans are different in that they are for three years with the possibility of a two-year extension.

One similarity is that the loans can be made only to farmers who can demonstrate an ability to repay them with interest.

The cattle loans are made by a local lender, but guaranteed by the federal agency.

The agency also can lend money to farmers to buy land or to operate their farm on although both of these programs are running out of funds for this fiscal year. New funds won't be made available until the next fiscal year begins July 1.

Howard Hunter, Wahoo Lawyer, Rites Scheduled

Funeral services will be held Thursday for Howard J. Hunter, former Wahoo lawyer and justice of the peace, who died Tuesday. He was 72.

Hunter was a former Grand Mason of Nebraska and master of the Wahoo Masonic Lodge. He also served as Grand High Priest of the Royal Arch Masons. Hunter was a member of the Scottish Rite and the Shrine of Lincoln and the York Rite lodges.

He is survived by his wife Elsie, two sons and a daughter.

2 Reach 100 In 1 Week

One hundredth birthday celebrations are not every day occasions, but at Tabitha Home, two such occasions are being celebrated in one week.

Miss Josephine Regennitter, who has made her home at Tabitha for 25 years, celebrated her 100th birthday on Sunday, while Mrs. Ida (Fannie) Benda will be 100 years old Thursday.

Miss Regennitter, who has no living relatives, was formerly of Davenport, Iowa, where she was an office worker prior to her retirement.

Mrs. Benda, who became a Tabitha resident three years ago, lived in Wymore and has been a Nebraska resident for 85 years.

She has two daughters, Mrs. Myrtle Bachellor of Medford, Ore., and Mrs. Velda Anderson of Lincoln, 4 grandchildren, 14 great-grandchildren and 5 great-great-grandchildren.

Rail District Eyes Conflict

Legally, there appears to be no conflict of interest problem which would arise from the appointment of John Longsdorf as director (executive officer) of the Lincoln-Lancaster Railroad Transportation Safety district (RTSD).

Longsdorf, who has worked as a "coordinator" for the district for two years, is on leave of absence from the Union Pacific Railroad. UP is one of six railroads involved in RSTD relocation projects. Earlier the RSTD board's attorney issued an opinion which said no legal conflict of interest would exist between Longsdorf's corporate ties and his duties as an employe for a quasi-governmental body. The board had decided to officially name Longsdorf to the directorship which was vacated by the resignation of now-County Engineer Marvin Nuernberger.

Now the board has changed its mind and has delayed the appointment. It has asked the Society of Professional Engineers for its opinion on whether a conflict of interest would exist (in the professional sense, we presume) if Longsdorf were named to the post.

Longsdorf's competence is not at issue. His link with the Union Pacific is.

We think that the average person would question the propriety or the appearances of a railroad employe acting in an executive capacity for a tax-supported agency which will be making far-reaching decisions about the relocation of rail routes in this county and which has to work with half a dozen railroads. The appearance of conflict, at least, is overwhelming.

The RSTD board is on the right track in asking for another opinion as to potential conflict.

How's Your Blood Pressure?

It would appear that the Nebraska Heart Association's hypertension screening program being conducted all this month is off to a good start. Lincoln spokesmen for the program noted that the free high blood pressure detecting clinics last Sunday drew substantial numbers of people.

The heart association's statewide hypertension screening program is one of the most ambitious health programs ever to be undertaken in Nebraska. Hopefully over 100,000 people in the state will be checked. This is due respect for a killer disease.

The program could do a world of good for a significant number of people who don't realize they may have this specific health problem.

High blood pressure undetected and untreated can lead to heart failure, kidney failure or stroke. Detected and treated, the chances of heart or kidney failure or stroke are considerably lessened. The heart association notes: "the frightening thing about high blood pressure is that people are apathetic about the disease. They can't seem to take seriously a disease that does not make them feel sick".

We hope the attention devoted to high blood pressure this month will make people think seriously about it. Black Americans have special cause to be aware of hypertension, or high blood pressure, since they are twice as prone as white Americans to suffer from it.

Each Sunday in May free high blood pressure checks will be available from 1 to 5 p.m. at Treasure City, 27th and Hwy. 2; Gateway Shopping Center Mall; Richman-Gordman, 48th and Vine; K-Ray Pharmacy, Belmont Shopping Center; YWCA, Havelock; Walgreen Pharmacy, 48th and Normal; Treasure City, 48th and Leighton; Brandeis, 11th and O; Open Door Health Center, 25th and R; K-Ray Pharmacy, Westgate Shopping Center and Indian Village Pharmacy. Lincoln-Lancaster Health Dept. nurses will staff similar screening centers the same Sunday hours at public health nursing stations in Raymond and Hickman and the shopping center at Waverly. Other screening clinics will be held throughout the state.

Why not make a point of visiting one of the clinics? Just a few minutes could make years and years of difference.

Price-Fixing Advances

The liquor price-fixers won another round this week when LB204 survived a kill motion and then won second stage approval with enough votes for enactment.

LB204 would require that retail liquor prices be at least 15% above wholesale cost. Supposedly the bill is designed to protect the "little guy" liquor retailer from the price advantages offered by high volume retail dealers and the use of bargain liquor prices as loss leader items by stores which primarily sell other merchandise.

Any way you cut it, it is price-fixing.

More than helping the little guy retailer compete with the big guy, in our opinion, it will guarantee a bigger gross for all retailers and amount to a tighter grip on the consumer's pocketbook by the liquor industry.

The senators keep passing this kind of stuff and the governor keeps vetoing it. When will people wake up and tell the senators to knock it off?

Deficits And Democrats

WASHINGTON — A comprehensive poll taken for the Republican National Committee confirms the finding of other surveys that the American people, remarkably enough, still regard inflation as the No. 1 problem of the nation, with unemployment rates second. Yet, unemployment rose to 8.9% of the work force in April, a post-World War II record, while the rate of inflation has been declining in recent months.

In another part of the Republican poll, however, respondents were asked which issue was most important for them personally, rather than for the country generally. Six out of 10 said unemployment was more important to them personally than inflation — which suggests that it would be a political error of the first magnitude for either party to worry too much about inflation at the expense of putting people back to work.

That is just what some congressional Democrats — for example, the able Rep. Ab Mikva of Illinois, a member of the Ways and Means Committee — fear their party may be doing. Mikva thinks a $3.6 billion program to create 450,000 public service jobs, for instance, is much too limited at a time when eight million persons are out of work and another half-million are so discouraged they've stopped looking for jobs.

The new House budget committee, moreover, has assumed a target of reducing unemployment only to 7.4% by the end of calendar 1976 — a goal so conservative that many Democrats regard it as unacceptable. The Senate budget committee's unemployment target is even more conservative — 8% by the end of July 1976.

Mikva believes that the Democrat's relative reluctance to provide for more public service jobs is due in part to over-confidence that the big tax reduction bill already passed provides sufficient stimulus to economic recovery. But another major reason, in his opinion, is an active fear of increasing the huge deficits already in prospect, and being blamed for those deficits by President Ford.

The House budget committee proposes a deficit of $73.2 billion for fiscal year 1976; the Senate committee proposal would produce a deficit of $69.6 billion. Ford's budget calculated that there would be a $60 billion deficit, and he has left no doubt that he would attack as inflationary any deficit out of the general $60 to $70 billion range.

In fact, however, the $73 billion deficit projected by the House would represent 4.4% of a Gross National Product estimated at $1.7-trillion. The Democratic Study Group has pointed out that the $12.8 billion deficit for fiscal year 1959, during the last big recession, was about 4% of that year's G.N.P. Since the unemployment situation now is worse than it was then, a deficit beyond the $60 billion to $70 billion range would not necessarily be out of line.

Both George Meany of the A.F.L.-C.I.O. and Rep. Brock Adams of Washington, chairman of the budget committee, contend that the primary cause of the deficit is going to be the recession itself, rather than excessive spending by Congress. That is, every increase of one per cent in unemployment in today's economy results in a $16 billion increase in the federal budget deficit.

That $16 billion is accounted for by $14 billion in lost tax revenues and $2 billion in increased spending for unemployment compensation. Adams therefore calculated that if unemployment could somehow be reduced to 4.2% in fiscal 1976, the Ford budget would be in balance and the House and Senate budget proposals not far out.

No amount of job-creating programs, of course, could produce a result so spectacular, but these figures do suggest that, as Meany told a House subcommittee, "The problem is not the budget and the budget deficit. The problem is the jobs."

Aside from these economic calculations, there may be a good political reason for the Democrats to open up the purse and the deficit in an effort to put more people back to work. Ford intends to capitalize upon any improvement in the unemployment rate in 1976 to claim that under his administration, the recession has bottomed out and things are looking up. And while the Democrats will counter that, if so, it was their tax cut that was responsible, a president in office usually gets much public credit for improving economic times.

On the other hand, what will the Democrats be able to claim? For the party of Franklin Roosevelt to go into an election campaign boasting an unemployment target of over 7% is not much of a platform, tax cut or no tax cut.

But if the Democrats openly accept Ford's challenge on the budgetary issue, with the stated purpose of putting people back to work more quickly than he or they now contemplate, they will have a traditional Democratic platform and can make the solid economic claim that they are attacking the major cause of the deficit — unemployment.

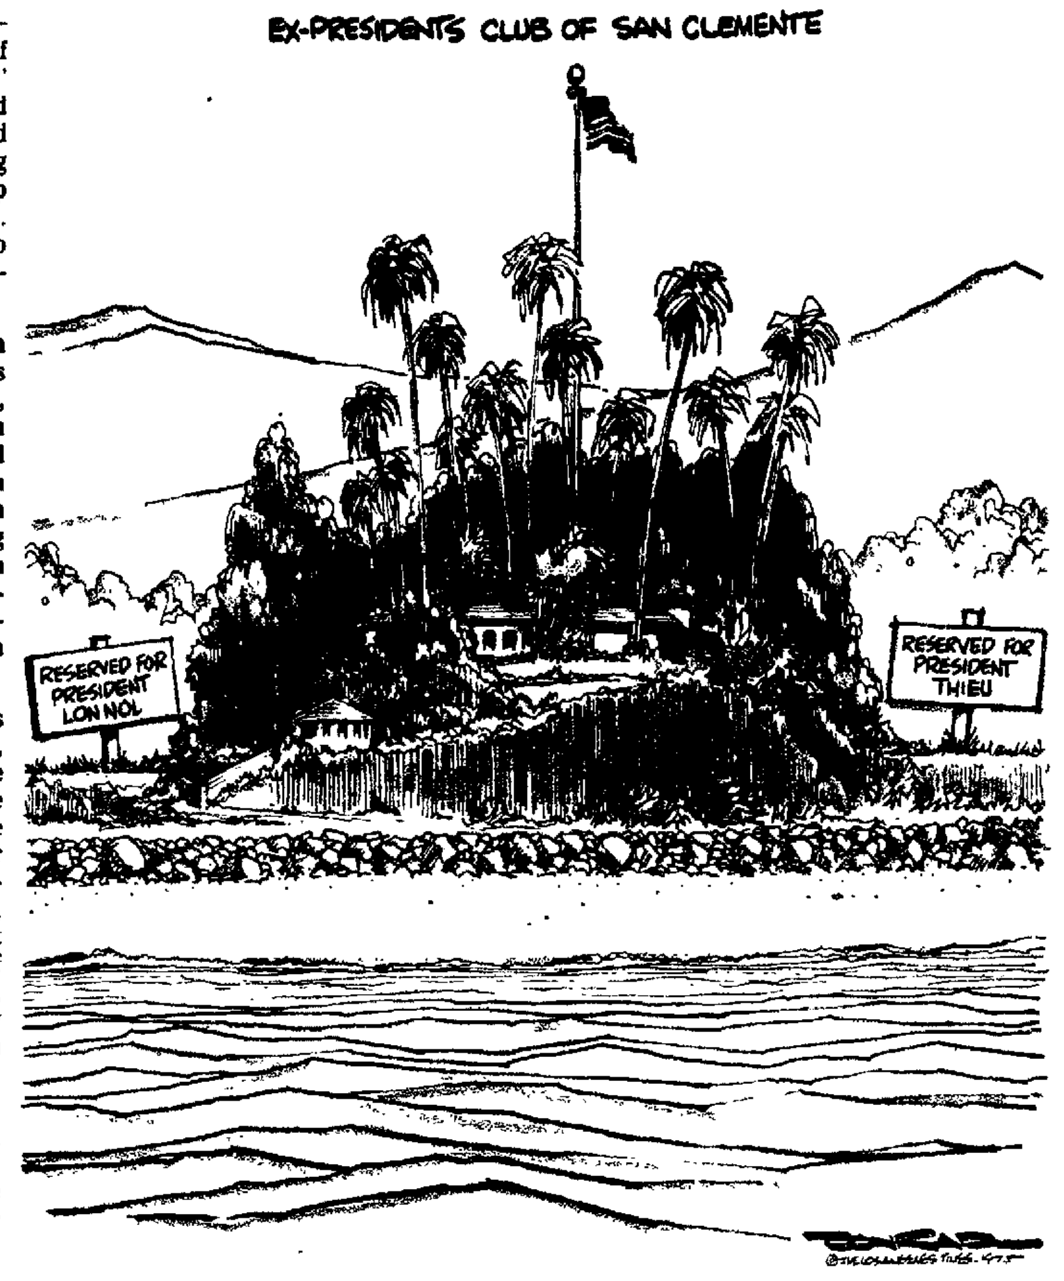
WILLIAM SAFFIRE

Mr. Nixon Is 'Surviving'



EX-PRESIDENTS CLUB OF SAN CLEMENTE
RESERVED FOR PRESIDENT LON NOL
RESERVED FOR PRESIDENT THIEU

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. — "You and I haven't had a cup of coffee together in a long time," said Richard Nixon. He had fixed this pot himself, and hastened to assure a frowning secretary that it was the first cup he had tasted all afternoon. Evidently he has been forced to cut back on his Navy coffee-guzzling habit.

The last time I had seen him was during the final week of his presidency, nine months ago, when he was under as much strain as any political figure had ever undergone. Since then Nixon had survived his brush with death and conflicting reports had come out of San Clemente that the former President was either morose or confident, still in poor health or on the mend.

Nixon has not given any press interviews since his resignation, and will not give one now; he will say his piece in his own time and his own way. Under those rules, a visit by a former colleague turned journalist hardly seemed a good idea before, but on the day that Russian-built tanks knocked down the gates of the presidential palace in Saigon, it seemed to me useful to history to spend some time with Nixon under any rules.

No hard news in this column, then, either direct or indirect, about the Nixon reaction to the collapse of South Vietnam, the embittered charges of ex-President Thieu or the triumphs of isolationism in the United States. Only some general impressions of mine, for what they are worth:

He looks much better. The haunted, hunted look of the final days in the White House-turned-bunker is gone. He is ruddy from the California sun, able to talk for an hour or so with a visitor without visibly tiring; the hand holding the coffee cup is steady.

He sits with his leg elevated on the ottoman of the velvet-covered chair that traveled with him from his New York apartment in the 60's, to the Lincoln sitting room, and finally to the office of what used to be called the Western White House on Coast Guard property near Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Nixon is not unmindful of the irony of Camp Pendleton's being the receiving point for so many of South Vietnam's refugees. It is as if they and he, who had been locked together throughout his presidency, wound up abandoned on the same doorstep though there is considerable difference between their straits and his. A cartoon in the Los Angeles Times shows a refugee, bowl in hand, at the door of Nixon's home: "We're your Camp Pendleton neighbors, Mr. Nixon; may we borrow a cup of rice?"

Such mocking by fate cannot but hurt, and the renaming of Saigon as Ho Chi Minh City — which had been the communist goal all the while they had been professing talk of peace — surely smarts as well. But Nixon remains publicly silent, not even putting out any "it is known that he believes" leaks, because he is determined not to say anything or empower anybody to hint at anything that might be construed as less than total support of President Ford and Secretary Kissinger.

Talking to Nixon now is a more heartening experience than anticipated because he has begun to look ahead, and no longer spends all his time brooding about everything that went sour. He is well briefed on current affairs, presumably from intelligence sources as well as from newspapers, and I hope he will have something to say about foreign policy before the fall of 1977, when his book is scheduled to appear.

Meanwhile, he has started work on his memoirs. He is limited to a few hours each day, during a period of convalescence that he expects to last until the fall, when he plans to increase his work load. He has been forced to begin at the beginning: Because the records of his White House years have not yet been made available to him, he has begun pouring over materials about his early life, his family, his beginnings in politics, his vice presidential years, the 1960 defeat and his comeback.

Needless to say, this is not the portion of his memoirs for which the public breathlessly awaits, and he is aware that what he has to say about the 18 months following his re-election will determine how anything else he has to say will be received.

But the law's delay in permitting his access to his White House records dictates his current subject matter, which is generally uplifting to work on. His fatalism is back, which is a source of strength, and when visitors probe to get his current feelings about Messrs. Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Mitchell and other unpardoned old colleagues, the former President expresses only sadness for the wreckage of their lives.

Nixon massages his knee and flexes it to get it to work, then rises to walk a visitor to the door. He wonders what souvenir he can give the visitor to take away, since there are no more presidential cuff links or golf balls for the concluding gesture he likes to make. A picture of Nixon in retirement — "the blue-coat shot" autographed by him, and not by Rose Woods for him — hits the spot.

In parting, the former President says matter-of-factly, "I'm surviving." And so he is; for the Ishmael of American politics, life goes on.

The Countdown

Blair, Neb.

The first session of the 84th Unicameral is drawing to a close. Everything considered, to this point, the Legislature has done above averagely well, notwithstanding the expected demogoguery of Ernie Chambers, still "raking up old leaves" and still insisting on trying to get his colleagues to intrude into spheres in which they do not belong — still beating racist drums.

In the fading moments of this session, a majority of our legislators would do well to heed the warnings and challenges of Governor Exon. They should stay clear of improvident spending measures and should forget personal pique and frustration in their thoughtful consideration of legislation considered in the final hectic days. I would hope that they weigh most carefully all gubernatorial vetoes, particularly before any overriding efforts.

It Was Not A Joke

Lincoln, Neb.

As a teacher in one of the elementary schools and the mother of a sixth-grader at Prescott School, I would like to voice disapproval of Ivan Travnicek's article in last Friday's Star. The headline, several paragraphs and the cartoon-like picture conveyed to the reader that this presentation was some kind of joke. Obviously Mr. Travnicek lacks the understanding he should have to write about kids.

The pupils and teachers in Unit C at Prescott spent many hours of study and planning before Monday night's excellent program. They worked hard and long and learned much. They deserve a great deal of credit for their interest in how their state government works.

One of our goals as parents and educators should be to help each child improve his self-image. How much kinder it would have been if Mr. Travnicek had thought through what he wrote and had capitalized on building up the self-image of Mike and all his classmates.

What 'Wilderness' Means

Lincoln, Neb.

We noticed the letter from the person who wrote, saying that Wilderness Park is an eyesore, with weeds and old trees. We wonder if he knows what the word "wilderness" means. According to Webster's Dictionary, it means: "A tract or region uncultivated and uninhabited by human beings."

We have enough parks in Lincoln with the grass getting a haircut every week. Why can't we show our children a real piece of land that is untouched by man? Our kids are going to see lots of four-lane highways in their lifetimes.

Lincoln, Neb.

I would like to comment on ice-skating in Lincoln. My son has for several years made one to two trips a day to Omaha so that he could actively engage in skating. It is my understanding that the ice at both Ak-Sar-Ben and Benson Park is used up to 20 hours a day, seven days a week. This is with Pee-Wee Hockey, 4-H Skating, professional hockey, university hockey, public skating and the Omaha Figure Skating Club.

Many times I have heard from Pershing Auditorium that the reason there is no skating is that they must make a profit — this, in spite of the fact that it is a municipal auditorium, incorporated on a non-profit basis. To give some idea of the extent to which the so-called profit incentive is used in our auditorium, it should be noted that the City Recreation Department makes payments to the auditorium for certain public skating time. My son has been requested, during certain teaching sessions sponsored by the City Recreation Department when ice is available, to assist and teach skating which he gladly and voluntarily does. When inquiry was made of Pershing officials if he could practice on those days when he assisted in teaching ice-skating to children, when no one else was on the ice, the profit incentive was the response — yes, he could practice — for $40 an hour! Some days he practices four to eight hours. Upon completion of the teaching sessions, when no one else is using the ice at Pershing, he must then go to Omaha so that he can practice.

The Lincoln Figure Skating Club at one time had over 100 members who were very active; this was at a time when the auditorium indebtedness was retired. With a change in auditorium management and the ensuing lack of ice, the club has now disbanded and many of its members go to Omaha. The University of Nebraska Hockey Team practices in Omaha, often at midnight or later, due to the lack of ice here.

On the rare occasions when the auditorium has had ice available for public skating, with the minimum of publicity to the general public, most sessions have been crowded, particularly the late sessions (for university students). During Christmas vacation, the response to the City Recreation Skating Program was overwhelming. The scheduled classes were filled well in advance, and the number who came to the auditorium without prior registration required three additional instructors. Private groups requested the ice for skating parties between public sessions, adding to the profit incentive.

These are rare instances, however, as there is no regular ice schedule and advance planning for classes and/or parties is not possible.

Possibly our profit incentive should be looked at from another standpoint; the profit that is available might not necessarily go to the City Auditorium. However, in the long-run, we might save some of the taxpayers' money from being expended by the juvenile and police departments by giving the youth and other citizens of our city the opportunity to use up some of their energies in the good, clean sport of ice-skating, whether it be playing hockey or figure skating. If ice were available, it would give the citizens of the community something to do instead of walking the streets and wondering what to do, particularly in the winter months when most recreation is forced indoors.

A Corrupt Society

DuBois, Neb.

I wonder if the Vietnamese refugee program isn't another one of the real or potential disasters that continually seem to originate in the White House.

By now it should be apparent to everyone that the collapse of South Vietnam was caused largely by corruption throughout their society. This corruption was fouled by over-abundant U.S. aid but nevertheless was developed and perpetuated by a certain undesirable element of that society.

It can also be safely assumed that the most elite corps of that army of corruption have become refugees to the U.S. These people have contributed immeasurably to the collapse of their own homeland.

My question is, what will they contribute to ours?

Bank Official Remains Missing A Year Later

Wadkins, 33, was an assistant vice president in the installment loan department of the Overland National Bank.

He was last seen when he was stopped on a rountine vehicle safety check by the Nebraska State Patrol. That was April 25, 1974.

Bags Of Records

Investigators found three plastic bags containing Wadkins' personal records and records of the bank buried in the sand near the truck.

Scuba divers recovered a bowling bag from the sandpit while trying to locate Wadkins' body.

Hall County Sheriff C. F. Headley said the bag contained checks made out to Wadkins and to the bank, $25 in cash, a racing form, Fonner Park tickets and a wrist watch that stopped on the day he disappeared.

A man matching Wadkins' description purchased a motorcycle in Hastings on the same day under the name of George Morgan, according to the State Patrol.

Recovered Later

The motorcycle had been seen in the back of the truck and was recovered several days later in Lexington.

Buffalo County Sheriff Vern Newbold said evidence indicates the motorcycle was unloaded from the truck and driven from the scene. The cycle had plates belonging to a Grand Island firm that didn't know they were missing.

Wadkins was declared a missing person and the FBI has charged him with allegedly "making false entries into the records of Overland National Bank."

Richard E. Whitaker, FBI agent in charge of the investigation, declined to disclose if or how much money was allegedly taken from the bank by Wadkins.

Whitaker said no new leads have developed in the last year. "We have nothing to go on," he said.

Body Not There

Foul play has not been ruled out. But Whitaker said, "We know his body wasn't where we found the other stuff."

Wadkins, a native of Phillips, raised horses as a hobby and was part owner of a race horse.

"He is the kind of guy who could easily be working on a farm or ranch in a state around Nebraska," Whitaker said.

Whitaker said Wadkins could easily conceal his identity if he held a job that was paid in cash with no questions asked.

On Vacation

Mrs. Wadkins said her husband had been on vacation when he left home and said he was going to two meetings.

"I don't really know what happened to him. I just feel that it wasn't his idea to leave — I feel something happened and he had to leave, like he was made to leave," she said.

The couple have been married 10 years and have a 7-year-old daughter, Kimberly.

"I hope he comes back," Mrs. Wadkins said. "I hope he isn't dead but I just don't see how he could leave his family. Especially Kimberly because they were so close."

Home Ec Prof. Gingles Retiring

Mrs. Ruby Gingles

Mrs. Ruby Gingles, 20-year faculty member in the University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Home Economics, will retire July 1.

The projessor of human development and the family will be honored at a special retirement coffee Thursday in the Commons Room of the Home Economics Building on the NU East Campus. After her retirement she will remain on the staff as an emeriti professor.

Prof. Gingles has been with the home economics staff since 1955. From 1963 to 1965 she served as acting associate director of the School of Home Economics, and in 1965-66 was acting chairman of the Department of Human Development and the Family. The following year she also assumed responsibility as college counselor for the School of Home Economics. In 1973, she also was acting associate dean of the College of Home Economics.

The longtime NU home economist was cited by fellow staff members as having a "deep interest in students and a willingness to meet with them and give thoughtful guidance."

Mrs. Gingles has also been instrumental in developing courses on gerontology and middle-age in the human development and the family department.

A native of Palmyra, Prof. Gingles received her B.S. degree in 1932 and an M.S. degree in 1955, both in home economics at the University of Nebraska.

Mayor Freezes Omaha Hiring

Omaha (AP) — Budgetary problems have forced Mayor Edward Zorinsky to order a freeze on all city hiring.

It is the first such order by an Omaha mayor in decades, and possibly the first ever, according to City Hall observers.

The order means that when there is an opening, it will be filled from within the ranks of the city's work force by promotion.

In effect, the order means the city will be reducing its current work force of about 2,600 by attrition. When one person retires or leaves city employe, he or she will not be replaced by a newly-hired person.

Zorinsky said he feels the suspension of hiring is necessary, but not a drastic step.

He classified a "drastic step" as the laying off of workers.

In addition to the hiring freeze, Zorinsky said Omaha residents can expect other economy measures to fight the effects of inflation and higher labor costs, but he did not elaborate.

Zorinsky added that he hopes the reduction in city employes will not affect city services.

Itinerant Waterproofers' Work Said 'Worthless'

A group of waterproofers whose work has been called "worthless" are thought to be travelling through Nebraska.

Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas Tuesday warned Nebraskans, particularly those living in rural areas, to avoid dealing with the itinerant contractors.

Douglas said the contractors are seeking to waterproof roofs, driveways, foundations and basements with an aluminum spray which is "worthless and will quite often wash off with the first heavy rain."

"Recent arrests in Iowa and Kansas have shown that these individuals use deceptive and fraudulent practices and prey upon elderly residents of older homes," he said.

The Iowa attorney general indicated that 300 of these waterproofers gathered in the Des Moines area on May 1 and left that state after several were arrested.

"It is suspected that a number of them have travelled into Nebraska and will be moving through rural areas," Douglas said.

Anyone approached by such merchants should contact their local sheriff or the consumer protection division at 471-2682.

Basement Gives Shelter As House Blows Away

By JOEL THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Omaha — the hospitalization of a cancer-stricken cousin was the occasion for Ev Meritt's ill-timed visit to Omaha. She and her daughter Sherri Meritt, both of Rapid City, S.D., were with the failing woman's husband, Lee McMahill, at his home when the tornado sirens went off.

McMahill luckily had a basement to provide shelter. Five minutes later, that was all he had. The three, huddled shaking but uninjured in the basement, looked up to find the house had blown away.

Lifted off the foundation by a tornado which ravaged west Omaha Tuesday afternoon, the McMahill house blew across 84th St. — four lanes wide with a median — and disintegrated in a chaos of toothpicks and two-by-fours in the backyard of the Michael Tierney residence facing the next street to the west.

'Can't Rebuild'

At least a half-dozen homes on that street, So. 84th Ave., were severely damaged, most of them demolished. "I don't know what people are going to do now," said Tierney, shaking his head. "They can't rebuild. These houses are a total loss."

Fortunately, he said, no one in the neighborhood was injured.

Tierney's house at 4965 So. 84th Ave. was in relatively good shape. The twister had exploded the roof of his kitchen, but the rest of the house — and most of the Tierney family's personal belongings — were intact.

His next-door neighbor, Andrew Perich of 4977 So. 84th Ave., was not so fortunate. The roof of his house, along with much of the family's personal property, had vanished. The house was a total loss. "I hope I'm insured," he said.

Saw Apartments Hit

Perich said he watched from the southwest window of his sunken family room as the massive, undefined black cloud ripped its way through the Wentworth Apartments — a huge complex of rental units to the southwest of his home and perhaps a quarter-mile away across an open field. "You could see it picking up everything," he said. "It just boiled."

He and his daughter Anita hurriedly took cover. Like everyone else on the block, they escaped serious injury as the twister destroyed their home.

"You heard the hollow sound, like a big roar, and then the glass started flying," said Perich, who added he has seen other tornadoes in Oklahoma. "You're just lucky to be alive," he said.

The next house to the south was also in ruins. Maureen Murphy, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Rovert A. Murphy of 4983 So. 84th Ave., arrived home from school just in time to warn her mother. Rev. Murphy was away.

Barely Got Downstairs'

"It was just coming across Wentworth when I got home," Maureen said. "We just barely got downstairs." She said the twister made a buzzing sound as it passed over and created a tremendous pressure in the ears.

Next door to the Murphys at 8404 Lakeview stood the wrecked home of the Robert Frieszes. A married Friesz daughter, helping her mother and two brothers salvage personal effects, wondered aloud whose insurance would replace the demolished home. Her parents had just sold it, she said.

Across Lakeview, in an indirect line between Wentworth and storm-wrecked So. 84th Ave., a row of mobile homes stood completely intact. A few trailer-dwellers stood in their yard surveying the damage across the street in disbelief.

Bedlam of Ambulances

The aftermath of the storm was a bedlam of ambulances evacuating the injured from Wentworth Apts., policemen diverting curious crowds of persons to keep traffic lanes open for emergency vehicles, and homeowners trying to sustain a cheerful graveyard humor as they searched through the rubble for their belongings.

McMahill, troubled already by his wife's illness, now stood in his neighbor's backyard next to his beached bathtub, a dazed look on his face, trying to smile. Half a dozen friends sifted through the splinters of his house, sorting clothes and knickknacks and furniture into piles.

Was his house insured? "I hope so," he said. "I don't know where the insurance papers are, but I'm not going to worry about that now. There's too much to do."

Race Track Just Missed By Funnel

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Tuesday has to rank as one of the most harrowing days in the history of Ak-Sar-Ben horse racing.

"Sure, we were scared," admitted Ak-Sar-Ben executive director and general manager Dick Becker after a tornado narrowly missed striking the track during the height of Tuesday's racing program.

"We had heard about the storm warnings all morning," Becker said. "Our security people were on the roof and I think it was at about 4:40 that I told Bill (track announcer Bill Murphy) to read the announcement."

Murphy told patrons to move inside the grandstand away from exposed areas.

With that, roof personnel — including stewards, placing judges and newsmen — raced downstairs as the tornado loomed near the Ak-Sar-Ben area. Apparently, Murphy and director of racing Neal Chicutt were the last to leave the roof.

"We read the announcement at 4:40 and we raced again at 5 p.m.," Becker said. "Of course, I was worried we might have to call the whole program off. We really didn't know where it (tornado) was or how many there were.

"Our security people told us a huge tornado was heading right towards us and then suddenly it swerved down 72nd St.," Becker said. "We were real fortunate that there was no damage here."

Heavy damage was reported around the immediate Ak-Sar-Ben area, but apparently the barns, grandstand and grounds area at the track escaped the fury of the storm.

After the tornado had passed, Becker said the Omaha Police Department and Ak-Sar-Ben were in close contact as to whether or not to proceed with the scheduled program.

"They advised us not to call off the races and send 8,000 or 9,000 people out on the streets," Becker said. "The outside gates leading to and from the track were blocked temporarily."

Ak-Sar-Ben officials turned on the public pay telephones after the storm passed to allow patrons to call out and inform their friends and relatives they were safe. Rules prohibit the public telephones from being in operation during racing hours.

The storm delayed the start of the third race about six minutes. The rest of the program continued without incident, although it was obvious the patrons and officials were still jittery.

the storm struck. She said when they came out of the basement "the building was gone."

Authorities said 1,000 persons were evacuated from the heart of the stricken area in southwest Omaha when a gas main broke.

Hospital Damaged

The Bergan-Mercy Hospital's self care unit, housing 35 patients, was destroyed. The tornado also broke windows, overturned furniture and brought down ceilings throughout the rest of the hospital.

Some workers and patients suffered injuries, most injured by flying glass.

However, the hospital remained in operation, treating at least some 50 of the injured.

"Generally, the medical injuries are pretty well under control," said Public Safety Director Richard Roth. "Sightseers are the biggest problem . . . There are a lot of power lines down and it is dangerous for people to come into the area.".

Exon was in Omaha for a speaking engagement Tuesday night at Offutt Air Force Base. Mayor Zorinsky was speaking to about 60 elementary school students at the new City-County building when the tornado hit.

Taken Underground

The mayor said, "We told the students they were going to see a part of the building most classes never see." The students were then escorted to the underground floors as a safety precaution.

Everett Rokahr, a teacher, was in Grandmother's Lounge, a few blocks from the Wentworth complex, when the tornado struck. He said everyone inside made it downstairs before the twister destroyed the brick and steel building.

About two miles north at Temple Israel, Rabbi Sidney Brooks was conducting classes for about 20 youngsters when the tornado knocked out all of the windows, damaged the ceiling and broke water mains. He said about four children were cut.

Possibly Twin Funnel

Weathermen said that one large twister or possibly a twin funnel cloud caused the damage in the northwest section. They had no immediate explanation for the devastation in the southwest.

Storm sirens began an eerie wail over Omaha about 4:30 p.m. as black clouds moved in from the southwest on the wings of a weak and slow-moving cold front. When the sirens stopped at 5:15 p.m., the skies had lightened and the twisters were gone. Hail, high winds and heavy rain accompanied the storm.

Tuition Boost 'Surprises' Student Regent

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

University of Nebraska Student Regent James K. Say said Monday he was "surprised" and "disappointed" that NU President D. B. Varner sought virtually no student input before proposing a $1 per credit hour tuition increase last Saturday.

But Say offered a compromise — including matching state funds — which he said should be "compatible" to Lincoln campus students. The Norfolk senior is also president of the Associated Students of the University of Nebraska (ASUN), the UNL student government body.

Although Say has no vote as a student regent, he said at a press conference he favors the compromise ASUN executives drafted, rather than opposing the tuition increase.

The recommendations first call for the Legislature to view Varner's proposal as necessary because of current "inadequate budgetary recommendations" for NU.

Yet because of recent increases in on-campus student housing rates, student fees and "probably increases" in the costs of supplies and books, "the student cannot be viewed as an untapped source of wealth," he said.

"Secondly, the increase should be matched" dollar for dollar with state funds, he said. Say noted the state has "been remiss" for several years by not making NU faculty salaries competitive. Across-the-board pay hikes "still do not recognize the problem."

Third, he said, the tuition increase should be allocated to bring UNL teacher pay to the average of the other Big 8 universities. While Say supported the idea of merit pay, "the most pressing need is for parity."

Let Students Vote

If the increase is approved but determined unnecessary for faculty salaries after 1975-76 and tabbed for other budget items, then students should be allowed to decide if the higher tuition rate should stand or be reduced by $1 per credit hour.

Varner's proposal would increase resident student tuition by 5.6%, from approximately $18 to $19 per credit hour, and nonresident tuition by 2%, from approximately $48 to $49. The president said the increase would generate $600,000 for UNL, $300,000 for the Omaha campus, and $80,000 at the Medical Center in Omaha.

"If it were going to increase administrators' salaries, there might be some objection" now, Say said. Varner would earmark the increase exclusively for 1975-76 faculty salaries.

But "nobody's too sure this would always be earmarked" to award merit pay and also to eliminate inequities among departments, Say said. Without that assurance, as Varner has acknowledged, Say expressed a major reservation to approving the tuition boost at all.

Not 'Wholehearted'

UNL students "cannot give wholehearted endorsement" to Varner's catch-up pay move, Say said, but if the ASUN recommendations are followed, "neither can a majority of students wholeheartedly object."

Say said a "major concern" on campus was the timing of Varner's announcement Saturday, the day after the Daily Nebraskan published its final edition of the semester.

Young Kansas Man Said Wounded Twice In Back

Falls City (AP) — A young Kansas man listed in critical condition from a gunshot wound suffered Sunday apparently was the victim of two previous wounds.

Richardson County Atty. Thomas J. Gist said that attendants at a Falls City hospital told him that Marshall Moore Jr., 19, of Axtell, Kan., had suffered "two wounds of an unidentifiable nature in his back."

Moore was taken into custody after a warning shot fired by a Falls City policeman apparently ricocheted off a tree and struck him in the head. The incident occurred after a high-speed chase that extended from Horton, Kan., to Falls City.

Routing SUN, UMA Funds Through NU Urged

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln Faculty Senate passed two resolutions Tuesday urging that any money appropriated for open-learning delivery systems should be channeled through the NU budget, and calling for a decentralized university administration.

The senate also voted approval to seek a faculty leave program beginning in the fall, to maintain and improve academic competence at UNL and to allow faculty professional growth.

One Liaison Committee resolution noted that the role of the State University of Nebraska (SUN) project is to deliver to adult Nebraskans multi-media courses produced by SUN and its regional outgrowth, the University of Mid-America (UMA) consortium.

Budget Routing

Therefore, the resolution said state dollars earmarked for delivery of those courses into homes should be appropriated into budgets of the NU cooperative or general extension divisions or the Omaha campus continuing studies department.

The senate agreed such appropriations shouldn't be approved unless the total cost and effectiveness of delivering the SUN and UMA courses — approved for quality through faculty liaison — "show promise of being competitive with the cost of delivery systems now being used" through the traditional campus divisions.

The Legislature's Appropriations Committee has recommended a $125,000 budget item to support the SUN delivery system in 1975-76.

Autonomy Stressed

The second resolution approved unanimously urges that within NU Regents' policy guidelines, "campus autonomy in planning and administering academic programs be given high priority, and that system office administration of local campus activities be minimized."

Liaison Committee Chairman Jerry L. Petr, economics professor, said there "has been a shift in policy-making from this campus to the system." He mentioned specifically the faculty's limited participation in designating "areas of excellence," and in the regents' controversial tenure suspension last month.

Petr said he's received no response from regents to a letter he sent the board expressing the Faculty Senate concerns and position on tenure, and offering faculty cooperation in drafting revised policies. Efforts are underway to unionize the faculty.

Neither of the two resolutions approved has any binding effect.

After considerable discussion, the senate approved the faculty leave program, but one member said amendments adopted in the proposal dilute it and could jeopardize the chance of it being implemented.

The senate deleted a section which would've denied professional leave to faculty members age 59 and older. Since the entire faculty would thus be eligible now, Faculty Senate President Richard Gilbert said maximum cost estimates for the program must be revised upward.

Estimates with the age limitation in effect were put at more than $298,000. That represents half pay for one-seventh of the eligible pool of 649 granted leave.

To qualify, full-time faculty and administrators must have completed six appointment periods without such a leave, and hold the rank of assistant professor or higher, or the equivalent. The senate rejected an amendment which would've allowed eligibility for full-time instructors with a doctorate degree.

Commonwealth Sues DeCamp

State Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh owes the Commonwealth Co. of Lincoln more than $23,500 on a $126,400 promisory note, according to a suit filed Tuesday in Lancaster County District Court.

The suit contends that DeCamp has not completely repaid an August 1973 loan of $126,400 and seeks a judgment of $23,551.60 plus interest.

The promisory note was extended in April 1974, according to the suit.

Duke's Son Cast In Western Film

Los Angeles (AP) — Another famous name in western films is joining Joel McCrea in his return to films after a 13-year absence.

Patrick Wayne, son of John Wayne, has been cast in "Mustang County" as a wrangler who fails to capture a wild stallion. Robert Fuller has already been assigned as his partner.

G. Blankenship Is Resentenced To Life Term

Omaha (AP) — The prison sentence of Gary Lee Blankenship was changed Monday from 25 to 30 years to life imprisonment.

Blankenship was convicted of second-degree murder by a jury last month in the shooting death of his 27-year-old brother Timothy, who was a member of the State Parole Board.

District Court Judge John Clark told Blankenship, 30, that the new sentence may mean an earlier eventual release from the Nebraska Penal Complex.

Judge Clark said Blankenship will need to serve 10 years in prison, less "good time," before he is eligible for parole.

He said a recent Nebraska Supreme Court decision disallowed indeterminate sentences in cases of second-degree murder.

Board Chooses Kay Lamphear, Curt Donaldson

The Goals and Policies Committee's Monitoring Board nominated Kay Lamphear and Curt Donaldson to fill vacancies on the executive board.

Ms. Lamphear, 1350 Meadowdale Dr., was tabbed to succeed Donna Polk through the remainder of her one-year term expiring this fall.

Donaldson, 2860 R, was selected to succeed Bob Stoddard through the remainder of his term expiring in 1976.

Both Ms. Polk and Stoddard resigned from the board.

Pansing, Maxey, Shafer:

School Post Vote Repeats Primary

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Pansing

Maxey

Shafer

The race for three seats on the Lincoln Board of Education was a carbon copy Tuesday of the city primary election last month, with the three women candidates — including the incumbent — again finishing easily on top.

Lu Pansing, Jo Ann Maxey and incumbent Williamette Shafer finished 1-2-3, with Milan Wall trailing a close fourth throughout the balloting. Oscar Sandberg and Jeffrey M. Poley landed fifth and sixth.

"I'm profoundly grateful to the people of Lincoln and the exceptional campaign committee that helped me," Mrs. Pansing said Tuesday night. "This election must surely confirm my beliefs that we need to emphasize basic reading, English and math skills, and a classroom in which the teacher-pupil ratio is very favorable."

Promises 'Best'

Mrs. Pansing, 55, of 2033 S. 33rd, promised to "do my very best," as did Mrs. Maxey, pledging to "really serve the people 100%."

Mrs. Maxey, 35, of 2800 S, said "I'd like for everyone to feel free to contact me" to improve communication between schools, parents and teachers. She said she's anxious to "get in and to learn what's going on and to do my homework well."

It was the first board race for Mrs. Shafer, 40, of 2906 Plymouth, who was appointed two years ago. "I will continue to do the best job I can" to maintain the confidence that voters registered in her board performance, she said.

4-Year Terms

The three housewives will begin four-year, unsalaried terms, joining T. E. Dewey, Pearl Goldenstein and Lou Roper, whose board seats were not up for election this year.

Mrs. Shafer's and Mrs. Pansing's candidacies were endorsed hy the teacher-affiliated Lincoln Education Association's Political Action Committee on Education (ACE). Mrs. Maxey had formal labor endorsement. Wall also had PACE support in his unsuccessful bid.

Mrs. Pansing finished in a commanding lead with 20,015 in complete returns.

Mrs. Maxey polled 18,802 for second place, and Mrs. Shafer, 16,309 for third. Wall came within 200 votes of Mrs. Shafer with one-fourth of the ballots counted, but that margin stretched to almost 600, as Wall ended up with 15,824.

Sandberg got 13,150 for a fifth-place challenge, and Poley won 6,521 votes.

Mrs. Pansing and Mrs. Maxey will fill two board seats currently held by John Lux and Marvin C. Stewart, who chose not to seek reelection.

Sikyta To Push For Transportation Dept.

Cook

Sikyta

Baker

Jeambey

paign this year evidently paid off, as he moved from fourth place in the primary to third place in the general election.

"The vote reflects my conservative views," said Baker, who campaigned on a platform of fiscal responsibility and support for law and order.

Sikyta promised Tuesday night to introduce an ordinance within the next two weeks creating a City Transportation Department. Mass transit and traffic engineering staff people would be combined in the new department, said Sikyta, who has already asked the city Law Department to begin drafting the ordinance.

Cook is already planning to work with the new mayor, Helen Boosalis, in creating a new urban development coordinator. This coordinator will work with both neighborhood improvement programs and with the business community for implementation of the downtown plan, Cook said.

Tightening the zoning classifications during the next year is one of Baker's priority concerns. He feels that the wide variance allowed under G-Local Business zoning should be narrowed so that "a company proposing to build a quaint antique shop can not turn around and put in a McDonalds."

The Rev. Mr. Jeambey, a minister who was once a Lincoln radio newsman and who chaired the Goals and Policies Committee, said he will spend his first months just learning the ropes.

"I'm an amateur politician and a novice councilman, and for a while I'm going to learn," said Jeambey, who relied on a small group of friends as campaign volunteers and spent less than $1,000 in both the primary and general election.

Jeambey, 43, disagrees with a libreal label given him is recent media advertisements. "I'll try to be objective and a progressive type of councilman," he said Tuesday night.

Geis Top Vote Getter For Airport Authority

Geis

Joyce

The Good Guys for Geis Committee helped political novice Don Geis stage an upset victory as he soared to victory and won a seat on the Airport Authority board.

Geis was the top vote getter, while incumbent Richard Joyce won a second term of office.

In capturing 35.4% of the vote, Geis unseated incumbent Richard Chapin, president of Stuart Enterprises and member of the Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

Geis, 40, a financial planner, in a flurry of press releases, publicly staged announcements and other forums, had criticized the board for acting more like a private business than a public entity.

He questioned the construction of the new terminal, plans to throaw a $3,500 open house but the decision not to make some requested changes in the terminal for the handicapped and was critical of other board actions.

Council Must Adopt Plan

Lincoln voters overwhelmingly agreed Tuesday with state legislators that the City Council should be responsible for adopting the Comprehensive Plan.

By 73% of the vote, Lincolnites said the council, not the advisory City-County Planning Commission, should adopt the plan and all amendments to it.

The Legislature recently enacted a law making the council and County Board responsible for the plan. The charter amendment approved Tuesday, however, pertains only to the city. The vote was 19,923 in favor and 7,359 against.

Ed Dept. Finishes 'Rule 14' Hearings

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The State Department of Education wrapped up a series of statewide meetings Tuesday in a final Lincoln hearing to review the proposed minimum regulations and procedures for approving all Nebraska school districts.

Approval regulations set out the lowest level for legal operation of a school district, and the proposed "Rule 14" includes new standards for elementary and non-public schools.

Hugh Harlan, Education Department school management services administrator, said the State Board of Education on Friday will set an official hearing date, probably in June or later.

Meanwhile, later this month, the board will review Rule 14 revisions based on suggestions by educators who attended the seven meetings from Bassett to Beatrice.

Average attendance at each meeting was about 130, with the smallest showings at Millard and Lincoln, where about 40 offered changes based on their schools' needs.

"We want these regulations to be reasonable and workable, but meaningful as far as establishing requirements for a sound, basic education," Harlan said.

Spokesmen for the small Class I and Class VI districts have objected to the first-time standards for elementary schools, saying that is an attempt by the state board to close them down and reorganize the districts, totaling more than any other state in the U.S.

But Harland said that worry didn't emerge at the meetings. Educators "expressed specific concerns, but in every instance, they've provided some reason or rationale" to alter the original document. The Education Department will "give serious consideration" to them all.

He noted the small districts may have two deviations from the regulations without penalty. "It provides them tremendous flexibility, and we expect them to use that logically in maintaining a good school," he said.

"The topic of most concern," Harland said, "is our new approach to assigning teachers in the schools, which makes the governing body (board) of the school responsible directly to the school community, rather than to the State Department of Education."

That proposal, which requires 90% of elementary teachers in each school to hold elementary teaching endorsements on their certificates and 75% of all secondary teachers endorsed in the area they teach, drew "mixed" reaction, he said.

Calling it a "crucial issue" in quality education, Harlan said he anticipates no problem for elementary schools, but the endorsement requirement could "pose some problem" for the small secondary school, where "in some cases, dual assignments are necessary."

Still, "We don't feel this is an unrealistic regulation," he said.

A required statement of philosophy by school boards should be based on public input, Harlan told those attending the Lincoln meeting. He warned against "canned" goals for children that embrace "ideals that aren't our own" locally.

He said the Nebraska Assessment Battery of Essential Learning Skills (NABELS), when it's complete, "will assure us that our kids are learning the three R's," or indicate that schools are making every effort to teach them.

Administering NABELS or its equivalent will be required, with student scores of 100% to insure that children in kindergarten through 6th grade have mastered essential skills.

CLARK . . . likes to start from scratch.

STAR PHOTO

First Office Storage Room

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

A black telephone sits on one chair and the new city-county human services director sits on the second chair in an empty storage room he calls his office.

Robert L. Clark says he likes to start from scratch. And that's just what he's doing as the first man in a newly created government position, working out of an office with no desk, no filing cabinets — only boxes on the floor.

Clark, 37, spent Tuesday, his first day on the $20,400-a-year job, meeting county commissioners and staff and sitting in on the first of innumerable meetings and conferences which will take up much of his time in future months.

What Clark knows about the new city and county position is contained in a one-page general job description which ranges from recommending city and county funding priorities to assessing the needs of county residents of human services.

Variety is something Clark enjoys in a job and variety he will certainly get as he talks with private, public and government service agencies, learning about their programs, plans and funding problems.

Clark, who prefers the term "people programs" over "human services," has a varied career of helping people get back into society's mainstream.

His experience ranges from giving diagnostic tests to inmates coming into the Nebraska penal system (a job he left because it put him to sleep) to helping draft a statewide plan for developing community alternatives to institutionalization.

A job at an Iowa state school for the retarded convinced Clark that the real world, not an institution, is usually the best place for retarded, handicapped or emotionally disturbed individuals.

The real test of a society, said Clark, is how they treat the less fortunate. "Do they shunt them aside in institutions, or do they try to integrate them into the mainstream of life?"

"If we as a society can't deal with these problems (physical, mental or emotional handicaps, aged or juvenile problems) within the limits of our resources, then we are not very committed to the principles we espouse of democracy, the bill of rights, civil rights," said Clark.

Clark, his wife Connie and their three children will be moving to a Lincoln home, just a few blocks from a Rose St. house they lived in 10 years ago when Clark worked for the State Division of Rehabilitation.

Eventually Clark will have a desk (now on order), a secretary and a clearer picture of his duties and responsibilities to the city and county governments and the people of Lancaster County.

Your World Tomorrow

Future Mobile Homes To Use Solar Energy

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Mobile home owners really aren't very mobile, but they represent an ever-increasing share of the homeowners market. Harnessing solar energy has special advantages for them, as Richard M. Kielar, associate editor of Engineering News-Record, a McGraw-Hill publication, explains.)

By RICHARD M. KIELAR

New York — In the not too distant future mobile homes, which last year accounted for almost one out of every three single-family homes sold in the U.S., will come equipped with solar collectors atop them. Or, if a mobile home owner wants to set up house in a mobile home park, he may hook up to a money-saving central solar collector for hot water, heating and cooling.

The cost of solar energy would be much less than conventional fuels and charges would be made to cover the park operator's initial investment and maintenance.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the National Bureau of Standards have asked the American Institute of Architects (AIA) to come up with plans that incorporate solar collectors into the design of homes and mobile home parks. The program is financed by the federal government, as is a prototype solar energized mobile home that the General Electric Co. has built. GE's home is a 60-ft-long unit with nineteen 3 x 8-ft collectors mounted on it. It is not for sale but is being used to collect data to determine the feasibility of solar energy for mobile homes.

Most mobile home builders say they would not manufacture units with collectors on them unless the collectors qualified for a tax break or subsidy. Their share of the single family market has risen from 9% in 1960 to about 30% last year with 329,000 units shipped to dealers. However, the manufacturers say it's more likely that mobile home park operators would set up a central solar collection system to serve a number of units and charge the users for the solar energy.

The AIA has contracted with eight architectural firms and two universities to design acceptable plans for collectors on homes and as a central system for a park. They are concerned with aesthetics so that the collectors blend in with the home and with the layout and scale of the park. For example, a California firm, RTL Inc., suggests rearranging the mobile units from the usual plan in which homes are lined up side-by-side along streets to placing them in a four-home quadrangle with a central lawn and carport on top of which solar collectors are placed.

Another idea is to arrange the panels as sloping roofs which would make the normally flat-topped trailer look like a gabled single-family house. Another is to use the panels as patio protectors, porch roofs and window awnings.

However, manufacturers will insist that the total cost doesn't exceed their top market price of $25,000. The average cost of a mobile home today is just under $10,000 in comparison with $38,000 for a typical single family home built on a site.

'Inferno' Wins Photoplay Gold

Los Angeles (AP) — The awards season isn't over. Now come the oldest movie awards of all, Photoplay magazine's Gold Medals, which have been given for 54 years.

The magazine's readers selected Robert Redford and Valerie Harper as their favorite stars, Freddie Prinze of "Chico and the Man" and Julie Kavner of "Rhoda" as their favorite newcomers. Other favorities: "The Towering Inferno" for film, "Rhoda" for TV show, and Elvis Presley as variety performer. The awards will be presented on the Merv Griffin Show on May 14.

Loans Suggested

Washington (UPI) — Virginia Knauer, President Ford's consumer adviser, said the government may want to consider low cost loans for home owners wanting to convert to solar energy for heating and cooling.

State Industrial Growth Down From Last Year

Industrial growth in Nebraska during the first three months of 1975 has followed the sagging national trend, according to the State Department of Economic Development.

The number of new jobs created for the period is below the figure for 1974, despite the fact that the number of new plant locations and expansions was ahead of last year's.

The department said 12 firms announced construction of new plants and 11 firms planned expansions of present facilities for the three-month period. That compares to ten new plants and five expansions during the same period last year.

New industrial jobs for the first quarter of 1975 stood at 342, compared to 1,355 during the same period in 1974.

Most of the industrial activity occurred in communities with less than 5,000 people. Only three of the new or expanded plants were located in the Lincoln and Omaha areas.

Wandering Peace Pilgrim Confirms 8 Lincoln Dates

Peace Pilgrim is back in Lincoln.

The silver-haired woman wearing blue slacks and shirt last visited Lincoln in October of 1970 in what she describes as her walk for peace.

She has confirmed appearances at eight area churches between Sunday and May 18, and will make a number of appearances in high schools as well

Self-described as a "wanderer," she walks until given shelter and fasts until given food, and is affiliated with no organization.

Her shirt carries the lettering "25,000 miles on foot for peace," a distance she has long since surpassed — she reports she stopped counting miles about 10 years ago, and has no idea how many miles she's walked since her last visit to Lincoln.

The church appearances planned so far in this area:

Sunday, 9 a m , United Methodist, Sprague
Sunday, 11 a m , United Methodist Martell
Sunday, 7 30 p m United Methodist Crete
Monday 8 p m St Mary s Catholic Denton
Wednesday 1 p m Westminster Presbyterian Lincoln
Thursday 2 30 p m , First United Methodist Waverly
Thursday 7 30 p m , Newman United Methodist Lincoln
Sunday 9 30 a m , First United Methodist, Lincoln

7a.m. To 4p.m. UNL Work Day Being Adopted

Beginning Monday the University of Nebraska-Lincoln business operations work day will be from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Starting and ending time of academic classes will not be affected by the change.

According to Dr. Miles Tommeraasen, vice chancellor for business and finance, the 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. work schedule is being adopted for offices and business operations of the University in an effort to minimize air conditioning needs and to reduce the discomfort of employees during periods when no or limited air conditioning is provided. A limiting of air conditioning on the Lincoln campuses this summer is planned as one means of reducing utility expenses in an attempt to balance the budget in an area heavily strained by inflation.

The 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. schedule will continue through the summer sessions in mid-August.

Chase County Voters Approve Hospital Bonds

Imperial (UPI) — Voters in Chase County overwhelmingly approved Tuesday a $1.6 million bond issue to finance a new hospital to replace the Chase County Hospital.

The vote was 1,140 for the issue and 321 against. There are only 2,640 registered voters in the county.

A similar bond issue Nov. 5, 1974, failed. County Clerk Leroy Mather said the difference between last year's rejection and Tuesday's approval was that more information was distributed to voters about the need for a new hospital.

A portion of the existing hospital had been rated substandard in 1972.

Twister Levels Little Magnet

By MAXINE WOLF
Star Staff Writer

Tornadoes skipping through northeastern Nebraska Tuesday afternoon virtually leveled the small Cedar County town of Magnet, caused extensive damage at Pierce, and destroyed farm buildings in several rural areas.

Miraculously, no injuries were reported. Residents had been alerted for possible torandoes via National Weather Service warnings.

Magnet's business section was demolished and practically every house in town was either destroyed or damaged. The community, located in extreme southwestern Cedar County, has a population of 88.

Hit Elevator First

Entering the southeast corner of Magnet, the funnel cloud destroyed the elevator, lumber yard, grocery store, Phillips 66 oil station, city hall and a number of storage buildings, according to Ernie Voss, postmaster at nearby McLean, who arrived on the scene shortly after the tornado hit.

As the tornado moved through the community in a northwesterly direction, the funnel just missed the Magnet school by about 150 feet.

Volunteer firemen from nearby communities aided in cleanup at Magnet.

Sightseers in the tornado area were causing problems, authorities said.

Early Afternoon

Magnet was struck about 2:15 p.m. after a tornado was first indicated about seven miles southwest of Norfolk at 12:30 p.m., moving northward.

The tornado was tracked to the Pierce vicinity where it struck the western portion of that community of 1,360, located 10 miles northwest of Norfolk.

In Pierce one of the three tornadoes in the area swirled through a block and a half wide path, narrowly missing the town's elementary school, where some 200 students were huddled in the hallway.

"Thank God we didn't get hit," said principal Donald Cook. "We were as close to it as I ever want to be."

Ripped Chimneys

The high winds tore off several chimneys on the Pierce school building and at least one window was shattered.

Don Zimmer, Pierce civil defense director and publisher of the Pierce County Leader, said "we feel very, very fortunate there were no injuries."

In addition to damaging the elementary school, the tornado at Pierce demolished an unoccupied trailer, tore half the roof off the Foster Manufacturing Co. building and took the roof completely off the Bennett Grain building.

Chris Tensen said he was working his field near Pierce when he saw a twister on the ground, another to the east of Pierce and another to the north and east.

Trees, Lines Downed

Trees and power lines were knocked down at Pierce. Firemen, civil defense personnel and volunteers were called for assistance.

Heavy livestock losses and considerable damage to a couple of farms about five miles north of Pierce was reported by authorities.

At least three farmsteads — southwest of Winside in Wayne County suffered storm damage.

All the buildings except the house were destroyed on the Chester Marotz farm, located about six miles southwest of Winside. Boards were blown through windows at the Marotz home and were found embedded in the walls. No one was injured, Marotz said, but several head of livestock were killed.

Dale Deck, who farms about one mile west of Marotz, also lost all his farm buildings but the house. Deck's brother, Myron, whose farm is one-quarter mile west, also reported damage from the funnel.

Touched Near Colon

Another twister touched down southeast of Colon in Saunders County on the Wally Anderson farmstead. A corn crib was moved off its foundation and a two-car garage was blown apart.

Except for some porch damage and broken windows, the house on the Anderson farm escaped major damage. A nearby shelterbelt was torn up.

Anderson and his son, Ron, who farms the land, had left the farm only about 20 minutes before the twister struck. Jim McDermott, who had been living on the farm, moved out just a week ago.

Tornadoes were also spotted north of Coleridge, north of Stanton, and at Osmond.

Stanton police said winds of 70 to 80 miles per hour struck an area northeast of there and extensive damage was reported in a rural area east of town.

FmHA Official Talks About Loan Program

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

"Virtually every loan is different and each farmer's problem is different," said Bud Riblett, head of the farmer programs division of Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) loans in Lincoln.

"And there is a lot of confusion about how the loan programs work," he said.

Riblett responded to questions and complaints about the loan program in an effort to unsnarl some of the misunderstandings that have turned up about the programs. The programs are designed to aid financially troubled farmers.

"This series of programs is the most difficult to administer that I have experienced in 20 years," Riblett said.

A part of the problem apparently comes from the fact that there are separate programs for livestock producers and crop producers.

The crop program is weather related while the livestock losses are termed economic in nature, even if it is in part due to weather problems.

"The crop program is designed to cover actual losses suffered by the farmer because of a disaster, such as drouth. He must have had at least a 10% reduction in his income to qualify and the maximum amount of the loan cannot be more than the amount of the loss," he explained.

"There is no money in the program to plant the 1975 crop, nor can it be used to purchase or pay off debts on equipment not deemed essential to a farming or ranching operation, such as an automobile," he said.

The farmer is expected to go to his regular creditor to obtain credit for fertilizer, fuel, seed and other things needed to get his 1975 crop in the ground.

Some farmers have complained that bankers have refused to extend credit to farmers who have a disaster loan. Riblett, however, said there is no real reason for the refusal.

"We try to secure these loans with real estate whenever possible. Some farmers early in the program did have chattel security on cattle and machinery but it is only on these specific items and not on any other property the farmer may own," he said.

Riblett added that chattel mortages were required when a farmer operated only rented land or lacked adequate equity in his land to cover the amount of the loan.

The crop disaster loans do have two attractive features in spite of the limitations on them. "They have five years to pay back the money and the annual interest is only 5% of the principal," he said.

Normally a fifth of the principal and all the interest is due each year, but FmHA realizes it may not be that easy so it is possible to reduce the first year's payment, or if the crop year is excellent, to speed up the repayment, according to Riblett.

The cattle emergency loans are different in that they are for three years with the possibility of a two-year extension.

One similarity is that the loans can be made only to farmers who can demonstrate an ability to repay them with interest.

The cattle loans are made by a local lender, but guaranteed by the federal agency.

The agency also can lend money to farmers to buy land or to operate their farm on although both of these programs are running out of funds for this fiscal year. New funds won't be made available until the next fiscal year begins July 1.

Howard Hunter, Wahoo Lawyer, Rites Scheduled

Funeral services will be held Thursday for Howard J. Hunter, former Wahoo lawyer and justice of the peace, who died Tuesday. He was 72.

Hunter was a former Grand Mason of Nebraska and master of the Wahoo Masonic Lodge. He also served as Grand High Priest of the Royal Arch Masons. Hunter was a member of the Scottish Rite and the Shrine of Lincoln and the York Rite lodges.

He is survived by his wife Elsie, two sons and a daughter.

2 Reach 100 In 1 Week

One hundredth birthday celebrations are not every day occasions, but at Tabitha Home, two such occasions are being celebrated in one week.

Miss Josephine Regennitter, who has made her home at Tabitha for 25 years, celebrated her 100th birthday on Sunday, while Mrs. Ida (Fannie) Benda will be 100 years old Thursday.

Miss Regennitter, who has no living relatives, was formerly of Davenport, Iowa, where she was an office worker prior to her retirement.

Mrs. Benda, who became a Tabitha resident three years ago, lived in Wymore and has been a Nebraska resident for 85 years.

She has two daughters, Mrs. Myrtle Bachellor of Medford, Ore., and Mrs. Velda Anderson of Lincoln, 4 grandchildren, 14 great-grandchildren and 5 great-great-grandchildren.

Get the natural goodness of Birds Eye Vegetables individually frozen in 16-oz. bags. And save 10¢ too.

These are delicious, interesting vegetables quick-frozen individually instead of in a solid block, so you can "pour" just what you need for each meal. There's no waste because you store the rest in your freezer.

A good idea for small families.

Birds Eye quality in vegetables means that you get consistently good, tender, tasty vegetables. Picked and frozen with extra care to keep their natural country freshness and flavor. And you can count on that quality every time you buy Birds Eye vegetables.

With lots of variety: Whole Kernel Corn, Green Peas, Baby Limas, Black Eye Peas, Mixed Vegetables, Crowder Peas, Baby Butter Beans, Cut Green Beans, Clemson Whole or Cut Okra, and Stew Vegetables.

Remember. Better buy Birds Eye—naturally.

Bank Official Remains Missing A Year Later

Grand Island (AP) — It's been more than a year now since bank official Mike Wadkins disappeared.

Wadkins, 33, was an assistant vice president in the installment loan department of the Overland National Bank.

He was last seen when he was stopped on a rountine vehicle safety check by the Nebraska State Patrol. That was April 25, 1974.

Bags Of Records

Investigators found three plastic bags containing Wadkins' personal records and records of the bank buried in the sand near the truck.

Scuba divers recovered a bowling bag from the sandpit while trying to locate Wadkins' body.

Hall County Sheriff C. F. Headley said the bag contained checks made out to Wadkins and to the bank, $25 in cash, a racing form, Fonner Park tickets and a wrist watch that stopped on the day he disappeared.

A man matching Wadkins' description purchased a motorcycle in Hastings on the same day under the name of George Morgan, according to the State Patrol.

Recovered Later

The motorcycle had been seen in the back of the truck and was recovered several days later in Lexington.

Buffalo County Sheriff Vern Newbold said evidence indicates the motorcycle was unloaded from the truck and driven from the scene. The cycle had plates belonging to a Grand Island firm that didn't know they were missing.

Wadkins was declared a missing person and the FBI has charged him with allegedly "making false entries into the records of Overland National Bank."

Richard E. Whitaker, FBI agent in charge of the investigation, declined to disclose if or how much money was allegedly taken from the bank by Wadkins.

Whitaker said no new leads have developed in the last year. "We have nothing to go on," he said.

Body Not There

Foul play has not been ruled out. But Whitaker said, "We know his body wasn't where we found the other stuff."

Wadkins, a native of Phillips, raised horses as a hobby and was part owner of a race horse.

"He is the kind of guy who could easily be working on a farm or ranch in a state around Nebraska," Whitaker said.

Whitaker said Wadkins could easily conceal his identity if he held a job that was paid in cash with no questions asked.

On Vacation

Mrs. Wadkins said her husband had been on vacation when he left home and said he was going to two meetings.

"I don't really know what happened to him. I just feel that it wasn't his idea to leave — I feel something happened and he had to leave, like he was made to leave," she said.

The couple have been married 10 years and have a 7-year-old daughter, Kimberly.

"I hope he comes back," Mrs. Wadkins said. "I hope he isn't dead but I just don't see how he could leave his family. Especially Kimberly because they were so close."

Itinerant Waterproofers' Work Said 'Worthless'

A group of waterproofers whose work has been called "worthless" are thought to be travelling through Nebraska.

Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas Tuesday warned Nebraskans, particularly those living in rural areas, to avoid dealing with the itinerant contractors.

Douglas said the contractors are seeking to waterproof roofs, driveways, foundations and basements with an aluminum spray which is "worthless and will quite often wash off with the first heavy rain."

"Recent arrests in Iowa and Kansas have shown that these individuals use deceptive and fraudulent practices and prey upon elderly residents of older homes," he said.

The Iowa attorney general indicated that 300 of these waterproofers gathered in the Des Moines area on May 1 and left that state after several were arrested.

"It is suspected that a number of them have travelled into Nebraska and will be moving through rural areas," Douglas said.

Anyone approached by such merchants should contact their local sheriff or the consumer protection division at 471-2682.

Four Named Doane College Builders

Crete — Four alumni of Doane College will receive Builders Awards May 17 as part of the annual alumni banquet here. To be honored are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Aron of Crete, Norris Alfred of Polk and Judge W.W. Nuernberger of Lincoln.

Dr. Clough Leaving York For Iowa Post

York (AP) — Dr. Roger A. Clough, superintendent of the York public schools for the past seven years, has been named the new superintendent of schools at Mason City, Iowa. Clough, 40, announced his resignation Tuesday from his post here. Before coming to York Clough served as superintendent at Ord for two years. Before that he held administrative and teaching posts in Lincoln, Yutan and Polk. He is a graduate of Midland Lutheran College at Fremont and the University of Nebraska.

Midland Nursing Program Approved

Fremont (UPI) — Midland Lutheran College said Tuesday its nursing program has been approved by the Nebraska State Board of Nursing. Kathleen Cheney, Midland nursing director, said full accreditation by the state board is pending development of the Midland nursing curriculum. Academic work for the nursing program students will occur on the Midland campus with clinical experience slated for the Immanuel Medical Center at Omaha, Memorial Hospital of Dodge County at Fremont, and other cooperating agencies.

Psychologists Elect Dr. Schalock

Hastings (UPI) — The chairman of the Department of Psychology at Hastings College has been elected president-elect of the Nebraska Psychological Association. Dr. Robert Schalock will assume office at the association's 1976 spring meeting. He has been on the Hastings College faculty since 1967. The Nebraska Association for Retarded Citizens recently named Dr. Schalock its educator of the year.

Sullivan To Address Research Meet

A University of Nebraska poultry scientist, Dr. Thomas W. Sullivan, will be one of five features speakers at the 23rd annual Pfizer research conference to be held in Minneapolis this weekend. The NU professor of poultry and wildlife sciences will speak on the benefits and risks of feeding copper to poultry. The Pfizer conference is the first event of the 1975 American feed manufacturers convention.

Central City Phone Service Hit

Central City (UPI) — Moisture damaged an underground telephone cable and interrupted service Tuesday to nearly half the 2,500 Northwestern Bell customers here. Officials said a compressor used to keep the underground lines dry stopped working, causing the outage.

Mrs. Ruby Gingles

Home Ec Prof. Gingles Retiring

Mrs. Ruby Gingles, 20-year faculty member in the University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Home Economics, will retire July 1.

The projessor of human development and the family will be honored at a special retirement coffee Thursday in the Commons Room of the Home Economics Building on the NU East Campus. After her retirement she will remain on the staff as an emeriti professor.

Prof. Gingles has been with the home economics staff since 1955. From 1963 to 1965 she served as acting associate director of the School of Home Economics, and in 1965-66 was acting chairman of the Department of Human Development and the Family. The following year she also assumed responsibility as college counselor for the School of Home Economics. In 1973, she also was acting associate dean of the College of Home Economics.

The longtime NU home economist was cited by fellow staff members as having a "deep interest in students and a willingness to meet with them and give thoughtful guidance."

Mrs. Gingles has also been instrumental in developing courses on gerontology and middle-age in the human development and the family department.

A native of Palmyra, Prof. Gingles received her B.S. degree in 1932 and an M.S. degree in 1955, both in home economics at the University of Nebraska.

Mayor Freezes Omaha Hiring

Omaha (AP) — Budgetary problems have forced Mayor Edward Zorinsky to order a freeze on all city hiring.

It is the first such order by an Omaha mayor in decades, and possibly the first ever, according to City Hall observers.

The order means that when there is an opening, it will be filled from within the ranks of the city's work force by promotion.

In effect, the order means the city will be reducing its current work force of about 2,600 by attrition. When one person retires or leaves city employe, he or she will not be replaced by a newly-hired person.

Zorinsky said he feels the suspension of hiring is necessary, but not a drastic step.

He classified a "drastic step" as the laying off of workers.

In addition to the hiring freeze, Zorinsky said Omaha residents can expect other economy measures to fight the effects of inflation and higher labor costs, but he did not elaborate.

Zorinsky added that he hopes the reduction in city employes will not affect city services.

Tuition Boost 'Surprises' Student Regent

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

University of Nebraska Student Regent James K. Say said Monday he was "surprised" and "disappointed" that NU President D. B. Varner sought virtually no student input before proposing a $1 per credit hour tuition increase last Saturday.

But Say offered a compromise — including matching state funds — which he said should be "compatible" to Lincoln campus students. The Norfolk senior is also president of the Associated Students of the University of Nebraska (ASUN), the UNL student government body.

Although Say has no vote as a student regent, he said at a press conference he favors the compromise ASUN executives drafted, rather than opposing the tuition increase.

The recommendations first call for the Legislature to view Varner's proposal as necessary because of current "inadequate budgetary recommendations" for NU.

Yet because of recent increases in on-campus student housing rates, student fees and "probably increases" in the costs of supplies and books, "the student cannot be viewed as an untapped source of wealth," he said.

"Secondly, the increase should be matched" dollar for dollar with state funds, he said. Say noted the state has "been remiss" for several years by not making NU faculty salaries competitive. Across-the-board pay hikes "still do not recognize the problem."

Third, he said, the tuition increase should be allocated to bring UNL teacher pay to the average of the other Big 8 universities. While Say supported the idea of merit pay, "the most pressing need is for parity."

Let Students Vote

If the increase is approved but determined unnecessary for faculty salaries after 1975-76 and tabbed for other budget items, then students should be allowed to decide if the higher tuition rate should stand or be reduced by $1 per credit hour.

Varner's proposal would increase resident student tuition by 5.6%, from approximately $18 to $19 per credit hour, and nonresident tuition by 2%, from approximately $48 to $49. The president said the increase would generate $600,000 for UNL, $300,000 for the Omaha campus, and $80,000 at the Medical Center in Omaha.

"If it were going to increase administrators' salaries, there might be some objection" now, Say said. Varner would earmark the increase exclusively for 1975-76 faculty salaries.

But "nobody's too sure this would always be earmarked" to award merit pay and also to eliminate inequities among departments, Say said. Without that assurance, as Varner has acknowledged, Say expressed a major reservation to approving the tuition boost at all.

Not 'Wholehearted'

UNL students "cannot give wholehearted endorsement" to Varner's catch-up pay move, Say said, but if the ASUN recommendations are followed, "neither can a majority of students wholeheartedly object."

Say said a "major concern" on campus was the timing of Varner's announcement Saturday, the day after the Daily Nebraskan published its final edition of the semester.

Young Kansas Man Said Wounded Twice In Back

Falls City (AP) — A young Kansas man listed in critical condition from a gunshot wound suffered Sunday apparently was the victim of two previous wounds.

Richardson County Atty. Thomas J. Gist said that attendants at a Falls City hospital told him that Marshall Moore Jr., 19, of Axtell, Kan., had suffered "two wounds of an unidentifiable nature in his back."

Moore was taken into custody after a warning shot fired by a Falls City policeman apparently ricocheted off a tree and struck him in the head. The incident occurred after a high-speed chase that extended from Horton, Kan., to Falls City.

Routing SUN, UMA Funds Through NU Urged

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln Faculty Senate passed two resolutions Tuesday urging that any money appropriated for open-learning delivery systems should be channeled through the NU budget, and calling for a decentralized university administration.

The senate also voted approval to seek a faculty leave program beginning in the fall, to maintain and improve academic competence at UNL and to allow faculty professional growth.

One Liaison Committee resolution noted that the role of the State University of Nebraska (SUN) project is to deliver to adult Nebraskans multi-media courses produced by SUN and its regional outgrowth, the University of Mid-America (UMA) consortium.

Budget Routing

Therefore, the resolution said state dollars earmarked for delivery of those courses into homes should be appropriated into budgets of the NU cooperative or general extension divisions or the Omaha campus continuing studies department.

The senate agreed such appropriations shouldn't be approved unless the total cost and effectiveness of delivering the SUN and UMA courses — approved for quality through faculty liaison — "show promise of being competitive with the cost of delivery systems now being used" through the traditional campus divisions.

The Legislature's Appropriations Committee has recommended a $125,000 budget item to support the SUN delivery system in 1975-76.

Autonomy Stressed

The second resolution approved unanimously urges that within NU Regents' policy guidelines, "campus autonomy in planning and administering academic programs be given high priority, and that system office administration of local campus activities be minimized."

Liaison Committee Chairman Jerry L Petr, economics professor, said there "has been a shift in policy-making from this campus to the system." He mentioned specifically the faculty's limited participation in designating "areas of excellence," and in the regents' controversial tenure suspension last month.

Petr said he's received no response from regents to a letter he sent the board expressing the Faculty Senate concerns and position on tenure, and offering faculty cooperation in drafting revised policies. Efforts are underway to unionize the faculty.

Neither of the two resolutions approved has any binding effect.

After considerable discussion, the senate approved the faculty leave program, but one member said amendments adopted in the proposal dilute it and could jeopardize the chance of it being implemented.

The senate deleted a section which would've denied professional leave to faculty members age 59 and older. Since the entire faculty would thus be eligible now, Faculty Senate President Richard Gilbert said maximum cost estimates for the program must be revised upward.

Estimates with the age limitation in effect were put at more than $298,000. That represents half pay for one-seventh of the eligible pool of 649 granted leave.

To qualify, full-time faculty and administrators must have completed six appointment periods without such a leave, and hold the rank of assistant professor or higher, or the equivalent. The senate rejected an amendment which would've allowed eligibility for full-time instructors with a doctorate degree.

Why don't you have a Weight Watchers® Pizza. Weight Watchers® Pizza?

Why not... nutritionally, one Weight Watchers Cheese Pizza can be substituted for one slice of enriched white bread, one ounce of hard cheese and 2 fluid ounces of tomato juice. You see, Weight Watchers International has developed a real Italian-tasting Pizza, made with tangy tomato topping and mozzarella cheese on a crispy, crunchy crust. And you can have them two ways: Sizzling hot with the cheese and spicy seasoning or with the addition of sweet green peppers. Either way, they're full of real, fresh-from-the-pizzeria flavor. And they're in your favorite supermarket right now. If not, ask your grocer to order them for you.

Drivers License Office Will Be Put In Gateway

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County drivers should be able to take their licensing and driving tests at the Gateway Shopping Center before the end of summer.

The County Board's two-year search for a new driver licensing office ended Tuesday when the board unanimously voted to negotiate for leased space in the northeast section of Gateway Shopping Center, next to Baker Hardware Co.

A proposed site at 47th and Baldwin Sts. was dropped in favor of the Gateway location. The University Place site had drawn protests from neighbors and area businessmen. Local traffic experts also felt that the 47th and Baldwin location would create traffic problems in the neighborhood.

The only criticism against the Gateway location — the high remodeling estimate — was dispelled when the architectural consultant told the board that the $35,500 estimate could be trimmed by one-fourth to one-third.

Bill Fenton of the Davis, Fenton, Strange and Darling, architectural firm, said that the original remodeling estimate was based on the highest quality material.

"The board has champagne ideas, but a beer income," said Commissioner Robert Colin as the board asked the firm to scale down the plans.

Though the Gateway site will be more expensive than the lease estimates for 47th and Baldwin, the board will save money by having only one licensing office. The smaller Baldwin location would have been one of two county locations.

County Treasurer Frank Golden has promised to provide staff at the Gateway office so that county drivers will be able to take their tests and pay for licenses in one stop.

The Gateway location decision is the culminiation of more than two frustrating years as commissioners searched for an adequate, centrally-located office. Commissioners and staff members have looked at scores of buildings and have come close to leasing at least six different sites.

Moving the licensing office from its present crowded space in the County-City Building will also open up space in the building for the long-awaited fourth Municipal Court room.

84th St. Work Federally Funded

The first drop from a $1.5 million bucket full of federal money that County Engineer Marvin Nuernberger plans to bring into the county will be used to upgrade 84th St.

The $400,000 project to resurface 7.14 miles of 84th St. outside the city limits has been approved at the federal level, according to Nuernberger. Federal funds from two programs (rural secondary and urban) will pay for 70% of the project.

The federal funding of 84th St. is just the beginning, and Nuernberger anticipates federal approval of almost $314,000 in bridge and culvert improvements within the next few weeks. This special grant for off-federal aid system safety projects is a 90% federal, 10% local split.

Within the past two months the county commissioners have signed more than 50 resolutions requesting federal aid — all a part of Nuernberger's efforts to improve as many county roads and bridges as possible with federal money.

Nuernberger plans to retrieve $450,000 in federal funds alloted to Lancaster County over the past three years, but little used. When that money is spent, Nuernberger said the county can get as much as $450,000 a year in further federal aid by seeking money not claimed by other Nebraska counties.

He is also working to get a piece of the state's $4 million annual share of Federal Highway Trust Fund (70-30 state-local split) for bridge improvements.

Work on the 84th St. project should begin in July and the resurfacing will include everything except O to South St., according to Nuernberger. The road will not be closed during construction, he said.

5 At Regional Center Get Woods Awards

Those receiving certificates of recognition and $100 cash awards for outstanding services were Gabriel Jeffires for extended care; Paul Grady, adolescent care; Mrs. Sharon Harris, acute care; Ms. Helen Knight, medical-surgical; and Steven Bean, security.

Louis H. Wilson Jr.

Wilson's Nomination Advanced

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Armed Services Committee Tuesday approved the nomination of Lt. Gen. Louis H. Wilson Jr., who directed the military evacuation of Saigon, as the new commandant of the Marine Corps.

The full Senate still must vote whether to confirm Wilson's appointment, as recommended by the Armed Services Committee.

Committee approval of Wilson came shortly after the outgoing commandant, Gen. Robert E. Cushman and the assistant commandant, Gen. Earl E. Anderson, asked Navy Secretary J. William Middendorf II to accept their early retirement.

Cushman, 60, and Anderson, 55, were central figures in an internal Marine Corps dispute over traditional letters sent to Marine generals by Cushman seeking their suggestions on his successor.

The letters, which traditionally are returned unsigned, allegedly were coded so the identity of those responding could be determined.

Refugee Plan Support Cheers Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford defended on Tuesday night the evacuation of South Vietnam as "very successful" and said he was encouraged by reports of increasing support for his refugee resettlement program.

In his first news conference since the fall of South Vietnam a week ago, Ford said critics of the evacuation of Saigon and U.S. ambassador Graham Martin were "Monday-morning quarterbacks."

During his 35 minutes on national television and radio, Ford was pressed on the aftermath of the Vietnam war particularly reports of a bloodbath.

Asked if there is hard evidence of major retaliation by the Viet Cong or North Vietnamese against persons in the conquered areas, Ford replied, "As of now, no."

By contrast, Ford said there is "very hard evidence" of the murder of 80 to 90 Cambodian military officers as well as their wives after the Khmer Rouge takeover there.

The news conference opened with a question on lessons to be learned from the U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

There should be no congressional inquiry into the war, Ford said. "It would be divisive."

He admitted to being "disappointed and very upset" over reports from around the country of resistance to the resettlement of thousands of South Vietnamese refugees.

This runs contrary to the American traditions, Ford said.

Elsewhere, George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, told a news conference that the United States has a moral responsibility to aid the refugees and help them find jobs.

Meany said America is a nation of immigrants. The estimated 30,000 refugees who will need jobs will be "a drop in the bucket," he said, in a work force of 92 million, even with the current unemployment.

At the Capitol, Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said after a meeting of GOP senators there was every indication of general support for Ford's request for funds for the refugees.

Earlier in the day, the President was reported as "damn mad" over the anti-refugee reports. But he said new developments late Tuesday had encouraged him.

He pointed to resolutions passed by the AFL-CIO and the American Jewish Committee as the basis for his encouragement as well as statements of support from the governors of Florida, Arkansas, Maine, Washington, Hawaii and the mayor of San Francisco.

"I'm very proud of those governors," Ford said of Florida's Reubin Askew, Arkansas' David Pryor, Maine's James Longley, Washington's Daniel Evans, Hawaii's George Ariyoshi and Major Joseph Alioto.

Although Vietnam dominated the question and answers, Ford was pressed a bit on the nation's economic position.

"We're in the process of coming out of a recession," the President asserted, with the upturn in the last half of this calendar year.

The most encouraging development on the housing market, the President went on, is the increase of new money to lending companies. "This means, of course, that there is money available for home buyers," Ford said.

In other matters, Ford made these points:

—The Domestic Council is studying gun control, but Ford said "I am not going to recommend the registration of gun owners or the registration of hand guns. If we can find some way to do it other than that approach, we certainly will consider it."

—He anticipates success at the next U.S.-Soviet summit meeting on reaching a nuclear arms limitation treaty.

—The Warren Commission, of which he was a member, found no evidence of a connection between Cuba and the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. "We found no evidence of a conspiracy."

Pansing, Maxey, Shafer:

School Post Vote Repeats Primary

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Pansing

Maxey

Shafer

The race for three seats on the Lincoln Board of Education was a carbon copy Tuesday of the city primary election last month, with the three women candidates — including the incumbent — again finishing easily on top.

Lu Pansing, Jo Ann Maxey and incumbent Williamette Shafer finished 1-2-3, with Milan Wall trailing a close fourth throughout the balloting. Oscar Sandberg and Jeffrey M. Poley landed fifth and sixth.

"I'm profoundly grateful to the people of Lincoln and the exceptional campaign committee that helped me," Mrs. Pansing said Tuesday night. "This election must surely confirm my beliefs that we need to emphasize basic reading, English and math skills, and a classroom in which the teacher-pupil ratio is very favorable."

Promises 'Best'

Mrs. Pansing, 55, of 2033 S. 33rd, promised to "do my very best," as did Mrs. Maxey, pledging to "really serve the people 100%."

Mrs. Maxey, 35, of 2800 S, said "I'd like for everyone to feel free to contact me" to improve communication between schools, parents and teachers. She said she's anxious to "get in and to learn what's going on and to do my homework well."

It was the first board race for Mrs. Shafer, 40, of 2906 Plymouth, who was appointed two years ago. "I will continue to do the best job I can" to maintain the confidence that voters registered in her board performance, she said.

4-Year Terms

The three housewives will begin four-year, unsalaried terms, joining T. E. Dewey, Pearl Goldenstein and Lou Roper, whose board seats were not up for election this year.

Mrs. Shafer's and Mrs. Pansing's candidacies were endorsed hy the teacher-affiliated Lincoln Education Association's Political Action Committee on Education (ACE). Mrs. Maxey had formal labor endorsement. Wall also had PACE support in his unsuccessful bid.

Mrs. Pansing finished in a commanding lead with 20,015 in complete returns.

Mrs. Maxey polled 18,802 for second place, and Mrs. Shafer, 16,309 for third. Wall came within 200 votes of Mrs. Shafer with one-fourth of the ballots counted, but that margin stretched to almost 600, as Wall ended up with 15,824.

Sandberg got 13,150 for a fifth-place challenge, and Poley won 6,521 votes.

Mrs. Pansing and Mrs. Maxey will fill two board seats currently held by John Lux and Marvin C. Stewart, who chose not to seek reelection.

Sikyta To Push For Transportation Dept.

Cook

Sikyta

Baker

Jeambey

paign this year evidently paid off, as he moved from fourth place in the primary to third place in the general election.

"The vote reflects my conservative views," said Baker, who campaigned on a platform of fiscal responsibility and support for law and order.

Sikyta promised Tuesday night to introduce an ordinance within the next two weeks creating a City Transportation Department. Mass transit and traffic engineering staff people would be combined in the new department, said Sikyta, who has already asked the city Law Department to begin drafting the ordinance.

Cook is already planning to work with the new mayor, Helen Boosalis, in creating a new urban development coordinator. This coordinator will work with both neighborhood improvement programs and with the business community for implementation of the downtown plan, Cook said.

Tightening the zoning classifications during the next year is one of Baker's priority concerns. He feels that the wide variance allowed under G-Local Business zoning should be narrowed so that "a company proposing to build a quaint antique shop can not turn around and put in a McDonalds."

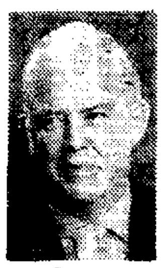
The Rev. Mr. Jeambey, a minister who was once a Lincoln radio newsman and who chaired the Goals and Policies Committee, said he will spend his first months just learning the ropes.

"I'm an amateur politician and a novice councilman, and for a while I'm going to learn," said Jeambey, who relied on a small group of friends as campaign volunteers and spent less than $1,000 in both the primary and general election.

Jeambey, 43, disagrees with a libreal label given him is recent media advertisements. "I'll try to be objective and a progressive type of councilman," he said Tuesday night.

Geis Top Vote Getter For Airport Authority

Geis



Joyce

The Good Guys for Geis Committee helped political novice Don Geis stage an upset victory as he soared to victory and won a seat on the Airport Authority board.

Geis was the top vote getter, while incumbent Richard Joyce won a second term of office.

In capturing 35.4% of the vote, Geis unseated incumbent Richard Chapin, president of Stuart Enterprises and member of the Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

Geis, 40, a financial planner, in a flurry of press releases, publicly staged announcements and other forums, had criticized the board for acting more like a private business than a public entity.

He questioned the construction of the new terminal, plans to throaw a $3,500 open house but the decision not to make some requested changes in the terminal for the handicapped and was critical of other board actions.

Joyce, 55, president of Henkle and Joyce Hardward, received 32.7% of the vote.

Chapin, 55, garnered 31.7% of the vote.

Council Must Adopt Plan

Lincoln voters overwhelmingly agreed Tuesday with state legislators that the City Council should be responsible for adopting the Comprehensive Plan.

By 73% of the vote, Lincolnites said the council, not the advisory City-County Planning Commission, should adopt the plan and all amendments to it.

The Legislature recently enacted a law making the council and County Board responsible for the plan. The charter amendment approved Tuesday, however, pertains only to the city. The vote was 19,923 in favor and 7,359 against.

Seminar About Addiction Will Host Four Speakers

Directors of four diverse facilitites for treatment of the chemically addicted will conduct a two-day seminar this weekend for local professionals in the fields of alcohol and drug abuse.

The seminar, "New Concepts II—Treating the Addicted Person," is sponsored by the Lincoln Council on Alcoholism and Drugs (LCAD). It will be held Friday and Saturday at the Nebraska Center for continuing Education.

The speakers, all involved in treating addicts, are:

—Dr. Lester R. Bellwood, psychologist, Methodist minister and chief of the alcoholsim division, Fort Logan Mental Health Center, Denver, Colo.

—Dr. John O. Grimmitt, chief of program development and education, Substance Abuse Programs, Veteran's Administration Hospital, Salt Lake City, Utah.

—Dr. James W. Smith, physician and director of Schick's Shadel Hospital in Seattle, Wash.

Dr. Dichter will be the keynote speaker at the Friday evening banquet which will coincide with LCAD's annual meeting.

Youth Run Over By Car Listed Good In Hospital

Sixteen-year-old Donald Karcher of 4618 Pioneers Blvd. remained in good condition at Lincoln General Hospital Tuesday after a car drove over him while he was in a sleeping bag.

Karcher was sleeping in a field near a small, private lake southeast of Hickman early Sunday morning after what was described in sheriff's reports as a rock concert and beer party.

Sheriff's reports said Karcher sustained chest and back bruises and a cut on his head. The car was driven by Jeffrey Johnston, 16, of 3900 J, who also had attended the event.

'Most Valuable' Awards Given 7 Professors

— A. Dale Flowerday, agronomy professor,

— Robert F. Guenter, architecture professor,

— James W. Healey, English instructor,

— Richard M. Hodgetts, business management professor,

— Earl F. Jenkins, professor of voice.

Thieves Remove 35 Tons Of Hay

About 35 tons of hay has been "lifted," according to sheriff's reports.

The hay, in the form of 1,000-pound rolls, was stolen from a field about eight miles south of Lincoln, where they had been stored since last summer.

Deputies said the rolls of hay, owned by Thomas Drudik, could be moved only with special machinery. The rolls are about ten feet in diameter and eight feet long. The hay is valued at a total of $1,500.

To Your Good Health:

There Is No Remedy For Receding Hairline

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read somewhere that nerves cause some people to lose their hair. Is this true? Is there any known medication to stop a rapidly receding hairline?

For the past few months I have noticed 10 to 15 hairs in the sink each morning after I comb my hair. I don't believe it is a family trait, because my father always had a full head of hair. I am I my early 30s and am quite concerned. — Mr. M.A.K.

Dear Doctor: I have an unusual nervous habit. When I am sitting around I pull hair out of my head. Now, after six months, I have a large bald spot in my head. I must know, will it grow back? I am a female. How long will it take to grow back? — Miss M.B.

I'll answer Mr. M.A.K. first. It is true that nerves can cause the patchy loss of hair, a condition known as alopecia areata. It is sometimes associated with extreme nervous shock. However, with your rapidly receding hairline you are probably undergoing a process called "male-pattern baldness," which often starts in the 30s. It is usually hereditary, and the fact that your father is not bald doesn't mean much. How about grandpa?

There is no remedy I know of to stop the process. One study did show that a reduction of salt intake helped somewhat. You might be checked for anemia or a thyroid deficiency, both of which can contribute to baldness. In such cases, hair returns with proper treatment.

Adequate protein in your diet is necessary to maintain a flourishing head of hair, but there is no evidence that increased protein beyond normal required intake will actually grow hair. It may prevent conditions in the scalp, though, that can lead to excessive hair loss.

I have to tell another reader (G.F.) that the vaunted virility of bald-headed men is a lot of hogwash, probably invented by a desperate baldy.

Miss M.B. has an obviously nerve-caused problem but a more manageable one. The medical term for it is "trichotillomania," and its origin lies in neurotic anxiety. To overcome it requires self control and sometimes counseling. But since hair grows in cycles — the rate varying from person to person — Miss M.B. can expect regrowth of her pulled-out hair in about three months. Fortunately for such people, hair follicles turn out to be pretty stubborn mechanisms.

The practice is analogous to nail-biting.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is using an ultra-violet lamp on the face dangerous in any way? I have heard that these lamps are good for acne if not overdone.

How does this type of lamp work, and what, if any, effects can it have on my face? — T.A.D.

The ultraviolet lamp can be dangerous in two ways. One is in injury to the eyes if they are not adequately shielded. The other is in skin burn from overexposure. They are the same dangers, in fact, to be encountered with sunlight, a natural source of ultraviolet light. This is why the lamp you refer to is also called a sun lamp. The lamp, though, holds more dangers because the rays tend to be more concentrated.

Properly used, the lamp can be beneficial in acne, and for reasons that are not entirely clear. We do know that the condition often is alleviated during summer months, and one probable reason is that the victims are more relaxed at this time of year. With summer approaching, you may notice some improvement yourself.

I wouldn't rush into a self-prescribed ultraviolet-light treatment. Some persons are more sensitive to the rays, so I couldn't not knowing your facial complexion, suggest any exposure time for you.

Ultraviolet treatment is usually prescribed in connection with other forms of therapy, and the best advice I can offer you, if you have a serious case of acne, is to practice scrupulous skin hygiene, and seek the help of a dermatologist who can evaluate your individual case.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In the morning, when I first look into the mirror, I notice this very thin skin over my eyelids. It appears to be scaly. When I remove it, the area is sensitive to the touch. Could this be a vitamin deficiency? I use eye shadow very lightly. Could this be causing it? — N.H.

You might suspect the eye shadow or perhaps your fingernail polish, both common causes of contact dermatitis, which you seem to have. The skin can often develop a sensitivity to one or more of the ingredients in such substances, even after years of continued use.

I doubt if a vitamin deficiency is involved.

HEALTH TIP

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Today's children must be educated to the realization that a major portion of their lives will be lived as "senior citizens."

The Nebraska Medical Association reports that many authorities in the field of aging maintain that "intelligent application of existing knowledge should produce an average life expectancy of 90 to 100 or more years."

Experts suggest that perhaps the best approach to living together is "Do unto your parents as you would have your children do unto you." The attitude of today's parents toward their own parents and childhood memories will largely determine what they can expect from their children.

The Nebraska Medical Association points out that the needs are the same at any age: companionship, privacy, separate friendships, mutual consideration, tolerance, courtesy and usefulness. With planning and understanding these needs can be satisfied in a three-generation, as well as a two-generation household. Happy living together begins with frank discussion and understanding.

Echeverria Plans Visit

Mexico City (UPI) — President Luis Echeverria will visit Cuba before his six-year term ends in late 1976, according to Foreign Minister Emilio O. Rabasa.

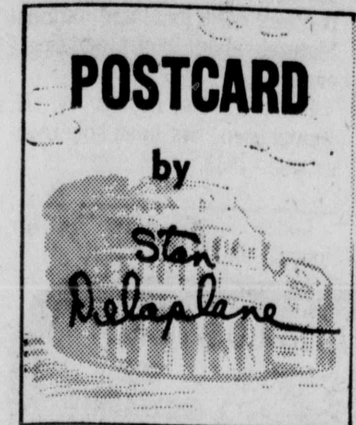
POSTCARD

by Stan Delaplane



Down to Lihue Stores this warm Hawaiian morning to buy a T-shirt. I got a blue sky number. Made by the Hang Ten people.

Black footprints march diagonally across the shirt to a small palm tree island labeled Hawaii. (So you should know where you are if you wake up in doubt some morning. If it's Tuesday, it must be Kauai.)

The Hang Ten comes from the surfboard fellows. You rise on the surfboard — like in the magazine ads — and you are hanging 10 toes on it.

The Hang Ten footprints also come in socks. I nearly missed those. I got a pair in fireman red with golden footprints down the side. A peacock of the beach who will long be remembered.

Go for broke. That's Hawaiian for "shoot the works."

Ah me, this is paradise. Where banana pancakes grow in warm piles at the eat-all-you-want breakfast buffets.

Where mainland wahines do the hula. And a man can wear bright blue shirts. Red socks with golden footprints. (Da kine, brudda. Numbah One.)

A little sliding guitar music drips from a hidden speaker. The tune is "We're Going To a Hukilau." The mainland women at breakfast twitch automatically in their seats. The Hukilau — net fishing song — is what they play when you're learning the hula.

A social director at Coco Palms said: "First it's got good rhythm: one, two, three and one, two, three."

She said: "Also it has easy hand motions. 'Oh, we're going to a hukilau' and 'We cast our nets into the sea.' "

She said: "On 'hukilau' they make hand motions like pulling in a net. 'Casting the nets' is an easy motion. That's a double meaning by the way. A Hawaiian boy says 'I'm gonna cast my net' when he's looking for a girl.

"The hula class feels deliciously naughty when I explain that.

"Then the line, 'All the ama ama come swimming to me' carries wiggly hand motions. Very simple."

Look, Mother. I'm a hula girl!

The waitress with a spray of white spider lily in her hair said to me: "You eat plenty banana pancakes you gonna get big opu." She put a hand on her stomach to show where the fat was coming.

Fat people were admired in early days. Kings and queens ate enormously. A Russian sea captain watched a queen put away three or four fish "each of which would be more than a meal for a healthy man."

The queen kept a royal opu puncher around. The captain was astounded to see "a stout fellow then leaped upon the queen and kneaded her stomach as you would knead dough for bread.

"This made way for more food and the queen ate two more fish. Then sighing she said: 'I have eaten famously.' "

Why do I need a new T-shirt? Well, the old one doesn't fit — it's getting tight. I think it shrunk. That's my story anyway.

The fact my pants are getting tight in the waist has no bearing on the matter.

Few people leave the sugar islands in the same shape they came in. (I don't look at myself in the mirror in profile. I face it head on. Eyeball to eyeball. And so to breakfast. The breakfast of champions.)

☆ ☆ ☆

Some Vietnamese May Settle Locally

Some Vietnamese refugees may be located in Lincoln soon as a result of a project being undertaken by the Christian and Missionary Alliance Churches in the United States and Canada.

Lincoln families have already expressed an interest in opening their homes as part of the project to resettle the refugees, according to Pastor H.B. Leastman of Rosemont Christian and Missionary Church in Lincoln.

He said that at least 500 members of the Alliance Vietnam churches were among the refugees airlifted by the United States government in the closing days of the war.

The project will include finding temporary shelter, teaching the refugees English, finding them jobs and placing them in permanent homes, he said.

Pastor Leastman said that more details on the project will be available afte a meeting of the general society of the church in Cleveland next week.

"Most of these refugees are now living under extremely difficult conditions in huge tent cities hastily set up by the government at Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines and on Guam and Wake Islands in the Pacific," he said.

Noting that hundreds of these refugees had been converted to Christianity through the denomination's missionary work in Vietnam, Pastor Leastman said:

"We want to get them resettled as soon as possible."

Denominational leaders estimate that a minimum of $500,000 will be required to provide assistance for the refugees until they can manage on their own.

Pastor Leastman said that immediate steps are being taken to raise money to finance the project.

Friends Of Grace Abbott Will Prepare Presentation

The Friends of Grace Abbott will meet at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, May 14, at the Family Service Association, 1133 H St., to prepare its presentation before the Nebraska Hall of Fame Commission.

The group is a coalition of organizations and individuals who support social reformer Grace Abbott's nomination for inclusion in the Nebraska Hall of Fame.

Hazel Stebbins is the coalition's honorary chairman.

Four co-chairpersons will lead the nomination effort before the Hall of Fame Commission. They are Jet (Jack) Higgins of Grand Island, Florence Burgger of Columbus, Leonard Jennings, representative of organized labor in Lincoln, and Jean O'Hara, executive director of the Nebraska Commission on the Status of Women. Dr. Al Schrekinger is the organization's secretary.

The group will make its appeal at the commission's meeting May 15 following the dedication of the bust of John Neihardt, who was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1974.

Grace Abbott, a native of Grand Island, was a leader in initiating child labor laws, improved immigrant protections and maternal health, and conducted numerous studies aimed at protecting the health and welfare of women and children.

Japan Covers Loss

Tokyo (AP) — Damages suffered by Japanese concerns in trade with South Vietnam because of the collapse of the Saigon government will be compensated by Japan's export insurance system, the Ministry of International Trade and Industry said.

Bankers Elect R. E. Burkley Of Fairbury

Omaha (AP) — Robert E. Burkley, chairman of the First National Bank at Fairbury, was elected president of the Nebraska Bankers Assn. at its annual convention Monday.

Robert Burkley

Burkley, who has served as vice president the past year, succeeded Richard E. Adkins, president of the Osmond State Bank.

James I. Black of Pierce was elected vice president.

The association named 13 new members to an expanded executive council to increase representation from outstate banks and suburban Omaha and Lincoln banks.

Elected were Victor Michael of Henderson, Henry Gramann Jr. of Adams, Lester E. Souba of David City, Don G. Johnson of Pilger, John E. Glandt of Nelson, Lee Calbaugh of Nelson, Keith Whaley of Sargent, Dale Stine of North Loup, William S. Olson of Oshkosh, Theodore King of Harrison, Karl Dickinson of Lincoln, and Kermit Hansen and Perry Francis of Omaha.

Omaha Youth Killed in Crash

Sioux Falls, S. D. (AP) — Stanley Whalen, 19, of Omaha was killed in a motorcycle-car crash on a city street here, the State Safety Inspection and Accident Records Division said Tuesday.

Date Corrected

The State Board of Education public meeting will begin at 9:45 a.m. Friday at the State Department of Education, 233 S. 10th, and not Saturday as reported earlier.

Publishing Houses Reportedly Will Buy Omaha Daily Record

Omaha (AP) — Sources report a group of Nebraska publishing houses headed by the Daily Record of Omaha is negotiating the purchase of the Douglas County Gazette and its feature extension, the Metro.

Mrs. Anne Batchelder, editor and publisher of the Gazette, and Ronald A. Henningsen, managing editor of the Daily Record, had no comment on the reports.

Reportedly, the Record had sought purchase of the Waterloo-based Gazette earlier, in about 1970. That was the year it was bought by Mrs. Batchelder's husband, Clifton, through his United States Check Book Co.

At the time, the Gazette was devoted mainly to reporting rural Douglas County affairs.

Mrs. Batchelder has since broadened its reportorial position, added local editorials and originated the color feature section, the Metro.

The newspaper moved to new quarters in Waterloo in 1971 and modernized its reproduction processes.

Mrs. Batchelder was an unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant governor on the Republican ticket last fall. She now is state GOP chairwoman.

The Daily Record and Record Printing Co. are located in Omaha. The publication was founded in 1886.

Although legal advertising is the backbone of the newspaper, it offers daily local and national features about court and legal events.

Henningsen's father, A. H. Henningsen, has been sole owner since 1958.

The New Prune.

Announcing, not just a new wrinkle, but a breakthrough concept that makes an airtight case for prunes.

Since the dawn of man, fruit has been the food for all seasons, the seed that sustains life itself. And yet, today, in our highly advanced world of satellites and computers, the prune still flounders in the Stone Age.

Until now. Until the Del Monte Corporation, imbued with a true pioneering spirit, summoned its resources in an all out effort to correct this unfortunate state of affairs. By combining the powerful forces of technology with the human desire to excel, the Del Monte Corporation has created a prune fit for the 20th century. A vacuum-packed prune with no preservatives—a prune so plump, tasty, and extraordinarily tender, many have actually said it tastes like it grew on a prune tree.

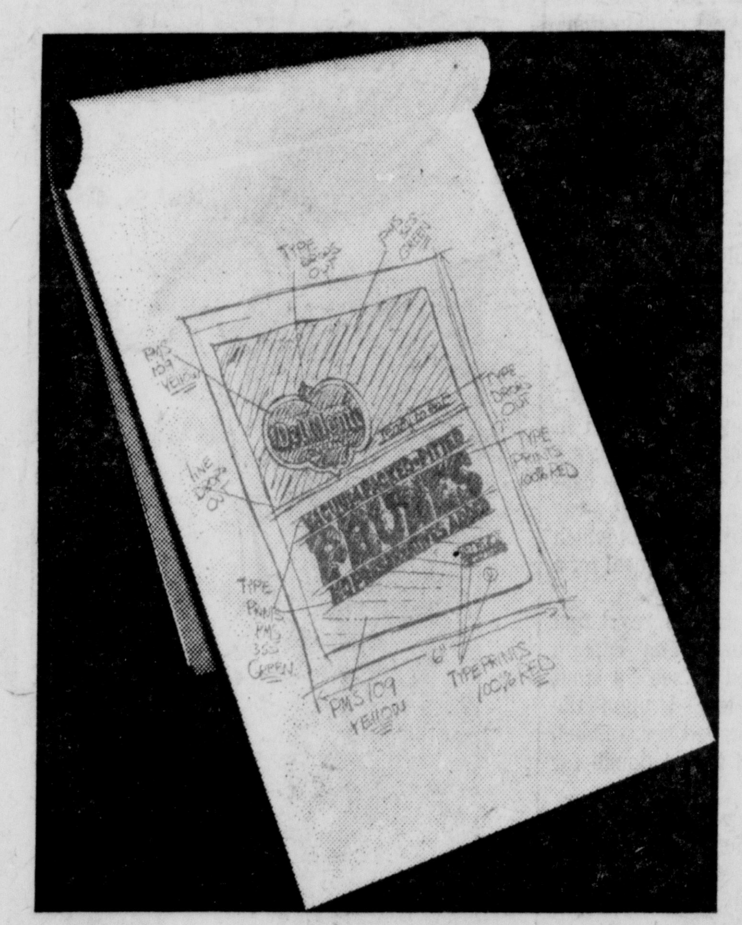
Some men see things as they are and say why. Others dream things that never were, and say why not.

The new prune.

The "Del Monte" Vacuum-Packed Prune with no preservatives.

Prunus domestica

Many have actually claimed the new prune tastes like it grew on a prune tree.



Through a revolutionary process of vacuum packaging, DEL MONTE has created an airtight case for prunes.

UNL To Confer Honorary Degrees

Atkinson

Bouwsma

Fonda

Johnson

Woods

Honorary doctorate degrees will be conferred upon five persons who have achieved distinction in their fields of endeavor at commencement exercises Saturday in the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Coliseum.

They include:

Daniel E. Atkinson, professor of biochemistry at the University of California at Los Angeles, who will receive his honorary degree, Doctor of Science, at the 10 a.m. exercises.

Oets K. Bouwsma, former NU philosophy professor now teaching at the University of Texas-Austin, who will receive his honorary degree, Doctor of Letters, at the 3 p.m. exercises.

Philip G. Johnson, NU alumnus and Lincoln accountant, who will receive his honorary degree, Doctor of Science, at the 10 a.m. exercises.

Frank H. Woods, Lincoln native and now a Chicago businessman and trustee of the Woods Charitable Fund, Inc., who will receive his honorary degree, Doctor of Laws, at the 10 a.m. exercises.

They are among six persons to receive honorary degrees from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln this spring. Edward H. Levi, attorney general of the United States, was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree May 1 at the dedication of the new University of Nebraska College of Law Building.

Dr. Atkinson is known internationally for his research in biochemistry. He has made outstanding contributions in the areas of metabolic regulation, the properties of regulatory enzymes, and energy metabolism. He is a native of Pawnee City, Neb., and obtained his B.S. degree with High Distinction from the University of Nebraska in 1942. Following three years service as a Naval officer during World War II, he earned his Ph.D. degree from Iowa State University in 1949. He has been a member of the faculty at the University of California-Los Angeles since 1952.

Dr. Bouwsma was a member of the NU faculty for 37 years before he went to the University of Texas-Austin where he has been teaching for the past nine years. He holds a worldwide reputation as a philosopher. He is regarded as the leading representative of the Wittgensteinian philosophy of logical positivism, founded by 20th Century philosopher Ludwig Wittgenstein. Bouwsma received a bachelor of arts degree from Calvin College and earned his M.A. degree at the University of Michigan. He received his Ph.D. degree from Michigan also.

Actor Henry Fonda has appeared in some 80 motion pictures, has starred frequently on Broadway, and was featured in two television series. He was born in Grand Island and grew up in Omaha. After graduating from Omaha Central High School he attended the University of Minnesota for two years before returning to Omaha to begin his acting career with the Omaha Community Playhouse. Most recently, he has been winning acclaim for his performance in the one-man biographical drama, "Clarence Darrow," soon to be presented in Omaha.

Philip Johnson is a native of Omaha and also a graduate of Omaha Central High School. He attended the University of Nebraska for two years before transferring to Iowa State College where he earned a bachelor of science degree in engineering. While working as an engineer, he studied accountancy, passed his CPA examination in 1932, earning the second highest grade in the United States. In the mid 1950's, he earned a law degree from the University of Nebraska Law College while continuing as manager of his CPA firm.

Frank H. Woods graduated from Yale University in 1928. From 1928-33, he was employed by the Harris Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago, and in 1933 he joined the Sahara Coal Co. as vice president and director. He was elected president of the firm in 1944. Woods has served as president of the Council on Foundations, Inc. He has also been a director-at-large of United Community Funds and Councils of America, Inc.

When the Woods Charitable Fund was incorporated in 1941, he was elected a trustee and treasurer of the foundation. Woods Foundation funds have provided for the partial support for the construction of the Nelle Cochran Woods Art Building, and have enabled the university to establish the Woods Faculty Fellowship Program.

Wesleyan To Honor Ackerman

James H. Ackerman

Honorary Degree Told

James N. Ackerman, chairman of the board of governors of Nebraska Wesleyan University, will be honored during the college's 86th annual commencement weekend Friday-Sunday.

Ackerman, vice-president and general counsel of Bankers Life Nebraska insurance company in Lincoln, will be presented an honorary doctor of laws degree at the 4 p.m. Sunday commencement.

On Saturday at the annual Alumni Banquet (6:30 p.m., in the NWU Campus Center) a portion of the program will be devoted to "A Salute to Jim Ackerman." Richard W. Smith, Ernest L. Smith, and Judge Warren K. Urbom, who have served on the board with Ackerman, will comment on his career and service as a student, community leader and board member.

To open the commencement weekend program, Ackerman will address the annual Phi Kappa Phi banquet at 6:30 p.m. Friday in the Campus Center. He will speak to the honor scholarship society on his experience as a businessman-teacher during an interim program at St. Olaf.

Ackerman is a native of Pleasant Dale, educated in Lincoln public schools, and a 1933 graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan. He earned his J.D. degree in 1938 from Harvard Law School.

At Nebraska Wesleyan, he began his service on the college's Board of Trustees in 1954.

Wife Balks At Meeting 'Sweet' Topless Dancer

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: My husband is friendly with a fellow whose fiancee dances topless in a bar. (I'll call her "Sandra.")

I'm ashamed to say that my husband has been to this bar, so he has seen Sandra practically naked. He says she has a "fantastic" body, even though she admits to having had silicone implants.

He insists that Sandra is a very "sweet and down-to-earth" person, and he keeps wanting me to meet her socially. (His buddy wants the four of us to go out together.)

Abby, I don't care to meet her. I would be very uncomfortable in the company of a woman whom may husband had seen topless. My husband says, "It's only a job," and that Sandra is as nice a person as I am.

Am I wrong to feel the way I do? What kind of a woman do you think would dance topless for a living? She can't be a very moral person.

ST. LOUIS

DEAR SAINT: Not everyone views nudity as "immoral." Some women (and men) pose nude for artists. However, if you would feel uncomfortable in Sandra's company, it's your right to avoid her.

DEAR ABBY: I was recently invited to a friend's home for dinner. The table was beautifully set, but after the guests were seated, I was surprised to see the hostess had not set a place for herself.

She said that she was "on a diet" and had already eaten her diet dinner. Then she served us and didn't even join us at the table.

Was this proper? I felt as though we were invited to her home to be given a free meal — like a couple of charity cases. What is your opinion of this?

FED, NOT ENTERTAINED

DEAR FED: Your hostess should have sat with her guests and eaten her "diet dinner" unceremoniously while you ate yours.

DEAR ABBY: When I was younger, I used to drive a car as though I were going to a fire. But now that I am married and have a son, I realize how precious life is, so I no longer drive that way.

I want to know if you think it's wrong to ask the person who is driving too fast to slow down. My husband says I should keep my mouth shut, and my trembling knees and nerves to myself.

Don't I have the right to have a safe trip? When I've been a passenger in cars with reckless drivers, I have promised God that if He would only let me get home safely, I would never get into a car with that driver again.

My husband has a fit every time I complain about somebody's driving. (Not his. He's okay. I mean friends and relatives who drive beyond the speed limit whether they are late or not.) Am I wrong?

NO EASY RIDER

DEAR NO: No! You are absolutely right! Whenever possible, avoid riding with reckless drivers. Should you find yourself trapped with one, let your feelings be known — loud and clear.

DEAR ABBY: My 16-year-old daughter received a phone call from a nurse at the Department of Public Health, who asked her to come in for some "tests." When my daughter asked, "Why?" she was told that a boy (I'll call him "Bill") who is being tested for V.D. said that he had been in contact with her.

Abby, my daughter is so upset, she doesn't know what to do. She swore on a Bible that she is a virgin and that she's never had sex with boy or any other boy. She said she dated him twice and didn't even kiss him goodnight once. I know my daughter, Abby, and she is not lying.

Does she have to take those tests? It doesn't seem fair to me.

HER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I think your daughter should take the tests. They won't hurt her. Perhaps the boy misunderstood the question and named all the girls with whom he had had contact — sexual and otherwise.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NEVER REFUSED HIM" IN ALBANY: Sexual expression is a gift — not an obligation.

Misunderstandings Can Create Havoc

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♦	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	3 NT	Pass
4 ♥	Pass	4 ♠

Opening lead — ace of diamonds.

Partnership misunderstandings create havoc at times, even in the best of company. For example, consider this deal from a match between Argentina and the U.S.

Nothing much happened at the first table where the American North-South pair got to four spades and West led the ace of diamonds. Declarer trumped and had no trouble making twelve tricks for 680 points when he crossruffed the hand, scoring eight trump tricks and his four side-suit winners.

At the second table, with Argentina now North-South, the bidding went:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	3 ♦	Dble	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
Pass	Pass

The American West threw a spanner into the works when he made a weak jump-overcall of three diamonds. North certainly had a super-sound double, but South found it difficult to pass, holding a six-card suit he hadn't mentioned yet. So he bid three hearts.

At this point North realized that there might be a slam in spades. Accordingly, he bid four clubs, planning to raise partner's spades later on and thus combine his anticipatory cuebid with a good-sized spade raise.

Unfortunately, South misread his partner's intentions. He thought that North had a two-suited hand with lots of clubs and diamonds, and that the hand was therefore a hopeless misfit. Accordingly, he passed, and the outcome was that North made five for 150 points.

When one partner treats a bid as forcing and the other does not, the outcome is often disastrous. You cannot expect harmonious results when the horns are playing Beethoven and the brass is playing Sousa.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast for Wednesday

Like their signs: Elton John, Aries; Susan Strasberg, Gemini; Roosevelt Grier, Cancer; Katharine Hepburn, Scorpio; Vincent Price, Gemini and Jack Dempsey, Cancer. The zodiacal signs and people go together, including the high and the mighty and the low and the lonely. From the Capricorn of Fernando Lamas to the Libra of Joyce Brothers, the signatures are there for all who will but look.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be more self-reliant than in recent past. A partner, close associate may rebel at previous plans. You could have to temporarily go it alone. You're capable and you will win. Know it; act accordingly. Promotion is in offing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You may be in an operation which previously was clandestine. Know it and be discreet. Insist on proper credits. One who claims to be doing you a big favor should be made to demonstrate. Maintain balance. Finish key project.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Friends may try to get you in middle of dispute. Maintain neutrality. Those who fight today could become allies tomorrow, leaving you in awkward position. Know it — conduct yourself accordingly. New contact could lead to meaningful relationship. Be receptive!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Commitments to family dominate. You may be able to rise above petty details, but main picture stays in focus. Property evaluation is necessary. Aquarius, Leo persons figure prominently. Follow through on inner feelings.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You may find yourself on wild-goose chase unless details are double-checked. Tendency exists for messages, calls to go astray. Know it and do something about it. Relatives, neighbors may be in mood to do battle. Don't provoke!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Money interests are accented. What was taken for granted should be reviewed. Read between lines of Leo message for valid hint. Marketing, advertising areas are affected. Get together with one close to you and iron out budget differences.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Ask questions. Find reasons. Don't be satisfied with superficial responses. Dig deep for information. Obtain it before committing yourself to any specific course. Gemini, Virgo persons figure in picture.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent is on domestic affairs, basic adjustments, ability to draw together those who hold opposing views. You could be chosen as a mediator. Maintain moderate pace — avoid extremes. Keep diet resolutions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Lovers' quarrel should be kept in perspective. Don't magnify minor setback. You get chance now to correct past mishaps. Do so with aplomb. Means maintain grace, balance and humor. Pisces, Virgo are involved.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): What you decide now could have long-range implications. Know it and act accordingly. Older individual offers benefit of experience. Accept without sacrificing your own independence. Message will be clarified. Home, business, property costs dominate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Hold off on journey, if practical. Means check necessities, reservations and expectations. Don't scatter forces. Get goal in sight. Highlight staying power, ability to finish what you start. Aries is involved.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): New approach to financial matters is indicated. Be independent without being arrogant. Get to heart of matters. Deal with person knowledgeable about display, showmanship. Member of opposite sex flatters you. Keep feet on ground!

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are spiritual, sensitive, stubborn, selective, your own person. You are going through a "test period," deciding what can be maintained, what must be discarded. Pisces, Virgo persons play significant roles in your life. October will be a key month for you, just as was true of this past January. Strive to see situations, individuals in a more realistic light.

(Learn "The Truth About Astrology." Send birthdate (for our survey) and 75 cents to Omarr Booklet, The Lincoln Star, P.O. Box 1111, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053. You'll open door to fascinating study and self-revelation!)

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

TV Commercials Said 'Dull, Stupid'

By LINDA OLIG
and LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writers

The latest shoot 'em up cops and robbers show fades out — just short of the exciting conclusion.

It's time for another commercial. Or two. Or three.

But no one stirs. No one heads for the refrigerator for a beer or snack.

C.W. McCall and Mavis take over the tube for another installment of their continuing "Old Home Fill 'er Up and Keep On Truckin' Cafe" romance.

Pretty Sorry State

For the most part, Lincoln homemakers think commercials are in a pretty sorry state of affairs. Some, like C. W. and Mavis, are clever, they say, but most are "dull, dumb, stupid," homemakers told The Star during a morning telephone survey.

The "baseball, hotdogs, apple pie and Chevrolet" commercial is liked by some of the homemakers. And so are some — mind you, some — of the gimmicks — the cats that sing or cha-cha, the dogs that talk.

But the homemakers drew the line right there. Commercials, as Mrs. Stanley Patzel, 1220 No. 37th St., puts it "are generally poor. They don't appeal to the intelligent viewer."

Talking Down

Mary Hawkins, 1925 No. 62nd St., echose those sentiments: "Some definitely" talk down to the viewing audience.

"One I hate the most" has Joey Heatherton lolling on a mattress, she says.

Mrs. Hawkins has bones to pick with other commercials — those that show women in high heeled shoes scrubbing floors or painting a room leaving the "$1,000 couches" uncovered. "I don't care how good paint holds to the brush or rollers, it's bound to splatter," she says.

Mrs. Robert A. Minter, 2001 So. 77th St., doesn't like commercials that pit one product against the other. "They're so silly," she says. The technique often prejudices her against the advertised product.

At least she remembers the name of the products advertised in that manner. The "dull and uninteresting" commercials don't even do that. "I can't tell when they're through what the product was," Mrs. Minter says.

Little or No Impact

The majority of those interviewed said commercials have little or no impact on which products they buy. Some even lead them to avoid purchasing a particular brand.

Too many commercials are shown over and over, complains Mrs. Lewis Edwards of Emerald. Repetition makes her suspect the product. "Anything that's advertised that much on TV, I don't buy. It's a big money-making scheme," she says.

Mrs. Edwards buys the products that have proven effective for her.

But Mrs. Max Cavey says she sometimes tries new products "to see if they're really as good as they show on TV."

Mrs. Hawkins has found that some aren't that good. The "more expensive brand" of dish detergent that supposedly goes further "makes my hands crack and bleed," she says. One laundry detergent "they're always advertising makes my family break out in rashes."

Promises Not Met?

Mrs. Clarence (Lena) Deer, 2635 Scott Ave., senses beforehand that some products aren't all they're cracked up to be. Referring to a much advertised oven cleaning product that claims to do it itself, overnight, she says, "I know you can't just wipe it off in the morning. You have to use a little pressure behind it."

About half the 16 homemakers surveyed said they were glad to have women in television commercials — but questioned the roles they play.

Women still are being used as "glamorous sex symbols" rather than "really knowing about things," says Mrs. Hawkins. Citing commercials in which in long gowns comment on the luxurious interiors of automobiles, she says, "She never puts her little head under the hood and mentions the carburetor or anything about the engine."

Mrs. Dellan Schlautman, 4619 Greenwood, says about "70% of the commercials are better than the programs" they sponsor, but she criticized commercials for not using women properly — the women "are usually more glamorous" than the norm and, hence, do not depict true life.

Woman's Lot Improving

But Mrs. G. H. Magruder, 7640 Lexington, says a woman's lot in commercials is improving. "She used to be some cute, young chick all dressed up," she says. "Now women are more ordinary looking . . . and some are older."

The homemakers interviewed indicated they were "turned off" by men doing all the promoting of a product while women silently do all the work — filling the washing machine, mopping the floor, cleaning the toilet bowl.

Mrs. Patzel says that helps "downgrade" women.

And Mrs. Charles Siler, 321 Glenhaven Dr., says some of those commercials advertising home care products are "more suited" to women but "it seems like women whould do the talking. If she is doing the work there is no reason why she shouldn't tell about it (the product), too."

Men Should Polish

Mrs. Jack (Gizella) Folmer, 1525 Arapahoe, says she'd like to see more commercials like the ones in which men polish the floor or do the laundry.

"Men wash clothes, too," she says. "Lots of men help around the house. Anyway, the maching does the work. All you do is put in the clothes and turn it on."

Pam Bitterman says word-of-mouth will sell a product faster than even the best commercial. "The kind of commercial I like is a friend will tell me she thinks something is really good or even cheaper."

No matter how much they interrupt the family's favorite television program, no matter how offensive they may be to some, commercials are a necessary evil.

"If we didn't have them, we wouldn't have television," observes Mrs. Deer.

Revolting Women Beginning To Revolt

By KAREN PETERSON

Women in television commercials are revolting—literally.

And they are revolting.

Actresses are fed up to their dish-pan hands with the insipid roles they are asked to play, and also with discrimination in job opportunities.

So say the women of the Screen Actors Guild, taking their place along side other feminists who have been shouting about the situation for some time.

To begin with, says a spokesperson with the Guild, "There are twice as many women used in TV commercials as men. But of the roles we do get, 80% seem to portray some housewife acting like a dolt."

Analysis Published

The Screen Actors Guild (SAG) has published the first statistical analysis of the relative use of men and women in TV commercials. The women's committee of SAG found that overall, men outnumber women two to one. But in certain categories of performers, the differences are a lot more dramatic.

Sharon Conners, SAG's women's committee cochairwoman, says 93% of the lucrative "off-camera, speaking principal" roles go to men. And 71% of the off-camera singing principals are male.

Ms. Connors points out that off-camera roles are extremely important to performers. Because they're not seen and aren't identified in the public's mind with a certain product, these actors can get more jobs than many on-camera stars.

Commercial work is vital to the Screen Actors Guild in these days of a wobbly motion picture industry. The latest statistics available show TV commercials provide about 53.6% of SAG members' total income, or about $73.5 million. That's opposed to 27.2% of member income from TV films and 18.4% from theatrical features.

SAG says women are getting only the kitchen's share of that money.

Agencies Irate At First

Says Ms. Connors, "When we first brought our study out, several advertising agencies were irate, saying our statistics must be wrong. But gradually they checked up themselves, and have let us know we're right.

"I do think we are seeing some changes in the use of women, but not radical ones. I don't think the people who produce television commercials truly realize that they favor men, and that the women's roles they do create are demeaning. What we're doing now is really consciousness raising, to let the industry know how we feel."

Within the next few months some SAG actresses are going to take consciousness-raising a step further. Ms. Connors reports, "We're going to go to the advertising agencies with our own 'commercials,' little plays to show them how they can use more women, and upgrade their image. Why can't we have female insurance salespersons, female bankers?"

'Idiot Housewife'

Many actresses would like to avoid the "idiot housewife" role, says Ms. Connors, but can't. "Let's face it," she notes, "we can't go to an audition and say 'I won't take this part. It doesn't reflect reality.' We can't afford not to work anymore than you can. We are going to concentrate more in the future on women's image in advertising, but right now we're concerned most with the bread-and-butter statistics."

Those statistics are outlined in the SAG survey. That project screened a random sample of 340 TV commercials from the 656 submitted for awards from the advertising community itself to its "Clio" organization in 1973.

Men in commercials dominate all the major product groups, including even the "female oriented" categories. In some product groups a woman does have a slightly greater chance of finding a job than in others — such as "nonalcoholic beverages" — but the odds improve for her only as an extra.

Extras don't get those all-important residuals." And residuals can mean from $1,500 to $20,000 more a year for a single commercial, the study indicates.

"True, we are seeing some changes, some cracks," concludes Ms. Connors. "Recently, I've seen two auto commercials using a female as the major spokesperson. Cars have been totally a man's field in the past. Maybe advertisers are discovering women buy autos, too."

"That's the type of thing we need from the agencies, production companies, TV stations, and advertisers. More quantity for women — and more quality," she says.

Bill To Provide More Family Physicians Gets OK

By United Press International

The Legislature gave preliminary approval Tuesday to a bill which contains a plan designed to provide more family practice physicians for Nebraska's rural areas by opening up more residencies.

The vote for LB571 — a plan worked out over the last two years by the Unicameral's Health, Education and Welfare Committee and the University of Nebraska Medical Center — was 35-4 despite questions raised by some lawmakers on whether it would live up to its billing.

Under the bill, which amounts to only a policy statement beyond the coming fiscal year, the Medical Center's minimum residency program would include for 1975-76 some 283 residencies of which 43 would be in family practice; 307 residencies of which 55 would be in family practice in 1976-77; 317 residencies of which 51 would be in family practice in 1977-78; 320 residencies of which 60 would be in family practice in 1978-79.

After sending LB571 over its first floor hurdle, the lawmakers gave 30-5 first round approval for a $586,045 funding bill to cover residency expansion costs.

Panels Planning Malpractice Insurance Study

A joint meeting of the Legislature's Banking and Public Health Committees voted Tuesday to hold an interim study on medical malpractice insurance.

The decision came after senators held a public hearing on LB602, which would allow the director of insurance to order companies to write malpractice insurance.

Although the senators did not kill the bill, the interim study action means the bill will probably not make it to the floor this year.

Omaha Sen. Larry Stoney, said, "I don't think this bill is worth a nickel."

Grand Island Sen. Ralph Kelly said he had become convinced that there is not a crisis.

Newman Grove Sen. Thomas Kennedy, chairman of the Public Health Committee, said a good malpractice plan in Nebraska could be a selling point to bring in doctors from other states.

Compromise Prison Program Awaits Reaction Of Governor

Key state senators Tuesday submitted to Gov. J. James Exon a compromise proposal for construction of new state prisons in Lincoln and Omaha.

Whether the governor will accept the new plan is open to serious question.

If he doesn't, Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln said, "the people who sidetracked the original program in LB417 must take the responsibility to pass the bill with sufficient strength to overcome a gubernatorial veto."

Third Delay

Otherwise, the Judiciary Committee chairman said, prison construction will be delayed for the third year in a row.

The bill originally called for construction of a single 300-inmate prison in Lincoln to replace the Men's Reformatory.

Sen. John Cavanaugh III of Omaha engineered a floor amendment which substituted two smaller facilities for the single new medium-minimum security institution.

Luedtke, Cavanaugh and other senators involved in the prison plan then conferred with Exon to seek agreement on a compromise proposal. The optimism which followed that meeting last week was not so apparent among senators this week.

Exon Unpredictable

"I don't know what the governor will do," Luedtke said.

The senators had been scheduled to meet with Exon again Tuesday, but they were not ready to confer with him when the governor was available.

Luedtke said he can "go along philosophically" with the new plan which, he said, is "very consistent" with legislative penal reform recommendations.

"But whether the governor will go along is a big question," he said.

2 Smaller Prisons

The compromise plan calls for construction of a 200 to 250-man prison in Lincoln, costing $5 million, and a 175 to 200-man facility in the Omaha area, costing $4 million.

Some $650,000 in planning money would be appropriated for the facilities in the coming fiscal year.

The Lincoln facility would be under construction by July 1, 1976, and the Omaha facility by Jan. 1, 1977.

An additional $50,000 would be appropriated to begin planning for new maximum security facilities for 250 inmates. Those facilities would improve or replace the Penitentiary.

Plans would be completed by July 1, 1976.

Luedtke said he is not sure the price tag for either the Lincoln or Omaha medium-minimum security facility is sufficiently high.

Appropriations Committee Endorses NU Tuition Hike

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's Appropriations Committee Tuesday gave its 6-2 blessing to University of Nebraska President D. B. Varner's proposal to hike student tuition fees in order to provide a fund for faculty salary merit pay hikes.

Varner's proposed $1 per credit hour boost in student fees is a matter for the NU Board of Regents to decide.

But the legislative committee built the prospective new revenue into the university's budget so it can be used for faculty salary hikes if the regents decide to boost the fees.

Bonus Raises

Those proposed salary increases would come on top of the salary adjustments proposed in legislative budget bills. Under those bills, state employes would receive a 5% pay boost plus $468 in fiscal 1975-76.

Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln authored the budget amendment to allow the expenditure of up to $1 million in fee-generated funds for special merit pay hikes and to correct faculty salary inequities.

The 6-2 vote found Sens. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha and Robert Clark of Sidney dissenting. Chairman Richard Marvel of Hastings declined to vote.

To Buy Campuses

In other action, the committee approved nearly $1.7 million in funding to purchase campuses for technical community colleges in Omaha and Lincoln.

A $449,000 appropriation was earmarked for campus planning and site acquisition in Lincoln for the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College.

Some $1.2 million was allocated for site acquisition in South Omaha for the Metropolitan Technical Community College. Two-year cost of the project was pegged at $1.6 million.

Some $300,000 would be reappropriated to the college from 1974-75 funding, and $920,000 would be taken from the Omaha state office building fund to complete 1975-76 funding.

Strong Support

The two-campus proposal was sponsored by Sen. John Savage of Omaha, with strong support from Sen. Shirley Marsh of Lincoln.

It cleared the committee on a 7-0 vote.

Sen. Leslie Stull of Alliance attempted to add a $200,000 appropriation for planning and design of a new plant sciences complex on NU's East Campus in Lincoln.

But that motion, even with a $10 million limit on the project's eventual cost, fell one vote short of approval.

A revised cost estimate on the facility has ranged up to $14 million, a figure which Simpson said is too high. The project may trigger a floor fight later this week.

$1.7 Million Added

On a 6-2 vote, the committee decided to add $1.7 million in special education funds for the Department of Education to a pending 1974-75 deficit appropriations bill.

That money, Education Chairman Frank Lewis of Bellevue told the committee, is needed to pay for continued funding of the expanded special education program approved in 1974 enactment of LB403.

The $1.7 million restores the $10.3 million appropriation approved by the 1974 Legislature for operation of the program. Gov. J. James Exon had used his veto power to cut that figure to $8.6 million.

The committee also approved a number of smaller budget additions for Kearney State College, for the NU Medical Center and for technical community colleges in Milford and Sidney.

Corporate Tax Hike Given Tentative OK

By The Associated Press

The Legislature voted 27-7 preliminary approval Tuesday for a compromise, 20% increase in corporate income tax, which could bring in $18 million depending on further legislative action.

The 20% increase advanced after a plan for a 40% tax boost on corporate income over $25,000 failed.

Springfield Sen. Orville Keyes' graduated corporate tax increase failed to advance on a vote of 20-28. After Keyes' higher increases failed, Omaha Sen. George Syas said, "The corporations have the vote all the time in this Legislature. The fact is, they always have, and always will."

The corporate tax rates are tied to the personal income tax rate.

Waverly Sen. Jerome Warner said the increase advanced Tuesday would raise $6.5 million at current tax rates. The current personal income tax rate is 10% of federal obligation.

If that were raised to 12%, that could bring in $14 million more in corporate taxes. He said a 13% personal income tax rate, as proposed by Gov. J. James Exon, combined with the bill advanced Tuesday, would bring in an additional $18 million in corporate taxes per year.

LB123 advanced Tuesday after Lincoln Sen. Wally Barnett amended the bill to provide a 20% increase in corporate taxes. Under the Barnett plan, corporate taxes would be set at 30% of personal income tax rates.

Warner took objection to Syas' remarks on corporate control of the Unicameral. He said he was tired of senators attacking the Legislature.

Syas said he would not vote for an increase in other taxes without a hike in corporate taxes. "I think the middle class people are being clobbered to death."

Later in the day, senators began consideration of LB589, the governor's proposed hike in the personal income tax rate to 13%. That measure would automatically boost the corporate rate to 3.25%.

Sen. Leslie Stull of Alliance proposed an amendment which would allow the governor or a majority of the members of the Board of Equalization to call the board into session to adjust tax rates at any time.

Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha argued that the Legislature itself should set the rates since it establishes the level of appropriations.

The Stull amendment was pending when the Legislature adjourned for the day.

License Plate Fee Hike Sent Back To Committee

By The Associated Press

The Legislature Tuesday sent a bill back to committee which was designed to charge motorists an additional $2 once every three years when license plates are issued.

The motion to send the bill back to committee was made by Omaha Sen. Ernest Chambers after Alliance Sen. Leslie Stull amended a bill to provide for the $2 increase.

The bill, LB69, originally would have set deadlines for Appropriations Committee action on the state budget.

Stull took out all of the language and substituted the $2 increase.

Stull said the increase was needed to pay the $1.8 million bill for issuing new plates next year.

Bellevue Sen. Frank Lewis asked Stull, "Where does the original $15.50 that we pay for those plates go?"

Stull said it went for road construction.

Gen. Clark Arrives

Rio de Janeiro (UPI) — Gen. Mark Clark arrived here to take part in a series of military celebrations. The ceremonies will mark the victory of the Brazilian forces participating in the allied effort in Italy during World War II.

Legislators Approve Agencies' Budget Bill

With only one slight change, the Legislature Tuesday approved $86.9 million in state tax funding for a dozen state agencies as recommended by the Appropriations Committee.

Included in the budget bill were operational funds for the department of Public Instituions, the Department of Public Welfare and the Department of Correctional Services.

All together, the measure, LB605, appropriates $211.9 million for operation of the 12 agencies during fiscal 1975-76.

Yet to come is floor action on major education agencies, including the University of Nebraska.

High State Support

LB605, which cleared its first test on a 34-3 vote, would increase state tax support for Public Institutions from the current $24.7 million to $31.4 million.

Included in that figure are $18.9 million for mental health programs and $8.6 million for mental retardation.

The bill hikes state tax support for Public Welfare from $37.6 million to $41.8 million, most of which goes for medicaid payments and for aid to dependent children.

Welfare's total budget is $123.7 million.

The Correctional Services general fund budget would be boosted from $8.4 million to $10.3 million, including money for Gov. J. James Exon's federally funded program of correctional improvements.

$200,000 Earmarked

The committee earmarked $200,000 specifically for improved educational and medical services and equipment at the Penal Complex.

The only change in the budget proposal was authored by Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha, who added about $17,000 to the funding of the Commission on Mexican-Americans to maintain a full-time staff member in Scottsbluff.

The Mahoney amendment was accepted on a 26-6 vote.

Proposal Defeated

Sen. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha attempted to add $150,000 in funding for the regional mental health office in the Omaha area, but that suggestion was rejected on an 18-29 count.

Tuesday's vote completed initial floor action on five operational budget bills providing $444.2 million in appropriations for 67 state agencies in fiscal 1975-76.

Included in that total is $156.5 million in state tax funding.

Mahoney's addition of $17,000 is the only change thus far from the committee's dollar recommendations.

Also advanced from first stage debate was LB609, a capital improvements budget bill financing maintenance, fire and life safety improvements and minor modificiations.

The bill, endorsed on a 31-1 vote, is an $8.6 million package. New construction projects will be considered in a separate bill.

County Judges' Raises Receive First Round OK

After haggling for nearly an hour, the Legislature gave first round approval Tuesday to a bill granting outstate county judges a 24% pay raise, and raising the pay of Douglas and Lancaster County judges by 5%.

LB141 advanced on a 28-5 vote carrying an amendment that would:

—Raise the pay of outstate judges from $20,000 to $24,000.

—Raise the pay of Lancaster and Douglas County judges from $27,500 to $29,000; but it would also allow the individual counties to add another $2,500 to that if they wished.

Senators rejected a series of amendments offered by various lawmakers.

They ranged from a proposal for a flat 5% increased, offered by Holbroock Sen. Richard Lewis, to one by Omaha Sen. John Cavanaugh that would have paid metropolitan county judges $30,000 and outstate judges $26,000. The Cavanaugh proposal would also have allowed Douglas and Lancaster Counties to add $2,500 to a judge's pay at their discretion.

Sarpy County Dam Repair Aid Bill Questioned

The State Justice Department questioned the constitutionality of an amendment to an appropriations bill Tuesday, earmarking $92,000 in the Governor's Emergency Fund to repair a dam in Sarpy County.

The Legislature Monday amended LB604 to tag part of the emergency fund to provide flood protection for citizens around Hansen Lake.

"We are of the opinion that the proposed amendment would not accomplish its apparent purpose because of the failure to amend the law dealing with the Governor's Emergency Fund," the opininon from Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas' office said.

It added that even if the law were changed, "our court might very well find it to be in violation of one or more constitutional provisions."

CONTAINER GARDENING . . .

Many of you are thinking about having a garden to provide the family with fresh vegetables — but do you have room for a garden? You may have a door step, window sill, balcony and that's enough room for container-gardening. You will need a few materials, seeds, and patience to follow a few instructions and wait for nature to take its course.

To start a mini-garden you will need to select containers large enough to hold the plant when it's full grown. Most any container can be used from tiny pots for window sills—to large wooden boxes and bushel baskets for the patio. Five gallon plastic trash cans are suitable for the patio — they are easy to handle and provide enough space for large plants. Plastic laundry baskets are attractive and can be modified for container-gardening by lining them with plastic sheeting. If you select a solid plastic container, allow for drainage by drilling four or more ¼" holes in the sides, along the bottom—NOT IN THE BOTTOM ITSELF. Then, to further help drainage, put about 2" coarse gravel in the bottom of each container. You can use a rich soil mixture or buy a soil substitute, or synthetic soil, which is a mixture of horticultural vermiculite, peat moss, and fertilizer. It's available at most garden centers and is especially good for container gardening. It is free of plant disease organisms and weed seeds; it holds the moisture and plant nutrients well and is light weight and portable. If you use regular soil, be sure it has a good mixture of plant fertilizers and humus, compost or peat moss to keep the soil loose.

Your success in container-gardening may partly depend on the quality of seeds you choose. Don't use old seeds as they will not germinate properly or grow vigorously. Many seed packets are dated, so be sure to check. Your local extension office can help by suggesting the best plant varieties for your area.

For more container-gardening send me your name or check your county extension office.

Or Write P.O. Box 81689, Lincoln, NE 68501

I would like some help in finding out where we could rent some land for a garden. We don't have a yard of our own, but would like to have a garden.

M. Duncan, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The City of Lincoln has a number of plots available for gardening and they're rent free, according to Pat Bornemeier in the City Real Estate Office. She says the plots are between 20th and P Sts. and about 40th and Adams. There is an agreement that has to be signed saying you will keep the land weed free and provide your own water. She notes you should contact her office as soon as possible, because bids are about to be let out to contractors to mow the remaining lots over the summer.

Is the Northeast Radial really dead? I've noticed a major four-lane arterial under construction between 48th St. at Treasure City to 33rd St. There is also a four-lane bridge being built in this location. What's the purpose of this street because most of the land along it is vacant?

Suspicious, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Public Works Director Bob Obering says the streets involved are Leighton and Huntington. He says the work is being done to provide for future traffic. Obering says this stretch is not part of the Northeast Radial, but will provide an access to the East Campus and to the Treasure City area from 33rd St. He says the land along this street has been zoned for multiple dwellings and the four lanes are necessary to prevent anticipated congestion.

* * *

We have a vacant apartment with a separate meter. Why are we being billed by the Lincoln Electic System when there is no electricity being used in the apartment?

A.B., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Customer Relations Manager for Lincoln Electric System Dar Blazak says there is always a minimum bill to connected meters. He says it's better to pay the minimum charge if the apartment is only going to be vacant for a short time, because there is a charge for reconnecting the meter. He says the only way to have no bill at all is to have the meter disconnected.

Our son, James, ordered $60 worth of parts from Fenwicks Gun Annex in Maryland last October. We have already written the firm and then in January his money order was cashed, but still no merchandise. Can ACTION LINE find out what we should do to either obtain the parts or get his money back?

Mrs. Stanley Vlasak, Wilber

ACTION LINE: We contacted the firm and a spokesman said the reason for the delay in cashing the money order was probably due to having trouble filling the parts order. He said a check is never cashed by the firm until an order has been filled and mailed. He believes your order has subsequently been lost in the mail and says the firm will need some additional information about the order before it can refill it. He asks that you send in another letter, because he claims there have probably been several thousand orders filled since yours was sent. If this action fails, please contact ACTION LINE and we will call Fenwicks again.

ACTION LINE UPDATE: Fiddling De, a woman who has researched early fiddle playing in Nebraska for 18 years, has a suggestion for Tom Weisbecker in his search for harmonica players (ACTION LINE April 28). She advises Tom to write Archive of Folk Songs, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C., 20540. She says the library will be able to send him a bibliography on harmonics and harmonica players.

Last October we ordered five family crests from Halbert's Inc. of Bath, Ohio. We've contacted the company numerous times, but no reply or crests. Will ACTION LINE find out what happened to them?

ACTION LINE: Mrs. Dev Hran, with the firm's customer service department, assured us that your order will be reprocessed which will take about three weeks. In the meantime she will be in correspondence with you to explain the delay. If you don't hear from the firm in the next week or so, contact ACTION LINE again.

Jury List Challenged For Excluding Indians

By United Press International

Three men accused of felony charges in Lancaster County District Court are challenging jury selection on racial grounds.

Samuel Van Pelt said he can't recall a similar challenge to a district court jury locally, although the tactic was employed during civil rights trials in the South.

Larry Martinez, 24, Lawrence V. Redshirt, 23, and Garret E. Wounded Head, 21, have each been charged with one count of robbery and two counts of assault with intent to do great bodily harm. They are American Indians.

The charges grew out of a Nov. 29, 1974, incident in which two men were beaten after a party.

Defense motions charge the jury selection was designed "to systematically exclude persons solely because they are members of the Indian race" and that the defendants will be denied equal protection of the laws and due process in violation of the federal and state constitutions.

Paul Conley, a public defender representing Redshirt, said he will request that at least one Indian be included on the jury.

Conley said fair representation is "trial by your peers," adding no Indians have been chosen for jury duty in Lincoln for the past 20 years.

"It's always possible that a white jury will be unable to put away their anti-Indian beliefs," he said.

Bernie McGinn, chief deputy county attorney, said he will ask for arguments on the motion Friday but said the trial probably will not begin before July.

He said the jury selection was done in compliance with the statutes and the defense motions are doomed to failure.

U.S. Newsprint Users Stocking Up

U.S. newsprint users had slightly more than 1 million tons or a 57-day supply on hand at the end of March compared with 707,302 tons or a 35-day supply a year ago. At the end of December U.S. consumers' inventories were equal to a 44-day supply, the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association said Tuesday.

About 80 major labor contracts covering 40,000 workers in Canada's pulp and paper industry came up for renewal May 1. Negotiations between the companies and the Canadian Paperworkers Union which represents the majority of the workers are scheduled to begin this week.

Canadian newsprint producers account for about 70% of all newsprint used in the United States.

Demand by American newsprint users helped push March shipments of Canadian newsprint to the United States to 551,346 tons.

Stock Prices Plunge

NEW YORK (AP) — Profit taking, especially in blue chip issues, brought an abrupt halt to the stock market's most recent rally Tuesday and sent the Dow Jones industrial average to its biggest drop of the year.

The widely followed average of 30 blue chip industrials, which had gained 52 points in the four previous sessions, fell 20.88 to 834.72.

The Dow's worst previous showing this year had been a 19.63 drop on March 24.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was off 1.44 at 88.64, and the New York Stock Exchange's composite index gave up .69 to 46.91.

Analysts said the market appeared to have been in the process of absorbing typical profit-taking pressures through the morning and early afternoon after the gains of the past four trading days.

The Dow was down about 5 points at mid-afternoon, when the slide intensified after AFL-CIO President George Meany issued a gloomy prediction on the unemployment outlook.

The labor leader forecast an unemployment rate as high as 11.5 per cent before the recession bottoms out.

Administration forecasts are for a peak rate of slightly more than 9 per cent. The rate stood at 8.9 on the last official reading.

Meany had previously talked of a 10 per cent rate by summer.

Hogs, Cattle Post Gains

Already at their highest levels in nearly two years, both hogs and cattle posted good gains.

The hog run totaled just 3,500 head, with barrows and gilts trading moderately active. The butcher trend was 75-cents to $1.00 higher on offerings weighing in from 200-to-260 pounds, $1.00-to-$1.50, instances $1.75 higher on heavier weights.

Cattle receipts totaled 5,000 head. Steers and heifers were moderately active, and strong to 50-cents higher. Some sales ranged from 75-cents to as much as $1.00 higher.

Cows were strong to 50-cents higher, instances $1.00 to the upside.

Sheep offerings totaled 300, but there haven't been enough slaughter lambs in recent weeks for price a comparison. Slaughter ewes turned steady.

Commodities Fluctuate, End On Mixed Note

Chicago (AP) — Farm commodity futures traded nervously through most the session on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday and most closed on irregular tones. Soybean futures were lower.

There were several factors that influenced the movements of prices, but none was strong enough for a sustained drive. In the closing minutes profit-taking on brief long positions and the selling of old crop soybeans against purchases of new crop produced a loss of nearly 10 cents in the expiring May option.

Wheat, corn and oats prices also were mixed.

Air Fare War Sparks Wide Variety Of Rates

By JANE BRYANT QUINN

Jane Bryant Quinn

New York — We've been blessed, and cursed, with a new air fare war. It's nice, because the price of travel has come down. But it's a blasted nuisance to sort through dozens of promotional fares, trying to find the best rate to anywhere. There are something like 50 possible ticket prices between New York and Honolulu, I'm told by Northwest Airlines, which has to know them all.

The cheapest ones are encrusted with restrictions as to when and how you can fly. But with the patience of Job, you can probably find a way to fit your holiday schedule to the peculiar time requirements of one or another discount fare.

The trick is to discover them all. William Houlihan, of Northwest's New York office, advises would-be vacationers to call airline ticket offices during the evening hours, when the employes are less rushed. Don't ask for "the" fare to your destination, because there isn't just one.

Instead, describe the trip you propose, and let the clerk make some suggestions as to what the best arrangement might be. Or better yet, put your problem in the hands of a travel agent, who should be up-to-date on the promotional fares of all the airlines. He doesn't charge you anything (he's paid by the airline), and his professional knowledge can save you hours of work.

Examples Listed

Here are some of the fares available:

—The No-Frills Fare — Generally available between Florida and a growing number of American cities. You get no food and minimal amenities, although competition is rapidly sneaking a few luxuries (like drinks) into the cheap seats. The discount is 35%, good Monday to Thursday, in certain months, on fares paid at least seven days in advance. If you change your mind, you forfeit $10 or 10%, whichever is larger.

—A Night Coach Fare — 20% off on certain intermediate and long-distance routes. Most of these flights leave late at night, but some can be had at the crack of dawn.

—A Day Coach Excursion — 25% off for trips of at least 750 miles. And a Night-Coach Excursion — 30% off for trips of at least 1,000 miles. You generally can't get these fares on weekends or during the peak summer season, but always ask because there are some exceptions. Your trip must last seven to 30 days. Fares are paid seven days in advance; there is usually no penalty if you cancel at the last minute.

—A Plan-Ahead Fare — Round-trip only, transcontinental, for people willing to reserve 60 days in advance, pay 30 days in advance, and forfeit $40 if they can't go. Discounts range from 30% to 40%, with the cheaper fares offered midweek and off season.

—Vacation Tour Packages — For travelers willing to pay for such ground arrangements as hotels or auto rentals along with their plane tickets. On combination deals, the air-fare portion usually runs around 25% off.

—Midweek Specials — On some routes, such as San Francisco to Hawaii, at either "frills" or "no-frills" rates.

Other Discounts

Other discount proposals have been filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board, including a lower night-coach fare, a youth fare, a fare for people over 65, and a family plan. But the CBA on April 23 turned down Trans World Airlines' proposal to reduce domestic fares by one-third for youths, families, and the elderly.

There are also some specials for overseas flights, but they're not as exotic. All the scheduled airlines except Icelandic have the same rate card. The round-trip summer fare to Europe on Icelandic (New York to Luxembourg, via Reykjavik) is $381 for people who sign up 60 days in advance, compared with $426 on the other airlines.

The real competition among international airlines is in the area of inexpensive packaged tours. With Swissair, for example, you can get a two-week vacation in Switzerland, hotels and some meals included, for $524 plus $194 for car rental. Icelandic offers travelers who want to camp in Europe a round-trip air fare (before June 1) of $290, plus $650 for a four-person camper for two weeks. (After, June 1, the air fare jumps to $420.) There are scores of other such trips available.

To compare them, try a travel agent first. Or pay a visit to two or three airline ticket offices. But double-check the rates before making any final plans. Prices change so rapidly both here and abroad that you might have to pay a little more than you first expected.

Richling Accused Of Misrepresentation

By United Press International

An attorney for an Omaha man told the Nebraska Supreme Court Tuesday that the Douglas County prosecutor of 28 years ago — he's now a judge — misrepresented the weight of the evidence in two murder trials in an attempt to induce guilty pleas.

J. William Gallup of Omaha, attorney for Charles McClelland, told the High Court "appellant's treatment by Douglas County authorities was outrageous and inexcusable."

He was referring specifically to Theodore Richling, who is now a Douglas County district court judge.

"Ever since his pleas were accepted, there has been a dark cloud hovering over the courthouse where they were entered," Gallup said. "It is time that cloud was dissipated by the light of truth."

"Charles McClelland has spent 28 years awaiting that light," he added.

In the case, McClelland pleaded guilty to charges of second degree murder in the shooting deaths of Robert and Elizabeth May on Aug. 27, 1947. He was sentenced to life terms in prison. Gallup is trying for reversals of those convictions.

At the time, Gallup said, McClelland was 17-years-old and he gave five or six written confessions" to authorities. However, the attorney said, none of them were true and they were induced by claims of weighty evidence by the prosecution.

As it turned out, the attorney said, "there was no evidence to connect appellant with the crime." Further, he said, "none of appellant's statements checked out with the physical evidence."

Referring to the activities of Richling as prosecutor, Gallup said, "the relentless, ambitious prosecutor went after appellant like a tiger after fresh meat. By the time he had finished with appellant, neither he nor his attorneys had any desire for a trial."

Further, Gallup told the High Court that one Clyde Thomas, "appeared in the office of this writer unsolicited and unannounced" and "stated that prosecutor Richling admitted that he had convicted the wrong man."

Gallup said some of the claimed evidence which did not materialize was a revolver cartridge that matched and a package of blood-stained clothing.

Uhlig Rites Held In Broken Bow

Mason City — Funeral services for Arnold Uhlig, 63, who was killed in a tractor accident on his farm near here Thursday were held Monday at Broken Bow.

Custer County Attorney Steve Stumpff said Uhlig was pulling a plow with a tractor when the tractor's front wheels apparently came loose, dropping the machine to the ground and throwing Uhlig beneath a rear wheel.

The victim's survivors include his wife, Berniece; sons, Alton of Mason City and Arlen of Cozad; a brother, Leonard of Gothenburg; and three grandchildren.

Polyglas Radial

This new Polyglas tire makes it easy to join the switch to radials — especially during this sale period. Both the 70-series wide tread and the 78-series sizes provide radial handling and performance, with all the built-in advantages of fiberglass cord belts and polyester cord bodies. On dry pavement, the grip-block tread is designed to give real cornering assurance. On wet roads, wide tread grooves help channel water out from under the tire for good contact, good stopping traction. This 30,000 mile tire is an unusual value — especially during this sale period. Act now.

Drivers License Office Will Be Put In Gateway

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County drivers should be able to take their licensing and driving tests at the Gateway Shopping Center before the end of summer.

The County Board's two-year search for a new driver licensing office ended Tuesday when the board unanimously voted to negotiate for leased space in the northeast section of Gateway Shopping Center, next to Baker Hardware Co.

A proposed site at 47th and Baldwin Sts. was dropped in favor of the Gateway location. The University Place site had drawn protests from neighbors and area businessmen. Local traffic experts also felt that the 47th and Baldwin location would create traffic problems in the neighborhood.

The only criticism against the Gateway location — the high remodeling estimate — was dispelled when the architectural consultant told the board that the $35,500 estimate could be trimmed by one-fourth to one-third.

Bill Fenton of the Davis, Fenton, Strange and Darling, architectural firm, said that the original remodeling estimate was based on the highest quality material.

"The board has champagne ideas, but a beer income," said Commissioner Robert Colin as the board asked the firm to scale down the plans.

Though the Gateway site will be more expensive than the lease estimates for 47th and Baldwin, the board will save money by having only one licensing office. The smaller Baldwin location would have been one of two county locations.

County Treasurer Frank Golden has promised to provide staff at the Gateway office so that county drivers will be able to take their tests and pay for licenses in one stop.

The Gateway location decision is the culminiation of more than two frustrating years as commissioners searched for an adequate, centrally-located office. Commissioners and staff members have looked at scores of buildings and have come close to leasing at least six different sites.

Moving the licensing office from its present crowded space in the County-City Building will also open up space in the building for the long-awaited fourth Municipal Court room.

84th St. Work Federally Funded

The first drop from a $1.5 million bucket full of federal money that County Engineer Marvin Nuernberger plans to bring into the county will be used to upgrade 84th St.

The $400,000 project to resurface 7.14 miles of 84th St. outside the city limits has been approved at the federal level, according to Nuernberger. Federal funds from two programs (rural secondary and urban) will pay for 70% of the project.

The federal funding of 84th St. is just the beginning, and Nuernberger anticipates federal approval of almost $314,000 in bridge and culvert improvements within the next few weeks. This special grant for off-federal aid system safety projects is a 90% federal, 10% local split.

Within the past two months the county commissioners have signed more than 50 resolutions requesting federal aid — all a part of Nuernberger's efforts to improve as many county roads and bridges as possible with federal money.

Nuernberger plans to retrieve $450,000 in federal funds alloted to Lancaster County over the past three years, but little used. When that money is spent, Nuernberger said the county can get as much as $450,000 a year in further federal aid by seeking money not claimed by other Nebraska counties.

He is also working to get a piece of the state's $4 million annual share of Federal Highway Trust Fund (70-30 state-local split) for bridge improvements.

Work on the 84th St. project should begin in July and the resurfacing will include everything except O to South St., according to Nuernberger. The road will not be closed during construction, he said.

Wilson's Nomination Advanced

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Armed Services Committee Tuesday approved the nomination of Lt. Gen. Louis H. Wilson Jr., who directed the military evacuation of Saigon, as the new commandant of the Marine Corps.

The full Senate still must vote whether to confirm Wilson's appointment, as recommended by the Armed Services Committee.

Committee approval of Wilson came shortly after the outgoing commandant, Gen. Robert E. Cushman and the assistant commandant, Gen. Earl E. Anderson, asked Navy Secretary J. William Middendorf II to accept their early retirement.

Cushman, 60, and Anderson, 55, were central figures in an internal Marine Corps dispute over traditional letters sent to Marine generals by Cushman seeking their suggestions on his successor.

The letters, which traditionally are returned unsigned, allegedly were coded so the identity of those responding could be determined.

Refugee Plan Support Cheers Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford defended on Tuesday night the evacuation of South Vietnam as "very successful" and said he was encouraged by reports of increasing support for his refugee resettlement program.

In his first news conference since the fall of South Vietnam a week ago, Ford said critics of the evacuation of Saigon and U.S. ambassador Graham Martin were "Monday-morning quarterbacks."

During his 35 minutes on national television and radio, Ford was pressed on the aftermath of the Vietnam war particularly reports of a bloodbath.

Asked if there is hard evidence of major retaliation by the Viet Cong or North Vietnamese against persons in the conquered areas, Ford replied, "As of now, no."

By contrast, Ford said there is "very hard evidence" of the murder of 80 to 90 Cambodian military officers as well as their wives after the Khmer Rouge takeover there.

The news conference opened with a question on lessons to be learned from the U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

There should be no congressional inquiry into the war, Ford said. "It would be divisive."

He admitted to being "disappointed and very upset" over reports from around the country of resistance to the resettlement of thousands of South Vietnamese refugees.

This runs contrary to the American traditions, Ford said.

Elsewhere, George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, told a news conference that the United States has a moral responsibility to aid the refugees and help them find jobs.

Meany said America is a nation of immigrants. The estimated 30,000 refugees who will need jobs will be "a drop in the bucket," he said, in a work force of 92 million, even with the current unemployment.

At the Capitol, Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said after a meeting of GOP senators there was every indication of general support for Ford's request for funds for the refugees.

Earlier in the day, the President was reported as "damn mad" over the anti-refugee reports. But he said new developments late Tuesday had encouraged him.

He pointed to resolutions passed by the AFL-CIO and the American Jewish Committee as the basis for his encouragement as well as statements of support from the governors of Florida, Arkansas, Maine, Washington, Hawaii and the mayor of San Francisco.

"I'm very proud of those governors," Ford said of Florida's Reubin Askew, Arkansas' David Pryor, Maine's James Longley, Washington's Daniel Evans, Hawaii's George Ariyoshi and Major Joseph Alioto.

Although Vietnam dominated the question and answers, Ford was pressed a bit on the nation's economic position.

"We're in the process of coming out of a recession," the President asserted, with the upturn in the last half of this calendar year.

The most encouraging development on the housing market, the President went on, is the increase of new money to lending companies. "This means, of course, that there is money available for home buyers," Ford said.

In other matters, Ford made these points:

—The Domestic Council is studying gun control, but Ford said "I am not going to recommend the registration of gun owners or the registration of hand guns. If we can find some way to do it other than that approach, we certainly will consider it."

—He anticipates success at the next U.S.-Soviet summit meeting on reaching a nuclear arms limitation treaty.

—The Warren Commission, of which he was a member, found no evidence of a connection between Cuba and the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. "We found no evidence of a conspiracy."

McFarland, Briscoe Trade Clubs In NFL

Marlin Briscoe, left, Hubert Ginn traded by the Miami Dolphins to the St. Louis Cardinals. →

From News Wires

The Miami Dolphins acquired running back Donny Anderson and reserve tight end James McFarland, a former Husker standout, from the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday for wide receiver Marlin Briscoe, a former UNO standout, and reserve running back Hubert Ginn.

Dolphins coach Don Shula made it plain at a news conference that he expects the 32-year-old Anderson to fill the hole left by the departure of Jim Kiick to Memphis of the World Football League.

Kiick was noted for catching passes in crucial third-down situations.

Besides that, Texan Garry Don Anderson, entering his 10th year in the National Football League, will serve as a backup punter for the Dolphins' Larry Seiple. He has a 39.6 average and boots them high the way Shula likes.

In Briscoe, the Cardinals will be getting the man who led the Dolphins in pass receiving in 1973, the season Miami capped with a second consecutive Super Bowl victory.

Briscoe, a seven-year veteran, was hampered by injuries last season but is reported in top shape.

Briscoe had asked to be traded because he felt he was kept too long in injured reserve status last season.

"This will give Briscoe what he wants — to go with a good team that believes in throwing the ball," Shula said.

In five years with St. Louis, the 6-foot-5, 225-pound McFarland has played behind Jackie Smith, one of the premier tight ends in pro football.

Shula said his interest in the North Platte, Nebraska native stemmed from the fact that Andre Tillman has not recovered well from a rookie season knee injury last year.

Kiick's Replacement

A backup is needed for Jim Mandich and Marv Fleming, who is approaching retirement age.

McFarland, who lives in Lincoln, said he has agreed to a multi-year contract with the Dolphins and talked with Shula and George Young, Miami's director of player personnel.

"The Dolphins expressed an interest in me, so I wasn't surprised by the trade," McFarland said. "Hopefully this will give me a chance to play more."

Ginn, entering his sixth year as a pro, is a good special teams man who spent three years with the Dolphins, a year with the Baltimore Colts after a trade for Don Nottingham, then came back to the Dolphins last year as a free agent.

In other pro football news Phil Olsen, Los Angeles Rams' reserve defensive end, agreed to terms with Denver and wide receiver Otto Stowe, a former Iowa State standout, came to the Rams from the Broncos in a transaction involving two free agents.

Quarterback Bob Lee of the Atlanta Falcons officially became a free agent when head coach Marion Campbell announced that he no longer fits in the Falcon plans.

The New Orleans Saints announced they have signed wide receiver Al Barnes as a free agent and released another wide receiver, Sam Havrilak, on waivers.

Phil Iselin, president of the New York Jets, thinks he has made Joe Namath an offer the quarterback can't refuse.

The offer is a reported $1 million over three years for the 31-year-old star who played out his option with the National Football League club last season.

Iselin thinks Namath will take it. The Jets boss just doesn't know when.

Falstaff Only Unbeaten Team

By BOB MOYER

Falstaff emerged as the only unbeaten team after six nights of play in the Lincoln AAA Fast Pitch Softball League Tuesday night at Ballard Field.

Falstaff defeated Dick Flynn Buick, 5-1, in a battle between two previously unbeaten clubs in the first game of a doubleheader and then Stan's Lounge dropped Valentino's, 7-1, to give Val's their first loss of the season.

The win gave Falstaff a 3-0 mark. Stan's Lounge, Misty Lounge and Dick Flynn Buick are all now 2-1.

Bill Slaughter, Duane Eichorn and winning pitcher Bill Crumb pounded home runs to pace Falstaff to the win and it is that type of strong hitting along with the development of Crumb as a third pitcher to go along with veteran stoppers Jay Phipps and Lefty Sheary — that Falstaff manager Bill Ketterer is hoping will lead his club to city and state championships.

Falstaff finished third in the state last year after losing the city championship to Stan's Lounge in a playoff and Ketterer feels this year's team is stronger.

"We've got much better team morale this year," Ketterer noted. "They play real well together."

Ketterer has made some changes in personnel this season. Bryce Doebele has rejoined the team after four years in the Navy, shifting last year's catcher Rick Boals to left field.

Also veteran third baseman Ken Forbes has moved to right field and Jim Smith, an outfielder last season, has been put at third.

"Ken's no spring chicken any more," noted Ketterer. "We felt moving him to outfield would help out his knees and allow to hit better. Plus, Smith played three years at Nebraska as a third baseman, so he's no stranger there."

The rest of the lineup is set with Slaughter at first, Ned Eckman at second, Tom Novak at shortstop and Eichorn in center.

The heart of the team is still the pitching — led by the veterans, Sheary and Phipps.

"They told me they'd keep on pitching until somebody started hitting them regularly," noted Ketterer, who doesn't have anything to worry about this year, at least. Both Sheary and Phipps have pitched well in early outings.

In the nightcap, Stan's Lounge exploded for six hits and six runs in the final two innings to break open a 1-1 pitcher's dual between Stan's John Jackson and Valentino's Ron Martin.

Omaha Blanks Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Omaha's Tom Bruno pitched a two-hit shutout Tuesday night, striking out 10 Indianapolis batters en route to a 1-0 victory in the American Association.

The only hits off Bruno (1-0) were singles by shortstop Junior Kennedy in the first and ninth innings.

Omaha got just four hits off three Indianapolis pitchers, but the Royals scored what proved to be the winning run in the fifth inning when Keith Marshall walked and, with two outs, Steve Staggs doubled to right-centerfield.

Bruno went the didstance and walked three Indianapolis batters.

Olympic Village Bans Firearms

MONTREAL (AP) — Competitors in shooting events at the 1976 Summer Olympics will not be allowed to bring their firearms into the Olympic Village, the committee for organizing the Games announced Monday.

It would be the first time in Olympic history that such a restriction has been placed on the Games' target shooters.

"It's because of recent events that we have had to take this measure," said Pierre Charbonneau, a vice-president of the organizing committee. "We have agreed from the outset with security staff that there would be no firearms in the Village."

Tatum Matching Strides With Mary Lou Jasnoch?

By CHUCK SINCLAIR
Prep Sports Writer

As a North Platte High School sophomore, Cindy Tatum is already matching sprinting strides with Nebraska's foremost female track star and 1974 Sunday Journal and Star Girl Prep Athlete of the Year, Mary Lou Jasnoch.

But Tatum isn't obsessed with the desire to surpass Jasnoch's three year accomplishments despite already owning a Class A gold medal from the 1974 state track meet.

She's set no goals to win more gold medals or set more records, but if she accomplishes the one thing she's set out to, all that may come.

Tatum wants to steadily improve her times over the next two years, and considering she's already tied with Jasnoch in the 100 (:10.8) and only two-tenths of a second off in the 220, the odds are better than even she'll make it.

Another plus factor for Tatum is her start — it's not very good — so there's room for improvement. "I've had a lot of trouble with it," she said. "I think I'm just bringing the top of my body up too fast, but it costs me time in the shorter races."

Even with her admitted slow start, Tatum holds a share of the Class A state meet record in the 50, an event now dropped, and holds the Class A 100 record by herself.

Tatum and coach Linda Carlson have been working on the start this week trying to spot any flaws before Friday's district meet at North Platte.

"We video-taped the start this afternoon," Tatum said Tuesday, "and they seem to be getting better."

Of all the Class A districts to be involved in, the meet at North Platte will definitely be the toughest on sprinters as Tatum is joined by Grand Island's Liz Lee, second behind Tatum on this week's 100 charts.

Besides Tatum and Lee, Kearney's Jayne Brummer (third at :11.1) and Columbus' Judy Koziol (:11.2) will also be pressing for a qualifying position in the May 17 state track meet also to be held at North Platte.

So far this year, Lee and Tatum have split in outdoor meets with Tatum winning the Big 10 title in her best of :10.8 and Lee winning the Trans-Nebraska title.

Indoors at the Kearney Invitational, Tatum beat Lee in a 50-yard dash.

North Platte's Friday district meet is just one of four Class A meet's held for qualifying, with three scheduled for Friday.

Ralston will hold its meet Thursday while Seward and Omaha Burke join North Platte on Friday.

In Class B, Plattsmouth held its meet Tuesday, but Schuyler, Wisner, York, Grand Island Northwest, Scottsbluff and Broken Bow are Wednesday sites. Omaha Roncalli winds up Class B qualifying Friday.

Class C also began Tuesday at Plainview.

Class D begins Wednesday at Crete, Tekamah, Friend, West Holt and Alma and concludes Thursday at Central City, Lexington, McCook and Bayard.

Star Prep Cagers May Follow Moses Malone

New York (UPI) — Bill Willoughby of Englewood, N.J., and Daryle Dawkins of Orlando, Fla. — Two of the most sought-after high school players in the nation — have applied for the National Basketball Association's hardship draft and apparently have have switched their focus toward the pro ranks, UPI learned Tuesday.

The 6-8 Willoughby, who has already signed a national letter of intent with the University of Kentucky, has until 24 hours prior to the NBA draft to honor that committment by removing his name from the hardship list.

However, it was learned that both Willoughby and Dawkins have already been approached by at least three NBA clubs in regard to passing up college and going the Moses Malone route — directly into the pros. Malone went from a Virginia high school right to the Utah Stars of the ABA.

Regarded as the finest all-around forward prospect in the country, Willoughby averaged 32 points and 16 rebounds this past season while leading Englewood to the New Jersey state championship.

Dawkins, a 6-11 center from Evans High School in Orlando, has not signed any letter of intent, but was likely headed for the University of Florida should a pro offer not meet his demands.

Reportedly, though, Dawkins has already entered into negotiations with the Philadelphia 76ers.

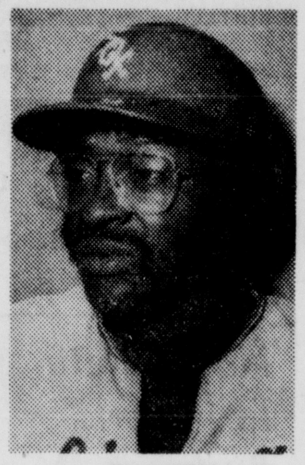
It is expected that the NBA will announce Thursday the complete list of players applying for the hardship draft. The regular league draft will be held the last week of May.

Morning Briefing

A Sports Roundup

BASEBALL

The Philadelphia Phillies may have the big bat they claim they've needed. Dick Allen, the former White Sox home run hitter who retired during the closing days of last season, may be transfered back to the Phils from the Braves after the controversial slugger refused all approaches from Atlanta.



Dick Allen

General Managers Paul Owens of Philadelphia and Eddie Robinson of Atlanta have apparently reached an agreement with only one problem remaining — satisfying the Braves' player demands.

Atlanta obtained the rights to negotiate with Allen from the White Sox after last season for $5,000. If they were successful in signing him, the Braves would have turned over a player to Chicago. However, Allen said he would like to return to Philadelphia, where he played from 1964-69.

Another first: Frank Robinson meted out his first fine since becoming the Cleveland Indians manager by fining outfielder Charlie Spikes for missing his cutoff man for the second time. Spikes was fined $100 for the mental mistake.

The Milwaukee Brewers said reserved ticket requests exceed the number of seats available for the 1975 All-Star game on the first day orders were accepted.

Pitcher Woodie Fryman of the Montreal Expos and second baseman Dave Cash of the Phillies have been named Co-Players of the Week in the National League.

Baltimore Orioles' owner Jerold C. Hoffberger says he doesn't see much chance of selling his American League team before the end of the season.

There are at least six more steps which have to be completed before the sale of the club is finalized, Hoffberger said.

Twenty persons who live near the Oakland Coliseum have sent letters of protest to the city manager, saying the booming cannonades that follow each home run and each home victory of the A's are hazardous to their health and are rudely awakening.

Outfielder Cleon Jones was scheduled to meet with New York Mets General Manager Joe McDonald to explain his brush with the St. Petersburg, Fla., law after being arrested after he was found sleeping in the nude in a parked van with a 21-year-old woman.

FOOTBALL

The top priority item for Seattle's National Football League-team-to-be? According to John Thompson, general manager, that item will have to be a nickname.

"Timewise — scouting, the nickname and a start on ticket sales are of immediate concern," Thompson said. "Sure, the selection of a head coach is very important, but it's not important timewise."

Albert Bowker, chancellor of the University of California, spurred by complaints from neighborhood groups, says he will recommend that the university stop renting Memorial Stadium to the Oakland Raiders after this season.

Tony Cristiani, defensive tackle at Miami, and Joe Colquitt, a linebacker from Kansas State, have been signed by the Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Canadian Football League.

Cincinnati Bengals football player Bob Maddox pleaded innocent to a charge of possession of an hallucinogen for sale. Maddox and Terry Dunningham, were arrested March 12 at Maddox's apartment.

The Southern California Sun has announced the signing of its first player for the 1975 season — defensive tackle Dave Roller from the University of Kentucky team circa 1970.

The British Columbia Lions signed former Alcorn Stater linebacker Larry Cameron.

HORSE RACING

Churchill Downs track president Lynn Stone said further measures will be taken next year to control the infield throng and prevent attempts to swarm the rail during the Derby.

Hundreds of spectators first went over and then through infield fences minutes before the race this year, leaning over the rail along the backstretch, waving, reaching out and shouting.

Jockey Menotti Aristone, aboard Bombay Duck, said his horse lost interest in the race after he was struck by a hurled beer can in the backstretch. Bombay Duck finished last.

Chuck Corolla, assistant manager of the Jockey's Guild, called the situation "very dangerous."

"They reach out and try to grab hold of the jock," Corolla said. "That's a bad thing. If they ever got their hand on the reins or something like that, they'd flip that horse end over end and cause a terrible accident.

Go Aflame was destroyed Monday night in a fire that broke out in a barn at Vernon Downs Raceway.

Rose, Morgan Help Reds Win

By United Press International

Pete Rose had four singles and Joe Morgan pounded out three hits including a two-run homer to aid Jack Billingham in gaining his third win as the Cincinnati Reds downed the San Diego Padres 7-3 Tuesday night.

Morgans's homer, his second of the season, accounted for two of three runs the Reds scored off loser Sonny Siebert in the first inning. Tony Perez doubled home Danny Driessen with the other run.

In other National League action San Francisco romped over Atlanta 7-1, Pittsburgh beat New York 2-1, Montreal downed Chicago 9-4 and Philadelphia at St. Louis fell to the rain.

The Reds added a fourth run in the second inning when Rose singled home Cesar Geronimo. The Padres scored three runs in the fourth inning, the last two coming on Willie McCovey's third homer of the season.

The Reds went ahead 5-3 in the fifth when George Foster doubled in Johnny Bench, and they added two more runs in the sixth, one scoring on Driessen's sacrifice fly and another on a balk by Padre reliever Dave Tomlin.

Pete Falcone picked up his third win of the season by two-hitting the Braves and Chris Speier hit a home run in the Giants' win.

Falcone wasn't on the Giants' official roster at the start of spring training. He allowed four walks, struck out five and did not allow a hit through the first six innings.

Rain interrupted a pitching duel after 7 1-2 innings between Ken Brett, who had given up four hits, and Tom Seaver, six hits, but Manny Sanguillen had driven in two Pirate runs with doubles to give them the win over the Mets. Brett and Seaver had six strikeouts apiece.

Mike Jorgensen's grand slam home run in the fourth inning highlighted the Expos' victory over the Chicago Cubs. Rick Monday hit a home run for Chicago.

In a West Coast game, Don Sutton pitched a four-hitter to become the majors' winningest pitcher and Ron Cey clouted his seventh homer in sparking the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 3-1 victory over the Houston Astros.

Pete
Rose

Steve Garvey singled in two runs in the fifth inning to give him 23 RBI, tops in the majors, for the season.

Sutton improved his season's record to 6-1 and ran his string of consecutive scoreless innings to 23 2-3 before yielding a solo homer to Bob Watson in the ninth inning. Sutton now has won 18 of his last 19 decisions over two seasons, including World Series and National League playoffs.

Tigers Defeat Brewers

By United Press International

Joe Coleman one-hit Milwaukee Tuesday night, and Ron LeFlore backed him up with two RBI and a run scored to give the Detroit Tigers a 4-2 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

George Scott's two-run homer in the first inning was the only hit off Coleman.

Scott would not have batted had shortstop Tom Veryzer fielded a potential double play ball cleanly. Veryzer got only the force-out at second on Robin Yount as Sixto Lezcano reached first on a grounder. Then Scott unloaded.

Coleman struck out eight and walked four as he raised his record to 2-3.

In other AL action, Boston beat Cleveland 4-1, Kansas City whipped Texas 6-2, and Minnesota downed Chicago 4-1.

Bob Montgomery singled in two runs to lead the Red Sox over the Indians. Bill Lee struck out two and walked two, scattering six hits. He lost his shutout bid in the sixth inning when George Hendrick smacked his fourth homer of the season. It was the Lee's third victory and third complete game in six decisions.

George Brett singled up the middle to start a four-run eighth inning rally and give the Royals a victory over the Rangers. Nelson Briles, now 30, allowed six hits and ended a three-game losing streak for the Royals.

Bill Campbell saved starter Dave Goltz's victory by striking out five of the nine batters he faced as the Twins held off a White Sox rally. The Twins collected 11 of their 12 hits off Wilbur Wood, a 20-game winner in each of the last four seasons, who took his sixth defeat against one win.

Warriors Topple Bulls

OAKLAND (UPI) — Rick Barry scored 32 of his 36 points over the final three periods and the Golden State Warriors overcame a 19-point deficit to stun the Chicago Bulls 111-106 and square their NBA Western Conference championship series Tuesday night.

The best-of-seven series stands at 2-2 with the fifth game being here Thursday night.

The game started as if the Bulls were going to blow the Warriors out. Jerry Sloan and Bob Love each scored 11 points as Chicago bolted to a 35-18 lead after one quarter and increased it to 39-20 in the first minute of the second period.

Golden State then began finding the range and got a big boost off the bench from Jeff Mullins. The Warriors outscored Chicago 30-13 the rest of the quarter to pull within 52-50 at the half.

Mullins scored eight of his 12 points in the period and the Warriors connected on 60 per cent of their shots to storm back into contention.

Barry erupted for 14 points in the third period but the Bulls retained their two point edge, 84-82, entering the frantic final quarter.

The Warriors took the lead for good three minutes into the period when reserve forward Derrek Dickey hit a layup for a 90-88 lead. The inspired play of center Nate Thurmond kept the Bulls within striking range down the stretch but Dickey's basket earned an eight point lead with 2:30 left as the Warriors maintained their momentum.

Sloan scored 22 points and Chet Walker added 21 for Chicago, which now has a 2-26 playoff record on the road.

OU Baseball Team No. 6

Tucson, Airz. (AP) — Florida State, after taking nine of its last 11 games, has moved into the No. 1 spot in "Collegiate Baseball's newspaper's poll and took over the top spot with 492 power index points, bumping Arizona State into second place, ASU has 490 points.

Veteran Farmer Returns To Ak-Sar-Ben

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Bob Farmer has some very special memories of Ak-Sar-Ben.

"I scored my first win as a rider here in 1941 on a horse named Pargo," said the veteran racing official who returned to Ak-Sar-Ben this year as a patrol judge after a short absence. "I never was an outstanding rider and I'm sorry for that.

"It was my favorite occupation since I was a very young boy but for all the work I put into it, it was a very short career indeed," he said.

Sometimes, however, things happen for the best.

After going "about 25 mounts" without a win in 1940, Farmer finally broke the jinx at Ak-Sar-Ben. After scoring "about six wins" at Ak, he tallied 24 wins in 19 days to annex top rider honors at Beulah Park in Ohio.

However, he was pressed into military service in 1942, thus ending his riding career. But that didn't stop him from beginning a new career as a racing official.

He began as a patrol judge in 1956 at the now defunct race track at Toledo, Ohio. Since then, he has worked 12 tracks in capacities such as patrol and placing judge, paddock judge, identifier and clerk of scales.

Bob Farmer
Returns To Omaha

Farmer was once a regular official on the Nebraska circuit. His last year traveling the entire five-track run in Nebraska was 1972.

"Since then, I've worked Oaklawn Park (in Hot Springs, Ark.) and the 60-day meet at Blue Bonnets in Montreal and then the 120-day meet at Detroit Race Course," he said. "This year, Hazel Park (near Detroit) starts on July 15 and Ak-Sar-Ben ends on the 12th, so it worked out great for me to come here.

"I like working at Ak-Sar-Ben. This is my fourth year here and I really enjoy the people I'm associated with," he added.

"I really had no idea I'd ever return here as an official," he continued. "I wasn't thinking in those lines at all, but now I'm most grateful to be back."

Farmer, one of three Ak patrol judges, supervises the control tower to the right of the finish line. He watches the stretch run for irregularities.

"I watch to see if the horses come in contact with each other or if anyone suffers any disadvantages," he noted. "I'm a protector as well as an enforcer. If I see anything wrong, I call the stewards and advise them of what I saw.

"Then they rerun the film. They make the final decision, but I'm an aid to them," he pointed out.

One of the game's most respected officials, Farmer noted the improvements that have occurred in thoroughbred racing since he's been a participant and official.

"They've put doors on the starting gates, installed the photo finish, the film patrol, started using the saliva and urine tests and the tatoo system," he said. "I't a far cry from the 1930 movies that showed crooked jockeys and officials and doped horses in each race.

"I feel honored to be in my position and I'm proud of my profession," he said. "I've spent my entire productive life in racing and I have no regrets."

Racing undoubtedly feels the same about Bob Farmer.

Seminar About Addiction Will Host Four Speakers

Directors of four diverse facilitites for treatment of the chemically addicted will conduct a two-day seminar this weekend for local professionals in the fields of alcohol and drug abuse.

The seminar, "New Concepts II—Treating the Addicted Person," is sponsored by the Lincoln Council on Alcoholism and Drugs (LCAD). It will be held Friday and Saturday at the Nebraska Center for continuing Education.

The speakers, all involved in treating addicts, are:

—Dr. Lester R. Betlwood, psychologist, Methodist minister and chief of the alcoholsim division, Fort Logan Mental Health Center, Denver, Colo.

—Dr. John O. Grimmitt, chief of program development and education, Substance Abuse Programs, Veteran's Administration Hospital, Salt Lake City, Utah.

—Dr. James W. Smith, physician and director of Schick's Shadel Hospital in Seattle, Wash.

Dr. Dichter will be the keynote speaker at the Friday evening banquet which will coincide with LCAD's annual meeting.

Youth Run Over By Car Listed Good In Hospital

Sixteen-year-old Donald Karcher of 4618 Pioneers Blvd. remained in good condition at Lincoln General Hospital Tuesday after a car drove over him while he was in a sleeping bag.

Karcher was sleeping in a field near a small, private lake southeast of Hickman early Sunday morning after what was described in sheriff's reports as a rock concert and beer party.

Sheriff's reports said Karcher sustained chest and back bruises and a cut on his head. The car was driven by Jeffrey Johnston, 16, of 3900 J, who also had attended the event.

'Most Valuable' Awards Given 7 Professors

The University of Nebraska Builders presented "most valuable professor" awards Tuesday to seven Lincoln campus faculty members, selected by UNL students:

— Richard T. DeLorm, engineering mechanics instructor,

— Deanne Eversoll, human development and the family,

— A. Dale Flowerday, agronomy professor,

— Robert F. Guenter, architecture professor,

— James W. Healey, English instructor,

— Richard M. Hodgetts, business management professor,

— Earl F. Jenkins, professor of voice.

Thieves Remove 35 Tons Of Hay

About 35 tons of hay has been "lifted," according to sheriff's reports.

The hay, in the form of 1,000-pound rolls, was stolen from a field about eight miles south of Lincoln, where they had been stored since last summer.

Deputies said the rolls of hay, owned by Thomas Drudik, could be moved only with special machinery. The rolls are about ten feet in diameter and eight feet long. The hay is valued at a total of $1,500.

Sports Signals

Amateur Golfers, Beware!

If you're an amateur golfer and are thinking of entering either the Duffer's Classic or the Golf For Millions events, think again. You'll become a professional if you do.

That was the warning contained in a release from the United States Golf Association as a result of inquiries about the amateur status ramifications of those recently announced competitions.

The USGA said it has ruled that all who enter and participate in these events in an attempt to win money violate the rules of amateur status and cease to be amateur golfers.

The rules preclude "playing for prize money or its equivalent in a match, tournament or exhibition. The USGA emphasizes that the violation occurs when the player attempts to win money.

Sponsors who disregard the amateur rules do a disservice to the game, in the eyes of the USGA. It feels golf has grown and prospered under a code that makes a sharp distinction between amateurism and professionalism, a code that is endorsed by both the PGA and USGA.

"Golf For Millions" is an event originating in Los Angeles and the Duffer's Classic, promoted by George Gobel, is based in Whicita, Kan. There is an unnamed competition under the aegis of the "World Golfers' Association, Marina del Rey, Claif.

Peru Native Retires

Nelson Fisher, a native of Peru, recently retired after an illustrous career as horse racing handicapper and tennis writer for the San Diego Union. Fisher recalls that in his younger days he picked up 50 cents a call for phoning in results of Peru State to The Lincoln Star.

"Peru State, your records will show, went some five years undefeated in basketball," Fisher, a long-time friend of mine from Kentucky Derby days, wrote the other day. "They finally lost out to the Kansas City Hillyers in the era when the so-called AAU (really sort of semipro) tournament was the championship windup of them all. I think that was the way, though memory can become deceptive.

During Fisher's days of covering tennis, a little gal named Maureen Connolly was growing into a big star in San Diego. He's the man responsible for giving her the nickname of "Little Mo" back when she was 11 years old.

Fisher is keeping his retirement from being a bore by helping promote The Bishop's Schools' tennis camp in LaJolla, Calif.

The school last year had students from 11 states and six foreign countries.

Among its graduates are at least four who compete on the Virginia Slims tour — Patti Hogan, Nancy Orstein, Chris Kemmer and Janet Newberry. Over the years, other big names in tennis learned their lessons there, people like Alice Marble, Mo Connolly, and Jaren Hantze.

Catching Up On Sports

Kansas defeated Kansas State 94-60 in a dual track meet last Saturday, making the Wildcats heavy favorites to win next week's outdoor title at Oklahoma. Most impressive run was by KSU's Ted Settle with a 4:02.9 in the mile. The Wildcats' Bob Prince won the halfmile in 1:50.5. K-State's coach, DeLoss Dodds, said Kansas will "run away" with the conference title and that his team and Oklahoma will battle for second place.

North Carolina State has signed 7-2 center Glenn Sudhop of South Bend, Ind., to a basketball tender. He was a teammate of Nebraska recruit Val Martin.

Wisconsin defeated Nebraska last season behind quarterback Gregg Bohlig. Now, Bohlig is gone and Coach John Jardine still is looking for a replacement after no one came to the fore in spring drills.

Petitions Opposing Betting Presented

Des Moines (UPI) — Petitions bearing the names of more than 20,000 Iowans who oppose legalizing pari-mutuel betting were presented here Tuesday to state senators.

The petitions were solicited by several church groups from across Iowa and were officially presented to Sen. Eugene Hill, D-Newton, a chief opponent of the bill, which is on the senate and house calendars.

The Rev. Paul King, executive secretary of the Iowa Council of Churches, said the petitions represented each senatorial district and were gathered in a period of two weeks.

He estimated 17 or 18 different denominations were represented in the petitions, which he said came mostly from the central Iowa area east of Fort Dodge and west of Waterloo.

Up to this point, 14,837 signatures supporting legalization of pari-mutuel betting — mostly from a group known as Iowans for pari-mutuel — had been filed with the senate.

A total of 4,878 persons had signed peititions against the legalization. Hill said the 20,000 names today "evens things out."

"I think it will have an impact and offset those who have favored it," Hill said.

"It comes at a time when Iowans are expressing concern on all types of gambling and are getting tired of being known as the Vegas of the midwest."

The Rev. Mr. King said there had been some misconceptions about increased support for legalized horse race track betting in Iowa.

"There are so many misconceptions about what it will be," he said. "People think it is easy money when it is really against all Christian principles."

Also on hand for the presentation were representatives of the United Methodist Church, Church of the Nazarene and Lutheran Church as well as a group calling itself Citizens group, Ray Hayes of Des Moines, said the names were gathered through the use of a mailing list through the Council of Churches and that additional names would be forthcoming.

Hill said the move was a "complete surprise" to Senate Democratic Leader George Kinley of Des Moines, who has led the fight to legalize pari-mutuel betting in Iowa.

Kinley had little comment on Tuesday's action, saying "it's a good project for Gene Hill to get into."

Syas Blasts Pheasant Plan

By Associated Press

Omaha Sen. George Syas, chairman of the legislature's Constitutional Revision and Recreation Committee, said Tuesday that a Game and Parks Commission decision to spend $50,000 to release penraised pheasants was a waste of sportsmen's money.

Syas said it would be better to spend the money raised from upland game stamps to provide pheasant habitat.

He said "The game commissioners' decision may be good public relations due to the fact that many people do not know the biological facts of the pheasant.

"It is wasteful and expensive to release birds into the wild after the initial stocking," Syas said.

Bicycle Races Scheduled

The Husker Road Club has set two races for the weekend with the first on Saturday in Omaha and the second Sunday in Pioneers Park.

Further information can be obtained from William W. Lammers, 4619 Tipperary Trail, Lincoln.

No Confetti In Roberts' Bucket

Sacramento, Calif. (AP) — Dave Roberts of the Hawaii Islanders was getting heat from Sacramento fans, so he decided to cool them off.

The Islanders' third baseman grabbed a bucket of water from the bench after Sunday's 10-2 Pacific Coast League loss to Sacramento and doused about a half-dozen spectators behind the Hawaii dugout.

Roberts, a former major leaguer with the San Diego Padres, was suspended for one game and fined $25 by Roy Jackson, PCL president.

"It was strictly a practical joke," Roberts said. "But I was retaliating for my teammates to the fans' constant ribbing."

Rod Laver
Twice A Bridesmaid

Laver: Desire Missing?

DALLAS (AP) — One would assume the single most desired prize in Rod Laver's millionaire tennis career would be the World Championship of Tennis title.

Wrong. The red-haired rocket, who has pocketed $99,731 with a 30-5 won-loss record in 1975, isn't staying awake at night in anticipation of his first match against Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md., Wednesday night.

"I'll do as well as I can but I don't have a huge burning desire," Laver said calmly.

Here's a man who has won them all, including Grand Slams in 1962 and 1969. Yet, he has twice been a bridesmaid in the WCT finals to Ken Rosewall. He was defeated in the semifinals by Stan Smith in 1973 and lost to Smith in the quarterfinals last year.

"I feel good and I'm playing well," said Laver, an Australian who now lives in Corona del Mar, Calif. "My chances are excellent . . . I only have to beat three players."

The tournament begins Wednesday night in Moody Coliseum on the Southern Methodist campus with Mexico's Raul Ramirez meeting Bjorn Borg, the 18-year-old wonder from Sweden. The Laver-Solomon match follows.

On Thursday night, Australia's John Alexander plays Tennessee's Roscoe Tanner while America's Arthur Ashe and Britain's Mark Cox meet in the second match.

The semifinals will be played Friday night and the third place match on Saturday. The finals are scheduled for national television beginning at noon CDT Sunday.

Bench Strength Will Be Factor

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — The Washington Bullets, holding a two-to-one game advantage in the NBA Eastern Conference playoff series, take on the defending champion Boston Celtics Wednesday night and to contradict a once-popular commercial: it's what's in back that counts.

The bench strength of the two teams may prove decisive in the contest which will either see the Bullets move to within one game of eliminating Boston or the Celtics squaring the bestof-seven series at two victories apiece.

In the first two games won by Washington, a pair of reserve Bullets — Nick Weatherspoon and Jimmy Jones—provided key help, compiling 53 points between them. But in Boston's 101-90 home victory over the Bullets Saturday, Paul Silas, as a replacement for Don Nelson, kept Washington's Elvin Hayes in check and hauled in 25 rebounds. Boston coach Tom Heinsohn and Washington's K. C. Jones, former Celtic teammates, credited Silas' performance with getting the Boston back into contention.

However, Boston's other top sub, Paul Westphal, has yet to perform up to par with his sharp-shooting, hitting on only 7 of 21 field goal attempts. He's been only a little colder than the rest of his teammates as the Celtics averaged but 38.8

Northeast Tops Southeast, 4-2

Paced by the hitting of John Kloefkorn and Doug Votava and Dale Mahlman's pitching, Lincoln Northeast downed Southeast, 4-2, at Sherman Field Tuesday.

John Kloefkorn singled in Doug Neill, who walked, and Votava, who had singled, to score the winning run for Northeast in the third inning.

In the first inning, Bruce Reed doubled in Votava, and in the fourth, Don Hickman, a pinch runner for Mahlman, scored from second on Votava's second hit of the game.

Mahlman, the winning pitcher, now has a record of 4-2.

To Your Good Health:

There Is No Remedy For Receding Hairline

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read somewhere that nerves cause some people to lose their hair. Is this true? Is there any known medication to stop a rapidly receding hairline?

For the past few months I have noticed 10 to 15 hairs in the sink each morning after I comb my hair. I don't believe it is a family trait, because my father always had a full head of hair. I am I my early 30s and am quite concerned. — Mr. M.A.K.

Dear Doctor: I have an unusual nervous habit. When I am sitting around I pull hair out of my head. Now, after six months, I have a large bald spot in my head. I must know, will it grow back? I am a female. How long will it take to grow back? — Miss M.B.

I'll answer Mr. M.A.K. first. It is true that nerves can cause the patchy loss of hair, a condition known as alopecia areata. It is sometimes associated with extreme nervous shock. However, with your rapidly receding hairline you are probably undergoing a process called "male-pattern baldness," which often starts in the 30s. It is usually hereditary, and the fact that your father is not bald doesn't mean much. How about grandpa?

There is no remedy I know of to stop the process. One study did show that a reduction of salt intake helped somewhat. You might be checked for anemia or a thyroid deficiency, both of which can contribute to baldness. In such cases, hair returns with proper treatment.

Adequate protein in your diet is necessary to maintain a flourishing head of hair, but there is no evidence that increased protein beyond normal required intake will actually grow hair. It may prevent conditions in the scalp, though, that can lead to excessive hair loss.

I have to tell another reader (G.F.) that the vaunted virility of bald-headed men is a lot of hogwash, probably invented by a desperate baldy.

Miss M.B. has an obviously nerve-caused problem but a more manageable one. The medical term for it is "trichotillomania," and its origin lies in neurotic anxiety. To overcome it requires self control and sometimes counseling. But since hair grows in cycles — the rate varying from person to person — Miss M.B. can expect regrowth of her pulled-out hair in about three months. Fortunately for such people, hair follicles turn out to be pretty stubborn mechanisms.

The practice is analogous to nail-biting.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is using an ultra-violet lamp on the face dangerous in any way? I have heard that these lamps are good for acne if not overdone.

How does this type of lamp work, and what, if any, effects can it have on my face? — T.A.D.

The ultraviolet lamp can be dangerous in two ways. One is in injury to the eyes if they are not adequately shielded. The other is in skin burn from overexposure. They are the same dangers, in fact, to be encountered with sunlight, a natural source of ultraviolet light. This is why the lamp you refer to is also called a sun lamp. The lamp, though, holds more dangers because the rays tend to be more concentrated.

Properly used, the lamp can be beneficial in acne, and for reasons that are not entirely clear. We do know that the condition often is alleviated during summer months, and one probable reason is that the victims are more relaxed at this time of year. With summer approaching, you may notice some improvement yourself.

I wouldn't rush into a self-prescribed ultraviolet-light treatment. Some persons are more sensitive to the rays, so I couldn't not knowing your facial complexion, suggest any exposure time for you.

Ultraviolet treatment is usually prescribed in connection with other forms of therapy, and the best advice I can offer you, if you have a serious case of acne, is to practice scrupulous skin hygiene, and seek the help of a dermatologist who can evaluate your individual case.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In the morning, when I first look into the mirror, I notice this very thin skin over my eyelids. It appears to be scaly. When I remove it, the area is sensitive to the touch. Could this be a vitamin deficiency? I use eye shadow very lightly. Could this be causing it? — N.H.

You might suspect the eye shadow or perhaps your fingernail polish, both common causes of contact dermatitis, which you seem to have. The skin can often develop a sensitivity to one or more of the ingredients in such substances, even after years of continued use.

I doubt if a vitamin deficiency is involved.

HEALTH TIP

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Today's children must be educated to the realization that a major portion of their lives will be lived as "senior citizens."

The Nebraska Medical Association reports that many authorities in the field of aging maintain that "intelligent application of existing knowledge should produce an average life expectancy of 90 to 100 or more years."

Experts suggest that perhaps the best approach to living together is "Do unto your parents as you would have your children do unto you." The attitude of today's parents toward their own parents and childhood memories will largely determine what they can expect from their children.

The Nebraska Medical Association points out that the needs are the same at any age: companionship, privacy, separate friendships, mutual consideration, tolerance, courtesy and usefulness. With planning and understanding these needs can be satisfied in a three-generation, as well as a two-generation household. Happy living together begins with frank discussion and understanding.

Echeverria Plans Visit

Mexico City (UPI) — President Luis Echeverria will visit Cuba before his six-year term ends in late 1976, according to Foreign Minister Emilio O. Rabasa.

Two Hurt

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Steve Krisiloff sustained a foot injury Tuesday afternoon when his racer bumped the wall twice and hit the pit entrance at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Earlier in the day, rookie Chuck Gurney, 26, Livermore, Calif., escaped injury when his car tangled with the wall.

Three-time "500" champion A.J. Foyt also made his 1975 debut at the track and quickly installed himself among the speed leaders in practice for the May 25 Indianapolis 500mile race.

Krisiloff, Parsippany, N.J., was taken to Methodist Hospital for treatment of the foot injury after his machine crashed coming out of the No. 4 turn just 17 minutes before the track closed for the day.

The racer, which was extensively damaged, went out of control, did a half-spin and bumped the inside wall, slid 186 feet, thumped the wall again, spun around and went another 183 feet, hitting the pit entrance. In all, the car traveled 829 feet from the point it went out of contol until it stopped.

Gurney lost control in the No. 2 turn and hit the inside retaining wall near the spot where veteran Mike Hiss cracked up Monday. Jigger Sirois, Hammond, Ind., crashed Sunday in the No. 1. He escaped injury.

Opponents Dream, Flyers Roll To Stanley Cup Finals Berth

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — While their outclassed opponents still are dreaming about miracles, the high-rolling Philadelphia Flyers will be seeking to stretch their unbeaten skein to an incredible 22 games Wednesday night and gain entrance to the Stanley Cup finals.

In as perfect a defense as any defending champion could hope for, the Flyers swept past Toronto in four games in their opening round and now have taken the first three games of the semifinals from the New York Islanders.

Another victory Wednesday night would give the Flyers their second consecutive playoff sweep and send them into the final round against the survivor of the Buffalo-Montreal series.

The Islanders have been in this situation before—just two weeks ago, in fact—when they lost the first three games against Pittsburgh before rallying to become only the second team in National Hockey League history to rebound from such a deficit.

"Here we go all over again," Islander Captain Eddie Westfall joked Tuesday, mindful of the fact that although they are in the same state, Philadelphia isn't Pittsburgh. "We don't seem to get going until we're three games down."

New York Coach Al Arbour, also aware that his season may not extend more than another game, added of his players, "They've got to feel their backs against the wall."

Making the Islander task even more hopeless was the return to duty of goaltender Bernie Parent to the Philadelphia net in Sunday's 1-0 victory. In his five playoff games this season, Parent has three shutouts.

For its part, New York has been hurt by the failure of Bob Nystrom, its leading goal scorer during the regular season with 27, to score once in 13 games. He has been stopped on 41 shots, and following Sunday's game he said, "Okay, no more. Enough's been said about it. I've cried enough about it. I'm going to try not to let it bother me anymore. I've gotten to where I'm worried too much about scoring a goal and not thinking at all about other things, like checking."

Arbour indicated he would make some line changes for Wednesday's game, and the obvious one would be to return Bob Bourne to the lineup. The rookie center hasn't been dressed for the last seven games.

One note of muted optimism was struck by Islander defenseman Denis Potvin, who said, "We're going to have to open up against them. We're going to have to play a strong defensive game too, though. We're going to have to score three or four goals a game. If we do we can win the series. We'll have to leave it to the defense to hold them to two."

Opener Slated

Hastings — Hastings Raceway will have its season opener Friday night at 8 at the Adams County Fairgrounds with late model stock cars, modifieds and a new sportsman class.

Cyclones Sign Prep Gymnast Robert Taylor

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Robert "Tiger" Taylor, regarded as the nation's top all-around high school-age gymnast, will attend Iowa State University next fall, ISU gym Coach Ed Gagnier said Tuesday.

Taylor, Valparaiso, Fla., won the national AAU Junior Olympic all around title in 1969, 1971 and 1974. Taylor also captured individual titles in floor exercise, vaulting, parallel bars and high bar in the 1974 Junior Olympic meet.

He did not compete on the high school level because his school did not field a team.

"Tiger was my top prospect this year," said Gagnier, who has led the Cyclones to seven consecutive Big Eight championships and two NCAA titles in the past three years.

Down to Lihue Stores this warm Hawaiian morning to buy a T-shirt. I got a blue sky number. Made by the Hang Ten people.

Black footprints march diagonally across the shirt to a small palm tree island labeled Hawaii. (So you should know where you are if you wake up in doubt some morning. If it's Tuesday, it must be Kauai.)

The Hang Ten comes from the surfboard fellows. You rise on the surfboard — like in the magazine ads — and you are hanging 10 toes on it.

The Hang Ten footprints also come in socks. I nearly missed those. I got a pair in fireman red with golden footprints down the side. A peacock of the beach who will long be remembered.

Ah me, this is paradise. Where banana pancakes grow in warm piles at the eat-all-you-want breakfast buffets.

Where mainland wahines do the hula. And a man can wear bright blue shirts. Red socks with golden footprints. (Da kine, brudda. Numbah One)

A little sliding guitar music drips from a hidden speaker. The tune is "We're Going To a Hukilau." The mainland women at breakfast twitch automatically in their seats. The Hukilau — net fishing song — is what they play when you're learning the hula.

A social director at Coco Palms said· "First it's got good rhythm one, two, three and one, two, three "

She said: "Also it has easy hand motions. 'Oh, we're going to a hukilau' and 'We cast our nets into the sea ' "

☆ ☆ ☆

She said· "On 'hukilau' they make hand motions like pulling in a net. 'Casting the nets' is an easy motion. That's a double meaning by the way. A Hawaiian boy says 'I'm gonna cast my net' when he's looking for a girl.

"The hula class feels deliciously naughty when I explain that.

"Then the line, 'All the ama ama come swimming to me' carries wiggly hand motions. Very simple."

Look, Mother. I'm a hula girl!

The waitress with a spray of white spider lily in her hair said to me "You eat plenty banana pancakes you gonna get big opu." She put a hand on her stomach to show where the fat was coming.

Fat people were admired in early days. Kings and queens ate enormously. A Russian sea captain watched a queen put away three or four fish "each of which would be more than a meal for a healthy man."

The queen kept a royal opu puncher around. The captain was astounded to see "a stout fellow then leaped upon the queen and kneaded her stomach as you would knead dough for bread.

"This made way for more food and the queen ate two more fish. Then sighing she said: 'I have eaten famously.' "

Why do I need a new T-shirt? Well, the old one doesn't fit — it's getting tight. I think it shrunk. That's my story anyway.

The fact my pants are getting tight in the waist has no bearing on the matter.

Few people leave the sugar islands in the same shape they came in. (I don't look at myself in the mirror in profile. I face it head on. Eyeball to eyeball. And so to breakfast. The breakfast of champions.)

☆ ☆ ☆

Pimlico Entries At Seven

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Golden Chance Farm's Master Derby, fourth in the Kentucky Derby, Tuesday became the seventh colt to join the lineup of expected starters in the 100th running of the Preakness Stakes May 17 at Pimlico.

Master Derby's trainer, W.E. "Smiley" Adams, informed Pimlico General Manager Chick Lang that he plans to ship the son of Dust Commander from Louisville by van Thursday evening and is expected to arrive at Pimlico Friday morning.

Master Derby had won five straight races, including the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland and the Louisiana Derby at New Orleans, before finishing fourth in the Kentucky Derby.

Supreme Court To Uphold Durousseau Suspension?

State Racing Commission attorneys Tuesday asked the State Supreme Court to uphold a lower court's decision supporting a commission revocation of L. J. Durousseau's jockey license.

The suspension resulted from a finding that Durousseau had attempted to use a mechanical device in the eighth race at Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha on May 9, 1974.

The device was found during a check of jockeys just prior to the race. Durousseau, however, said he had no knowledge of the device and never saw it before a steward's hearing.

In terms of legal points, the jockey's attorneys argued there were procedural defects in the handling of the matter by the State Racing Commission. The Douglas County District Court disagreed and the man's attorneys appealed.

Commission attorneys told the high court the commission had no choice but to suspend the jockey under the circumstances in the name of the public interest.

"It is difficult to imagine a circumstance in which public interest is more entwined with licensure than in racing," the attorneys said. "Bettors are betting in excess of $10,000 per race and in excess of $1,000,000 per day and the state is receiving parimutuel taxes in the millions of dollars."

Therefore, the attorneys said, "It is essential to the public interest that the racing commission be supported in their efforts to police, through their licensure prerogatives, those persons participating in racing in order that the public confidence in the integrity of racing not be destroyed and that the individual bettor not be defrauded."

The commission's revocation order on Durousseau's jockey license carried a Jan. 1, 1977 expiration date.

Sabres Defeat Canadiens, 5-4

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Rene Robert of the "French Connection" line slammed in a pass from the faceoff circle at 5:56 of overtime Tuesday night to give the Buffalo Sabres a 5-4 victory over the Montreal Canadiens in their Stanley Cup semifinal series.

The victory enabled the Sabres to take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series, which moves back to Montreal Thursday night.

Some Vietnamese May Settle Locally

Some Vietnamese refugees may be located in Lincoln soon as a result of a project being undertaken by the Christian and Missionary Alliance Churches in the United States and Canada

Lincoln families have already expressed an interest in opening their homes as part of the project to resettle the refugees, according to Pastor H B Leastman of Rosemont Christian and Missionary Church in Lincoln

He said that at least 500 members of the Alliance Vietnam churches were among the refugees airlifted by the United States government in the closing days of the war

The project will include finding temporary shelter, teaching the refugees English, finding them jobs and placing them in permanent homes, he said

Pastor Leastman said that more details on the project will be available afte a meeting of the general society of the church in Cleveland next week

"Most of these refugees are now living under extremely difficult conditions in huge tent cities hastily set up by the government at Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines and on Guam and Wake Islands in the Pacific," he said

Noting that hundreds of these refugees had been converted to Christianity through the denomination's missionary work in Vietnam, Pastor Leastman said

"We want to get them resettled as soon as possible"

Denominational leaders estimate that a minimum of $500,000 will be required to provide assistance for the refugees until they can manage on their own

Pastor Leastman said that immediate steps are being taken to raise money to finance the project

Publishing Houses Reportedly Will Buy Omaha Daily Record

Omaha (AP) — Sources report a group of Nebraska publishing houses headed by the Daily Record of Omaha is negotiating the purchase of the Douglas County Gazette and its feature extension, the Metro.

Mrs. Anne Batchelder, editor and publisher of the Gazette, and Ronald A. Henningsen, managing editor of the Daily Record, had no comment on the reports.

The Daily Record is the area's legal publication.

Reportedly, the Record had sought purchase of the Waterloo-based Gazette earlier, in about 1970. That was the year it was bought by Mrs. Batchelder's husband, Clifton, through his United States Check Book Co.

At the time, the Gazette was devoted mainly to reporting rural Douglas County affairs.

Mrs. Batchelder has since broadened its reportorial position, added local editorials and originated the color feature section, the Metro.

The newspaper moved to new quarters in Waterloo in 1971 and modernized its reproduction processes.

Mrs. Batchelder was an unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant governor on the Republican ticket last fall. She now is state GOP chairwoman.

The Daily Record and Record Printing Co. are located in Omaha. The publication was founded in 1886.

Although legal advertising is the backbone of the newspaper, it offers daily local and national features about court and legal events.

Henningsen's father, A. H. Henningsen, has been sole owner since 1958.

The New Prune.

Announcing, not just a new wrinkle, but a breakthrough concept that makes an airtight case for prunes.

Since the dawn of man, fruit has been the food for all seasons, the seed that sustains life itself. And yet, today, in our highly advanced world of satellites and computers, the prune still flounders in the Stone Age.

Until now. Until the Del Monte Corporation, imbued with a true pioneering spirit, summoned its resources in an all out effort to correct this unfortunate state of affairs. By combining the powerful forces of technology with the human desire to excel, the Del Monte Corporation has created a prune fit for the 20th century. A vacuum-packed prune with no preservatives—a prune so plump, tasty, and extraordinarily tender, many have actually said it tastes like it grew on a prune tree.

Some men see things as they are and say why. Others dream things that never were, and say why not.

The new prune.

The "Del Monte" Vacuum-Packed Prune with no preservatives.

Many have actually claimed the new prune tastes like it grew on a prune tree.

Duke's Son Cast In Western Film

Los Angeles (AP) — Another famous name in western films is joining Joel McCrea in his return to films after a 13-year absence.

Patrick Wayne, son of John Wayne, has been cast in "Mustang County" as a wrangler who fails to capture a wild stallion. Robert Fuller has already been assigned as his partner.

G. Blankenship Is Resentenced To Life Term

Omaha (AP) — The prison sentence of Gary Lee Blankenship was changed Monday from 25 to 30 years to life imprisonment.

Blankenship was convicted of second-degree murder by a jury last month in the shooting death of his 27-year-old brother Timothy, who was a member of the State Parole Board.

District Court Judge John Clark told Blankenship, 30, that the new sentence may mean an earlier eventual release from the Nebraska Penal Complex.

Judge Clark said Blankenship will need to serve 10 years in prison, less "good time," before he is eligible for parole.

He said a recent Nebraska Supreme Court decision disallowed indeterminate sentences in cases of second-degree murder.

Board Chooses Kay Lamphear, Curt Donaldson

The Goals and Policies Committee's Monitoring Board nominated Kay Lamphear and Curt Donaldson to fill vacancies on the executive board.

Ms. Lamphear, 1350 Meadowdale Dr., was tabbed to succeed Donna Polk through the remainder of her one-year term expiring this fall.

Donaldson, 2860 R, was selected to succeed Bob Stoddard through the remainder of his term expiring in 1976.

Both Ms. Polk and Stoddard resigned from the board.

UNL To Confer Honorary Degrees

Atkinson

Bouwsma

Fonda

Johnson

Woods

Honorary doctorate degrees will be conferred upon five persons who have achieved distinction in their fields of endeavor at commencement exercises Saturday in the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Coliseum.

They include:

Daniel E. Atkinson, professor of biochemistry at the University of California at Los Angeles, who will receive his honorary degree, Doctor of Science, at the 10 a.m. exercises.

Oets K. Bouwsma, former NU philosophy professor now teaching at the University of Texas-Austin, who will receive his honorary degree, Doctor of Letters, at the 3 p.m. exercises.

Henry Fonda, the actor and Nebraska native, who will receive his honorary degree, Doctor of Humanities, at the 3 p.m. exercises.

Philip G. Johnson, NU alumnus and Lincoln accountant, who will receive his honorary degree, Doctor of Science, at the 10 a.m. exercises.

Frank H. Woods, Lincoln native and now a Chicago businessman and trustee of the Woods Charitable Fund, Inc., who will receive his honorary degree, Doctor of Laws, at the 10 a.m. exercises.

They are among six persons to receive honorary degrees from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln this spring. Edward H. Levi, attorney general of the United States, was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree May 1 at the dedication of the new University of Nebraska College of Law Building.

Dr. Atkinson is known internationally for his research in biochemistry. He has made outstanding contributions in the areas of metabolic regulation, the properties of regulatory enzymes, and energy metabolism. He is a native of Pawnee City, Neb., and obtained his B.S. degree with High Distinction from the University of Nebraska in 1942. Following three years service as a Naval officer during World War II, he earned his Ph.D. degree from Iowa State University in 1949. He has been a member of the faculty at the University of California-Los Angeles since 1952.

Dr. Bouwsma was a member of the NU faculty for 37 years before he went to the University of Texas-Austin where he has been teaching for the past nine years. He holds a worldwide reputation as a philosopher. He is regarded as the leading representative of the Wittgensteinian philosophy of logical positivism, founded by 20th Century philosopher Ludwig Wittgenstein. Bouwsma received a bachelor of arts degree from Calvin College and earned his M.A. degree at the University of Michigan. He received his Ph.D. degree from Michigan also.

Actor Henry Fonda has appeared in some 80 motion pictures, has starred frequently on Broadway, and was featured in two television series. He was born in Grand Island and grew up in Omaha. After graduating from Omaha Central High School he attended the University of Minnesota for two years before returning to Omaha to begin his acting career with the Omaha Community Playhouse. Most recently, he has been winning acclaim for his performance in the one-man biographical drama, "Clarence Darrow," soon to be presented in Omaha.

Philip Johnson is a native of Omaha and also a graduate of Omaha Central High School. He attended the University of Nebraska for two years before transferring to Iowa State College where he earned a bachelor of science degree in engineering. While working as an engineer, he studied accountancy, passed his CPA examination in 1932, earning the second highest grade in the United States. In the mid 1950's, he earned a law degree from the University of Nebraska Law College while continuing as manager of his CPA firm.

Frank H. Woods graduated from Yale University in 1928. From 1928-33, he was employed by the Harris Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago, and in 1933 he joined the Sahara Coal Co. as vice president and director. He was elected president of the firm in 1944. Woods has served as president of the Council on Foundations, Inc. He has also been a director-at-large of United Community Funds and Councils of America, Inc.

When the Woods Charitable Fund was incorporated in 1941, he was elected a trustee and treasurer of the foundation. Woods Foundation funds have provided for the partial support for the construction of the Nelle Cochran Woods Art Building, and have enabled the university to establish the Woods Faculty Fellowship Program.

Wesleyan To Honor Ackerman

James H. Ackerman

Honorary Degree Told

James N. Ackerman, chairman of the board of governors of Nebraska Wesleyan University, will be honored during the college's 86th annual commencement weekend Friday-Sunday.

Ackerman, vice-president and general counsel of Bankers Life Nebraska insurance company in Lincoln, will be presented an honorary doctor of laws degree at the 4 p.m. Sunday commencement.

On Saturday at the annual Alumni Banquet (6:30 p.m., in the NWU Campus Center) a portion of the program will be devoted to "A Salute to Jim Ackerman." Richard W. Smith, Ernest L. Smith, and Judge Warren K. Urbom, who have served on the board with Ackerman, will comment on his career and service as a student, community leader and board member.

To open the commencement weekend program, Ackerman will address the annual Phi Kappa Phi banquet at 6:30 p.m. Friday in the Campus Center. He will speak to the honor scholarship society on his experience as a businessman-teacher during an interim program at St. Olaf.

Ackerman is a native of Pleasant Dale, educated in Lincoln public schools, and a 1933 graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan. He earned his J.D. degree in 1938 from Harvard Law School.

At Nebraska Wesleyan, he began his service on the college's Board of Trustees in 1954.

Ed Dept. Finishes 'Rule 14' Hearings

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The State Department of Education wrapped up a series of statewide meetings Tuesday in a final Lincoln hearing to review the proposed minimum regulations and procedures for approving all Nebraska school districts.

Approval regulations set out the lowest level for legal operation of a school district, and the proposed "Rule 14" includes new standards for elementary and non-public schools.

Hugh Harlan, Education Department school management services administrator, said the State Board of Education on Friday will set an official hearing date, probably in June or later.

Meanwhile, later this month, the board will review Rule 14 revisions based on suggestions by educators who attended the seven meetings from Bassett to Beatrice.

Average attendance at each meeting was about 130, with the smallest showings at Millard and Lincoln, where about 40 offered changes based on their schools' needs.

"We want these regulations to be reasonable and workable, but meaningful as far as establishing requirements for a sound, basic education," Harlan said.

Spokesmen for the small Class I and Class VI districts have objected to the first-time standards for elementary schools, saying that is an attempt by the state board to close them down and reorganize the districts, totaling more than any other state in the U.S.

But Harland said that worry didn't emerge at the meetings. Educators "expressed specific concerns, but in every instance, they've provided some reason or rationale" to alter the original document. The Education Department will "give serious consideration" to them all.

He noted the small districts may have two deviations from the regulations without penalty. "It provides them tremendous flexibility, and we expect them to use that logically in maintaining a good school," he said.

"The topic of most concern," Harland said, "is our new approach to assigning teachers in the schools, which makes the governing body (board) of the school responsible directly to the school community, rather than to the State Department of Education."

That proposal, which requires 90% of elementary teachers in each school to hold elementary teaching endorsements on their certificates and 75% of all secondary teachers endorsed in the area they teach, drew "mixed" reaction, he said.

Calling it a "crucial issue" in quality education, Harlan said he anticipates no problem for elementary schools, but the endorsement requirement could "pose some problem" for the small secondary school, where "in some cases, dual assignments are necessary."

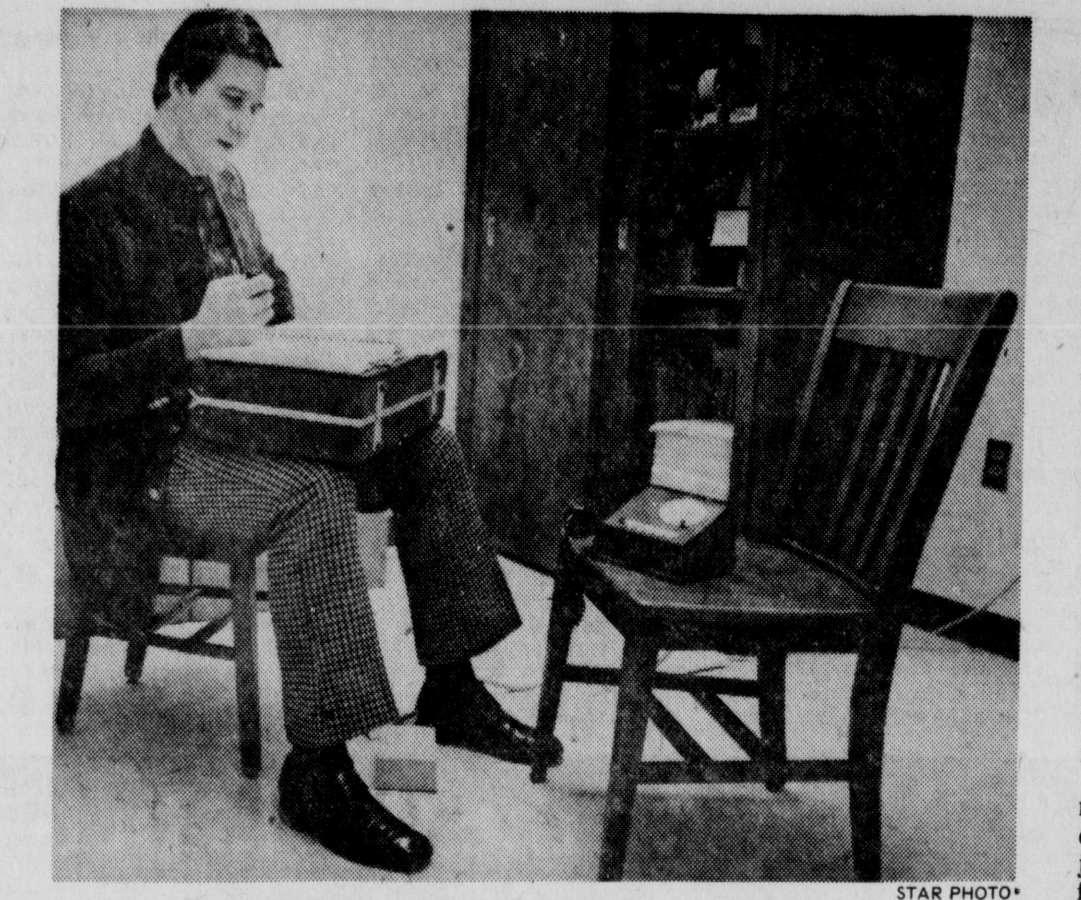
Still, "We don't feel this is an unrealistic regulation," he said.

A required statement of philosophy by school boards should be based on public input, Harlan told those attending the Lincoln meeting. He warned against "canned" goals for children that embrace "ideals that aren't our own" locally.

He said the Nebraska Assessment Battery of Essential Learning Skills (NABELS), when it's complete, "will assure us that our kids are learning the three R's," or indicate that schools are making every effort to teach them.

Administering NABELS or its equivalent will be required, with student scores of 100% to insure that children in kindergarten through 6th grade have mastered essential skills.

First Office Storage Room



CLARK . . . likes to start from scratch.

STAR PHOTO

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

A black telephone sits on one chair and the new city-county human services director sits on the second chair in an empty storage room he calls his office.

Robert L. Clark says he likes to start from scratch. And that's just what he's doing as the first man in a newly created government position, working out of an office with no desk, no filing cabinets — only boxes on the floor.

Clark, 37, spent Tuesday, his first day on the $20,400-a-year job, meeting county commissioners and staff and sitting in on the first of innumerable meetings and conferences which will take up much of his time in future months.

What Clark knows about the new city and county position is contained in a one-page general job description which ranges from recommending city and county funding priorities to assessing the needs of county residents of human services.

Variety is something Clark enjoys in a job and variety he will certainly get as he talks with private, public and government service agencies, learning about their programs, plans and funding problems.

Clark, who prefers the term "people programs" over "human services," has a varied career of helping people get back into society's mainstream.

His experience ranges from giving diagnostic tests to inmates coming into the Nebraska penal system (a job he left because it put him to sleep) to helping draft a statewide plan for developing community alternatives to institutionalization.

A job at an Iowa state school for the retarded convinced Clark that the real world, not an institution, is usually the best place for retarded, handicapped or emotionally disturbed individuals.

The real test of a society, said Clark, is how they treat the less fortunate. "Do they shunt them aside in institutions, or do they try to integrate them into the mainstream of life?"

"If we as a society can't deal with these problems (physical, mental or emotional handicaps, aged or juvenile problems) within the limits of our resources, then we are not very committed to the principles we espouse of democracy, the bill of rights, civil rights," said Clark.

Clark, his wife Connie and their three children will be moving to a Lincoln home, just a few blocks from a Rose St. house they lived in 10 years ago when Clark worked for the State Division of Rehabilitation.

Eventually Clark will have a desk (now on order), a secretary and a clearer picture of his duties and responsibilities to the city and county governments and the people of Lancaster County.

Wife Balks At Meeting 'Sweet' Topless Dancer

dear abby

DEAR ABBY My husband is friendly with a fellow whose fiancee dances topless in a bar (I'll call her "Sandra ")

I'm ashamed to say that my husband has been to this bar so he has seen Sandra practically naked He says she has a "fantastic" body, even though she admits to having had silicone implants

He insists that Sandra is a very "sweet and down-to-earth" person, and he keeps wanting me to meet her socially (His buddy wants the four of us to go out together)

Abby I don't care to meet her I would be very uncomfortable in the company of a woman whom may husband had seen topless My husband says, "It's only a job and that Sandra is as nice a person as I am

Am I wrong to feel the way I do? What kind of a woman do you think would dance topless for a living? She can t be a very moral person

ST LOUIS

DEAR SAINT. Not everyone views nudity as "immoral." Some women (and men) pose nude for artists However, if you would feel uncomfortable in Sandra's company, it's your right to avoid her.

DEAR ABBY I was recently invited to a friend's home for dinner The table was beautifully set, but after the guests were seated, I was surprised to see the hostess had not set a place for herself

She said that she was "on a diet ' and had already eaten her diet dinner Then she served us and didn't even join us at the table

Was this proper? I felt as though we were invited to her home to be given a free meal — like a couple of charity cases What is your opinion of this?

FED, NOT ENTERTAINED

DEAR FED: Your hostess should have sat with her guests and eaten her "diet dinner" unceremoniously while you ate yours.

DEAR ABBY When I was younger, I used to drive a car as though I were going to a fire But now that I am married and have a son, I realize how precious life is so I no longer drive that way

I want to know if you think it's wrong to ask the person who is driving too fast to slow down My husband says I should keep my mouth shut, and my trembling knees and nerves to myself

Don t I have the right to have a safe trip? When I ve been a passenger in cars with reckless drivers I have promised God that if He would only let me get home safely I would never get into a car with that driver again

My husband has a fit every time I complain about somebody's driving (Not his He s okay I mean friends and relatives who drive beyond the speed limit whether they are late or not) Am I wrong?

NO EASY RIDER

DEAR NO: No! You are absolutely right! Whenever possible, avoid riding with reckless drivers. Should you find yourself trapped with one, let your feelings be known — loud and clear.

DEAR ABBY My 16-year-old daughter received a phone call from a nurse at the Department of Public Health, who asked her to come in for some "tests " When my daughter asked, "Why?" she was told that a boy (I'll call him "Bill') who is being tested for V D said that he had been in contact with her

Abby, my daughter is so upset, she doesn't know what to do She swore on a Bible that she is a virgin and that she's never had sex with boy or any other boy She said she dated him twice and didn't even kiss him goodnight once I know my daughter, Abby, and she is not lying

HER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I think your daughter should take the tests. They won't hurt her. Perhaps the boy misunderstood the question and named all the girls with whom he had had contact — sexual and otherwise.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NEVER REFUSED HIM" IN ALBANY: Sexual expression is a gift — not an obligation.

Opening lead — ace of diamonds

Partnership misunderstandings create havoc at times, even in the best of company For example, consider this deal from a match between Argentina and the U S

Nothing much happened at the first table where the American North-South pair got to four spades and West led the ace of diamonds Declarer trumped and had no trouble making twelve tricks for 680 points when he crossruffed the hand, scoring eight trump tricks and his four side-suit winners

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	3 ♦	Dble	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
Pass	Pass

The American West threw a spanner into the works when he made a weak jump-overcall of three diamonds North certainly had a super-sound double, but South found it difficult to pass, holding a six-card suit he hadn't mentioned yet. So he bid three hearts

At this point North realized that there might be a slam in spades Accordingly, he bid four clubs, planning to raise partner's spades later on and thus combine his anticipatory cuebid with a good-sized spade raise.

Unfortunately, South misread his partner's intentions He thought that North had a two-suited hand with lots of clubs and diamonds, and that the hand was therefore a hopeless misfit Accordingly, he passed, and the outcome was that North made five for 150 points

When one partner treats a bid as forcing and the other does not, the outcome is often disastrous You cannot expect harmonious results when the horns are playing Beethoven and the brass is playing Sousa.

Future Mobile Homes To Use Solar Energy

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Mobile home owners really aren't very mobile, but they represent an ever-increasing share of the homeowners market. Harnessing solar energy has special advantages for them, as Richard M. Kielar, associate editor of Engineering News-Record, a McGraw-Hill publication, explains.)

By RICHARD M. KIELAR

New York — In the not too distant future mobile homes, which last year accounted for almost one out of every three single-family homes sold in the U.S., will come equipped with solar collectors atop them. Or, if a mobile home owner wants to set up house in a mobile home park, he may hook up to a money-saving central solar collector for hot water, heating and cooling.

The cost of solar energy would be much less than conventional fuels and charges would be made to cover the park operator's initial investment and maintenance.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the National Bureau of Standards have asked the American Institute of Architects (AIA) to come up with plans that incorporate solar collectors into the design of homes and mobile home parks. The program is financed by the federal government, as is a prototype solar energized mobile home that the General Electric Co. has built. GE's home is a 60-ft-long unit with nineteen 3 x 8-ft collectors mounted on it. It is not for sale but is being used to collect data to determine the feasibility of solar energy for mobile homes.

Most mobile home builders say they would not manufacture units with collectors on them unless the collectors qualified for a tax break or subsidy. Their share of the single family market has risen from 9% in 1960 to about 30% last year with 329,000 units shipped to dealers. However, the manufacturers say it's more likely that mobile home park operators would set up a central solar collection system to serve a number of units and charge the users for the solar energy.

The AIA has contracted with eight architectural firms and two universities to design acceptable plans for collectors on homes and as a central system for a park. They are concerned with aesthetics so that the collectors blend in with the home and with the layout and scale of the park. For example, a California firm, RTL Inc., suggests rearranging the mobile units from the usual plan in which homes are lined up side-by-side along streets to placing them in a four-home quadrangle with a central lawn and carport on top of which solar collectors are placed.

Another idea is to arrange the panels as sloping roofs which would make the normally flat-topped trailer look like a gabled single-family house. Another is to use the panels as patio protectors, porch roofs and window awnings.

However, manufacturers will insist that the total cost doesn't exceed their top market price of $25,000. The average cost of a mobile home today is just under $10,000 in comparison with $38,000 for a typical single family home built on a site.

'Inferno' Wins Photoplay Gold

Los Angeles (AP) — The awards season isn't over. Now come the oldest movie awards of all, Photoplay magazine's Gold Medals, which have been given for 54 years.

The magazine's readers selected Robert Redford and Valerie Harper as their favorite stars, Freddie Prinze of "Chico and the Man" and Julie Kavner of "Rhoda" as their favorite newcomers. Other favoritios: "The Towering Inferno" for film, "Rhoda" for TV show, and Elvis Presley as variety performer. The awards will be presented on the Merv Griffin Show on May 14.

Loans Suggested

Washington (UPI) — Virginia Knauer, President Ford's consumer adviser, said the government may want to consider low cost loans for home owners wanting to convert to solar energy for heating and cooling.

TV Commercials Said 'Dull, Stupid'

By LINDA OLIG
and LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writers

The latest shoot 'em up cops and robbers show fades out — just short of the exciting conclusion.

It's time for another commercial. Or two. Or three.

But no one stirs. No one heads for the refrigerator for a beer or snack.

C.W. McCall and Mavis take over the tube for another installment of their continuing "Old Home Fill 'er Up and Keep On Truckin' Cafe" romance.

Pretty Sorry State

For the most part, Lincoln homemakers think commercials are in a pretty sorry state of affairs. Some, like C. W. and Mavis, are clever, they say, but most are "dull, dumb, stupid," homemakers told The Star during a morning telephone survey.

The "baseball, hotdogs, apple pie and Chevrolet" commercial is liked by some of the homemakers. And so are some — mind you, some — of the gimmicks — the cats that sing or cha-cha, the dogs that talk.

But the homemakers drew the line right there. Commercials, as Mrs. Stanley Patzel, 1220 No. 37th St., puts it "are generally poor. They don't appeal to the intelligent viewer."

Talking Down

Mary Hawkins, 1925 No. 62nd St., echose those sentiments: "Some definitely" talk down to the viewing audience.

"One I hate the most" has Joey Heatherton lolling on a mattress, she says.

Mrs. Hawkins has bones to pick with other commercials — those that show women in high heeled shoes scrubbing floors or painting a room leaving the "$1,000 couches" uncovered. "I don't care how good paint holds to the brush or rollers, it's bound to splatter," she says.

Mrs. Robert A. Minter, 2001 So. 77th St., doesn't like commercials that pit one product against the other. "They're so silly," she says. The technique often prejudices her against the advertised product.

At least she remembers the name of the products advertised in that manner. The "dull and uninteresting" commercials don't even do that. "I can't tell when they're through what the product was," Mrs. Minter says.

Little or No Impact

The majority of those interviewed said commercials have little or no impact on which products they buy. Some even lead them to avoid purchasing a particular brand.

Too many commercials are shown over and over, complains Mrs. Lewis Edwards of Emerald. Repetition makes her suspect the product. "Anything that's advertised that much on TV, I don't buy. It's a big money-making scheme," she says.

Mrs. Edwards buys the products that have proven effective for her.

But Mrs. Max Cavey says she sometimes tries new products "to see if they're really as good as they show on TV."

Mrs. Hawkins has found that some aren't that good. The "more expensive brand" of dish detergent that supposedly goes further "makes my hands crack and bleed," she says. One laundry detergent "they're always advertising makes my family break out in rashes."

Promises Not Met?

Mrs. Clarence (Lena) Deer, 2635 Scott Ave., senses beforehand that some products aren't all they're cracked up to be. Referring to a much advertised oven cleaning product that claims to do it itself, overnight, she says, "I know you can't just wipe it off in the morning. You have to use a little pressure behind it."

About half the 16 homemakers surveyed said they were glad to have women in television commercials — but questioned the roles they play.

Women still are being used as "glamorous sex symbols" rather than "really knowing about things," says Mrs. Hawkins. Citing commercials in which in long gowns comment on the luxurious interiors of automobiles, she says, "She never puts her little head under the hood and mentions the carburetor or anything about the engine."

Mrs. Dellan Schlautman, 4619 Greenwood, says about "70% of the commercials are better than the programs" they sponsor, but she criticized commercials for not using women properly — the women "are usually more glamorous" than the norm and, hence, do not depict true life.

Woman's Lot Improving

But Mrs. G. H. Magruder, 7640 Lexington, says a woman's lot in commercials is improving. "She used to be some cute, young chick all dressed up," she says. "Now women are more ordinary looking . . . and some are older."

The homemakers interviewed indicated they were "turned off" by men doing all the promoting of a product while women silently do all the work — filling the washing machine, mopping the floor, cleaning the toilet bowl.

Mrs. Patzel says that helps "downgrade" women.

And Mrs. Charles Siler, 321 Glenhaven Dr., says some of those commercials advertising home care products are "more suited" to women but "it seems like women whould do the talking. If she is doing the work there is no reason why she shouldn't tell about it (the product), too."

Men Should Polish

Mrs. Jack (Gizella) Folmer, 1525 Arapahoe, says she'd like to see more commercials like the ones in which men polish the floor or do the laundry.

"Men wash clothes, too," she says. "Lots of men help around the house. Anyway, the maching does the work. All you do is put in the clothes and turn it on."

Pam Bitterman says word-of-mouth will sell a product faster than even the best commercial. "The kind of commercial I like is a friend will tell me she thinks something is really good or even cheaper."

No matter how much they interrupt the family's favorite television program, no matter how offensive they may be to some, commercials are a necessary evil.

"If we didn't have them, we wouldn't have television," observes Mrs. Deer.

Revolting Women Beginning To Revolt

By KAREN PETERSON

Women in television commercials are revolting—literally.

And they are revolting.

Actresses are fed up to their dish-pan hands with the insipid roles they are asked to play, and also with discrimination in job opportunities.

So say the women of the Screen Actors Guild, taking their place along side other feminists who have been shouting about the situation for some time.

To begin with, says a spokesperson with the Guild, "There are twice as many women used in TV commercials as men. But of the roles we do get, 80% seem to portray some housewife acting like a dolt."

Analysis Published

The Screen Actors Guild (SAG) has published the first statistical analysis of the relative use of men and women in TV commercials. The women's committee of SAG found that overall, men outnumber women two to one. But in certain categories of performers, the differences are a lot more dramatic.

Sharon Conners, SAG's women's committee cochairwoman, says 93% of the lucrative "off-camera, speaking principal" roles go to men. And 71% of the off-camera singing principals are male.

Ms. Connors points out that off-camera roles are extremely important to performers. Because they're not seen and aren't identified in the public's mind with a certain product, these actors can get more jobs than many on-camera stars.

Commercial work is vital to the Screen Actors Guild in these days of a wobbly motion picture industry. The latest statistics available show TV commercials provide about 53.6% of SAG members' total income, or about $73.5 million. That's opposed to 27.2% of member income from TV films and 18.4% from theatrical features.

SAG says women are getting only the kitchen's share of that money.

Agencies Irate At First

Says Ms. Connors, "When we first brought our study out, several advertising agencies were irate, saying our statistics must be wrong. But gradually they checked up themselves, and have let us know we're right.

"I do think we are seeing some changes in the use of women, but not radical ones. I don't think the people who produce television commercials truly realize that they favor men, and that the women's roles they do create are demeaning. What we're doing now is really consciousness raising, to let the industry know how we feel."

Within the next few months some SAG actresses are going to take consciousness-raising a step further. Ms. Connors reports, "We're going to go to the advertising agencies with our own 'commercials,' little plays to show them how they can use more women, and upgrade their image. Why can't we have female insurance salespersons, female bankers?"

'Idiot Housewife'

Many actresses would like to avoid the "idiot housewife" role, says Ms. Connors, but can't. "Let's face it," she notes, "we can't go to an audition and say 'I won't take this part. It doesn't reflect reality.' We can't afford not to work anymore than you can. We are going to concentrate more in the future on women's image in advertising, but right now we're concerned most with the bread-and-butter statistics."

Those statistics are outlined in the SAG survey. That project screened a random sample of 340 TV commercials from the 656 submitted for awards from the advertising community itself to its "Clio" organization in 1973.

Men in commercials dominate all the major product groups, including even the "female oriented" categories. In some product groups a woman does have a slightly greater chance of finding a job than in others — such as "non-alcoholic beverages" — but the odds improve for her only as an extra.

Extras don't get those all-important residuals." And residuals can mean from $1,500 to $20,000 more a year for a single commercial, the study indicates.

"True, we are seeing some changes, some cracks," concludes Ms. Connors. "Recently, I've seen two auto commercials using a female as the major spokesperson. Cars have been totally a man's field in the past. Maybe advertisers are discovering women buy autos, too."

"That's the type of thing we need from the agencies, production companies, TV stations, and advertisers. More quantity for women — and more quality," she says.

State Industrial Growth Down From Last Year

Industrial growth in Nebraska during the first three months of 1975 has followed the sagging national trend, according to the State Department of Economic Development.

The number of new jobs created for the period is below the figure for 1974, despite the fact that the number of new plant locations and expansions was ahead of last year's.

The department said 12 firms announced construction of new plants and 11 firms planned expansions of present facilities for the three-month period. That compares to ten new plants and five expansions during the same period last year.

New industrial jobs for the first quarter of 1975 stood at 342, compared to 1,355 during the same period in 1974.

Most of the industrial activity occurred in communities with less than 5,000 people. Only three of the new or expanded plants were located in the Lincoln and Omaha areas.

Wandering Peace Pilgrim Confirms 8 Lincoln Dates

Peace Pilgrim is back in Lincoln.

The silver-haired woman wearing blue slacks and shirt last visited Lincoln in October of 1970 in what she describes as her walk for peace.

She has confirmed appearances at eight area churches between Sunday and May 18, and will make a number of appearances in high schools as well.

Self-described as a "wanderer," she walks until given shelter and fasts until given food, and is affiliated with no organization.

Her shirt carries the lettering "25,000 miles on foot for peace," a distance she has long since surpassed — she reports she stopped counting miles about 10 years ago, and has no idea how many miles she's walked since her last visit to Lincoln.

The church appearances planned so far in this area:

Sunday, 9 a.m., United Methodist, Sprague.
Sunday, 11 a.m., United Methodist, Martell.
Sunday, 7:30 p.m., United Methodist, Crete.
Monday, 8 p.m., St. Mary's Catholic, Denton.
Wednesday, 1 p.m., Westminster Presbyterian, Lincoln.
Thursday, 2:30 p.m., First United Methodist, Waverly.
Thursday, 7:30 p.m., Newman United Methodist, Lincoln.
Sunday, 9:30 a.m., First United Methodist, Lincoln.

7a.m. To 4p.m. UNL Work Day Being Adopted

Beginning Monday the University of Nebraska-Lincoln business operations work day will be from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Starting and ending time of academic classes will not be affected by the change.

According to Dr. Miles Tommeraasen, vice chancellor for business and finance, the 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. work schedule is being adopted for offices and business operations of the University in an effort to minimize air conditioning needs and to reduce the discomfort of employees during periods when no or limited air conditioning is provided. A limiting of air conditioning on the Lincoln campuses this summer is planned as one means of reducing utility expenses in an attempt to balance the budget in an area heavily strained by inflation.

The 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. schedule will continue through the summer sessions in mid-August.

Chase County Voters Approve Hospital Bonds

Imperial (UPI) — Voters in Chase County overwhelmingly approved Tuesday a $1.6 million bond issue to finance a new hospital to replace the Chase County Hospital.

The vote was 1,140 for the issue and 321 against. There are only 2,640 registered voters in the county.

A similar bond issue Nov. 5, 1974, failed. County Clerk Leroy Mather said the difference between last year's rejection and Tuesday's approval was that more information was distributed to voters about the need for a new hospital.

A portion of the existing hospital had been rated substandard in 1972.

Bill To Provide More Family Physicians Gets OK

By United Press International

The Legislature gave preliminary approval Tuesday to a bill which contains a plan designed to provide more family practice physicians for Nebraska's rural areas by opening up more residencies.

The vote for LB571 — a plan worked out over the last two years by the Unicameral's Health, Education and Welfare Committee and the University of Nebraska Medical Center — was 35-4 despite questions raised by some lawmakers on whether it would live up to its billing.

Under the bill, which amounts to only a policy statement beyond the coming fiscal year, the Medical Center's minimum residency program would include for 1975-76 some 283 residencies of which 43 would be in family practice; 307 residencies of which 55 would be in family practice in 1976-77; 317 residencies of which 51 would be in family practice in 1977-78; 320 residencies of which 60 would be in family practice in 1978-79.

After sending LB571 over its first floor hurdle, the lawmakers gave 30-5 first round approval for a $586,045 funding bill to cover residency expansion costs.

Panels Planning Malpractice Insurance Study

A joint meeting of the Legislature's Banking and Public Health Committees voted Tuesday to hold an interim study on medical malpractice insurance.

The decision came after senators held a public hearing on LB602, which would allow the director of insurance to order companies to write malpractice insurance.

Although the senators did not kill the bill, the interim study action means the bill will probably not make it to the floor this year.

Omaha Sen. Larry Stoney, said, "I don't think this bill is worth a nickel."

Grand Island Sen. Ralph Kelly said he had become convinced that there is not a crisis.

Newman Grove Sen. Thomas Kennedy, chairman of the Public Health Committee, said a good malpractice plan in Nebraska could be a selling point to bring in doctors from other states.

Compromise Prison Program Awaits Reaction Of Governor

Key state senators Tuesday submitted to Gov. J. James Exon a compromise proposal for construction of new state prisons in Lincoln and Omaha.

Whether the governor will accept the new plan is open to serious question.

If he doesn't, Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln said, "the people who sidetracked the original program in LB417 must take the responsibility to pass the bill with sufficient strength to overcome a gubernatorial veto."

Third Delay

Otherwise, the Judiciary Committee chairman said, prison construction will be delayed for the third year in a row.

The bill originally called for construction of a single 300-inmate prison in Lincoln to replace the Men's Reformatory.

Sen. John Cavanaugh III of Omaha engineered a floor amendment which substituted two smaller facilities for the single new medium-minimum security institution.

Luedtke, Cavanaugh and other senators involved in the prison plan then conferred with Exon to seek agreement on a compromise proposal. The optimism which followed that meeting last week was not so apparent among senators this week.

Exon Unpredictable

"I don't know what the governor will do," Luedtke said.

The senators had been scheduled to meet with Exon again Tuesday, but they were not ready to confer with him when the governor was available.

Luedtke said he can "go along philosophically" with the new plan which, he said, is "very consistent" with legislative penal reform recommendations.

"But whether the governor will go along is a big question," he said.

2 Smaller Prisons

The compromise plan calls for construction of a 200 to 250-man prison in Lincoln, costing $5 million, and a 175 to 200-man facility in the Omaha area, costing $4 million.

Some $650,000 in planning money would be appropriated for the facilities in the coming fiscal year.

The Lincoln facility would be under construction by July 1, 1976, and the Omaha facility by Jan. 1, 1977.

An additional $50,000 would be appropriated to begin planning for new maximum security facilities for 250 inmates. Those facilities would improve or replace the Penitentiary.

Plans would be completed by July 1, 1976.

Luedtke said he is not sure the price tag for either the Lincoln or Omaha medium-minimum security facility is sufficiently high.

Appropriations Committee Endorses NU Tuition Hike

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's Appropriations Committee Tuesday gave its 6-2 blessing to University of Nebraska President D. B. Varner's proposal to hike student tuition fees in order to provide a fund for faculty salary merit pay hikes.

Varner's proposed $1 per credit hour boost in student fees is a matter for the NU Board of Regents to decide.

But the legislative committee built the prospective new revenue into the university's budget so it can be used for faculty salary hikes if the regents decide to boost the fees.

Bonus Raises

Those proposed salary increases would come on top of the salary adjustments proposed in legislative budget bills. Under those bills, state employes would receive a 5% pay boost plus $468 in fiscal 1975-76.

Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln authored the budget amendment to allow the expenditure of up to $1 million in fee-generated funds for special merit pay hikes and to correct faculty salary inequities.

The 6-2 vote found Sens. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha and Robert Clark of Sidney dissenting. Chairman Richard Marvel of Hastings declined to vote.

To Buy Campuses

In other action, the committee approved nearly $1.7 million in funding to purchase campuses for technical community colleges in Omaha and Lincoln.

A $449,000 appropriation was earmarked for campus planning and site acquisition in Lincoln for the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College.

Some $1.2 million was allocated for site acquisition in South Omaha for the Metropolitan Technical Community College. Two-year cost of the project was pegged at $1.6 million.

Some $300,000 would be reappropriated to the college from 1974-75 funding, and $920,000 would be taken from the Omaha State office building fund to complete 1975-76 funding.

Strong Support

The two-campus proposal was sponsored by Sen. John Savage of Omaha, with strong support from Sen. Shirley Marsh of Lincoln.

It cleared the committee on a 7-0 vote.

Sen. Leslie Stull of Alliance attempted to add a $200,000 appropriation for planning and design of a new plant sciences complex on NU's East Campus in Lincoln.

But that motion, even with a $10 million limit on the project's eventual cost, fell one vote short of approval.

A revised cost estimate on the facility has ranged up to $14 million, a figure which Simpson said is too high. The project may trigger a floor fight later this week.

$1.7 Million Added

On a 6-2 vote, the committee decided to add $1.7 million in special education funds for the Department of Education to a pending 1974-75 deficit appropriations bill.

That money, Education Chairman Frank Lewis of Bellevue told the committee, is needed to pay for continued funding of the expanded special education program approved in 1974 enactment of LB403.

The $1.7 million restores the $10.3 million appropriation approved by the 1974 Legislature for operation of the program. Gov. J. James Exon had used his veto power to cut that figure to $8.6 million.

The committee also approved a number of smaller budget additions for Kearney State College, for the NU Medical Center and for technical community colleges in Milford and Sidney.

License Plate Fee Hike Sent Back To Committee

By The Associated Press

The Legislature Tuesday sent a bill back to committee which was designed to charge motorists an additional $2 once every three years when license plates are issued.

The motion to send the bill back to committee was made by Omaha Sen. Ernest Chambers after Alliance Sen. Leslie Stull amended a bill to provide for the $2 increase.

The bill, LB69, originally would have set deadlines for Appropriations Committee action on the state budget.

Stull took out all of the language and substituted the $2 increase.

Stull said the increase was needed to pay the $1.8 million bill for issuing new plates next year.

Bellevue Sen. Frank Lewis asked Stull, "Where does the original $15.50 that we pay for those plates go?"

Stull said it went for road construction.

Corporate Tax Hike Given Tentative OK

By The Associated Press

The Legislature voted 27-7 preliminary approval Tuesday for a compromise, 20% increase in corporate income tax, which could bring in $18 million depending on further legislative action.

The 20% increase advanced after a plan for a 40% tax boost on corporate income over $25,000 failed.

Springfield Sen. Orville Keyes' graduated corporate tax increase failed to advance on a vote of 20-28. After Keyes' higher increases failed, Omaha Sen. George Syas said, "The corporations have the vote all the time in this Legislature. The fact is, they always have, and always will."

The corporate tax rates are tied to the personal income tax rate.

Waverly Sen. Jerome Warner said the increase advanced Tuesday would raise $6.5 million at current tax rates. The current personal income tax rate is 10% of federal obligation.

If that were raised to 12%, that could bring in $14 million more in corporate taxes. He said a 13% personal income tax rate, as proposed by Gov. J. James Exon, combined with the bill advanced Tuesday, would bring in an additional $18 million in corporate taxes per year.

LB123 advanced Tuesday after Lincoln Sen. Wally Barnett amended the bill to provide a 20% increase in corporate taxes. Under the Barnett plan, corporate taxes would be set at 30% of personal income tax rates.

Warner took objection to Syas' remarks on corporate control of the Unicameral. He said he was tired of senators attacking the Legislature.

Syas said he would not vote for an increase in other taxes without a hike in corporate taxes. "I think the middle class people are being clobbered to death."

Later in the day, senators began consideration of LB589, the governor's proposed hike in the personal income tax rate to 13%. That measure would automatically boost the corporate rate to 3.25%.

Sen. Leslie Stull of Alliance proposed an amendment which would allow the governor or a majority of the members of the Board of Equalization to call the board into session to adjust tax rates at any time.

Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha argued that the Legislature itself should set the rates since it establishes the level of appropriations.

Legislators Approve Agencies' Budget Bill

With only one slight change, the Legislature Tuesday approved $86.9 million in state tax funding for a dozen state agencies as recommended by the Appropriations Committee.

Included in the budget bill were operational funds for the department of Public Instituions, the Department of Public Welfare and the Department of Correctional Services.

All together, the measure, LB605, appropriates $211.9 million for operation of the 12 agencies during fiscal 1975-76.

Yet to come is floor action on major education agencies, including the University of Nebraska.

High State Support

LB605, which cleared its first test on a 34-3 vote, would increase state tax support for Public Institutions from the current $24.7 million to $31.4 million.

Included in that figure are $18.9 million for mental health programs and $8.6 million for mental retardation.

The bill hikes state tax support for Public Welfare from $37.6 million to $41.8 million, most of which goes for medicaid payments and for aid to dependent children.

Welfare's total budget is $123.7 million.

The Correctional Services general fund budget would be boosted from $8.4 million to $10.3 million, including money for Gov. J. James Exon's federally funded program of correctional improvements.

$200,000 Earmarked

The committee earmarked $200,000 specifically for improved educational and medical services and equipment at the Penal Complex.

The only change in the budget proposal was authored by Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha, who added about $17,000 to the funding of the Commission on Mexican-Americans to maintain a full-time staff member in Scottsbluff.

The Mahoney amendment was accepted on a 26-6 vote.

Proposal Defeated

Sen. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha attempted to add $150,000 in funding for the regional mental health office in the Omaha area, but that suggestion was rejected on an 18-29 count.

Tuesday's vote completed initial floor action on five operational budget bills providing $444.2 million in appropriations for 67 state agencies in fiscal 1975-76.

Included in that total is $156.5 million in state tax funding.

Mahoney's addition of $17,000 is the only change thus far from the committee's dollar recommendations.

Also advanced from first stage debate was LB609, a capital improvements budget bill financing maintenance, fire and life safety improvements and minor modificiations.

The bill, endorsed on a 31-1 vote, is an $8.6 million package. New construction projects will be considered in a separate bill.

County Judges' Raises Receive First Round OK

After haggling for nearly an hour, the Legislature gave first round approval Tuesday to a bill granting outstate county judges a 24% pay raise, and raising the pay of Douglas and Lancaster County judges by 5%.

LB141 advanced on a 28-5 vote carrying an amendment that would:

—Raise the pay of outstate judges from $20,000 to $24,000.

—Raise the pay of Lancaster and Douglas County judges from $27,500 to $29,000; but it would also allow the individual counties to add another $2,500 to that if they wished.

Senators rejected a series of amendments offered by various lawmakers.

They ranged from a proposal for a flat 5% increased, offered by Holbroock Sen. Richard Lewis, to one by Omaha Sen. John Cavanaugh that would have paid metropolitan county judges $30,000 and outstate judges $26,000. The Cavanaugh proposal would also have allowed Douglas and Lancaster Counties to add $2,500 to a judge's pay at their discretion.

Sarpy County Dam Repair Aid Bill Questioned

The State Justice Department questioned the constitutionality of an amendment to an appropriations bill Tuesday, earmarking $92,000 in the Governor's Emergency Fund to repair a dam in Sarpy County.

The Legislature Monday amended LB604 to tag part of the emergency fund to provide flood protection for citizens around Hansen Lake.

"We are of the opinion that the proposed amendment would not accomplish its apparent purpose because of the failure to amend the law dealing with the Governor's Emergency Fund," the opininon from Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas' office said.

It added that even if the law were changed, "our court might very well find it to be in violation of one or more constitutional provisions."

IF THE ONLY THING
YOU HONESTLY LACK IS OPPORTUNITY

WE HAVE IT IN ABUNDANCE

In the past decade National Chemsearch has become one of the fastest growing industrial corporations in America, and we intend on doing even better.
Our average first year representative's earnings are unusually high in commissions and the opportunity for management responsibility can be as fast as your capabilities can allow.
Our keys to success are very simple. Quality products for the industrial and institutional markets, honest and imaginative merchandisinv, and people like yourself who are willing to work hard for the success they must achieve. And we will provide people like yourself with an advance up to $300 weekly and an excellent fringe benefit package for your family's security. Background in chemistry or chemical sales not required. If you lack opportunity maybe we can share some of ours.
To arrange a personal meeting
CALL PETE SHER (COLLECT)

CONTAINER GARDENING . . .

Many of you are thinking about having a garden to provide the family with fresh vegetables — but do you have room for a garden? You may have a door step window sill balcony and that's enough room for container-gardening You will need a few materials seeds and patience to follow a few instructions and wait for nature to take its course

To start a mini-garden you will need to select containers large enough to hold the plant when it's full grown Most any container can be used from tiny pots for window sills—to large wooden boxes and bushel baskets for the patio Five gallon plastic trash cans are suitable for the patio — they are easy to handle and provide enough space for large plants Plastic laundry baskets are attractive and can be modified for container-gardening by lining them with plastic sheeting If you select a solid plastic container allow for drainage by drilling four or more ¼ holes in the sides along the bottom—NOT IN THE BOTTOM ITSELF Then to further help drainage put about 2 coarse gravel in the bottom of each container You can use a rich soil mixture or buy a soil substitute or synthetic soil which is a mixture of horticultural vermiculite peat moss and fertilizer It's available at most garden centers and is especially good for container gardening It is free of plant disease organisms and weed seeds it holds the moisture and plant nutrients well and is light weight and portable If you use regular soil be sure it has a good mixture of plant fertilizers and humus compost or peat moss to keep the soil loose

Your success in container-gardening may partly depend on the quality of seeds you choose Don't use old seeds as they will not germinate properly or grow vigorously Many seed packets are dated so be sure to check Your local extension office can help by suggesting the best plant varieties for your area

ACTION LINE

DIAL 477-2121

Or Write P.O. Box 81689, Lincoln, NE 68501

I would like some help in finding out where we could rent some land for a garden. We don't have a yard of our own, but would like to have a garden.

M. Duncan, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The City of Lincoln has a number of plots available for gardening and they're rent free, according to Pat Bornemeier in the City Real Estate Office She says the plots are between 20th and P Sts and about 40th and Adams There is an agreement that has to be signed saying you will keep the land weed free and provide your own water She notes you should contact her office as soon as possible, because bids are about to be let out to contractors to mow the remaining lots over the summer.

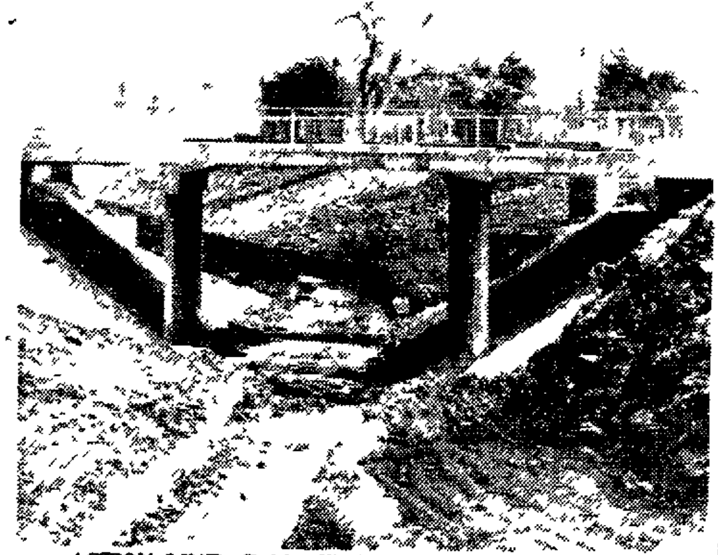
Is the Northeast Radial really dead? I've noticed a major four-lane arterial under construction between 48th St. at Treasure City to 33rd St. There is also a four-lane bridge being built in this location. What's the purpose of this street because most of the land along it is vacant?

Suspicious, Lincoln



ACTION LINE: Public Works Director Bob Obering says the streets involved are Leighton and Huntington He says the work is being done to provide for future traffic Obering says this stretch is not part of the Northeast Radial, but will provide an access to the East Campus and to the Treasure City area from 33rd St He says the land along this street has been zoned for multiple dwellings and the four lanes are necessary to prevent anticipated congestion

We have a vacant apartment with a separate meter. Why are we being billed by the Lincoln Electic System when there is no electricity being used in the apartment?

A.B., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Customer Relations Manager for Lincoln Electric System Dar Blazak says there is always a minimum bill to connected meters He says it's better to pay the minimum charge if the apartment is only going to be vacant for a short time, because there is a charge for reconnecting the meter He says the only way to have no bill at all is to have the meter disconnected

Our son, James, ordered $60 worth of parts from Fenwicks Gun Annex in Maryland last October. We have already written the firm and then in January his money order was cashed, but still no merchandise. Can ACTION LINE find out what we should do to either obtain the parts or get his money back?

Mrs. Stanley Vlasak, Wilber

ACTION LINE: We contacted the firm and a spokesman said the reason for the delay in cashing the money order was probably due to having trouble filling the parts order He said a check is never cashed by the firm until an order has been filled and mailed He believes your order has subsequently been lost in the mail and says the firm will need some additional information about the order before it can refill it He asks that you send in another letter, because he claims there have probably been several thousand orders filled since yours was sent If this action fails, please contact ACTION LINE and we will call Fenwicks again

* * *

ACTION LINE UPDATE: Fiddling De, a woman who has researched early fiddle playing in Nebraska for 18 years, has a suggestion for Tom Weisbecker in his search for harmonica players (ACTION LINE April 28) She advises Tom to write Archive of Folk Songs, Library of Congress, Washington, D C , 20540 She says the library will be able to send him a bibliography on harmonics and harmonica players.

Last October we ordered five family crests from Halbert's Inc. of Bath, Ohio. We've contacted the company numerous times, but no reply or crests. Will ACTION LINE find out what happened to them?

Nancy Brager, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Mrs Dev Hran, with the firm's customer service department, assured us that your order will be reprocessed which will take about three weeks In the meantime she will be in correspondence with you to explain the delay If you don't hear from the firm in the next week or so, contact ACTION LINE again

Jury List Challenged For Excluding Indians

By United Press International

Three men accused of felony charges in Lancaster County District Court are challenging jury selection on racial grounds.

Samuel Van Pelt said he can't recall a similar challenge to a district court jury locally, although the tactic was employed during civil rights trials in the South.

Larry Martinez, 24, Lawrence V. Redshirt, 23, and Garret E. Wounded Head, 21, have each been charged with one count of robbery and two counts of assault with intent to do great bodily harm. They are American Indians.

The charges grew out of a Nov. 29, 1974, incident in which two men were beaten after a party

Defense motions charge the jury selection was designed "to systematically exclude persons solely because they are members of the Indian race" and that the defendants will be denied equal protection of the laws and due process in violation of the federal and state constitutions.

Paul Conley, a public defender representing Redshirt, said he will request that at least one Indian be included on the jury.

Conley said fair representation is "trial by your peers," adding no Indians have been chosen for jury duty in Lincoln for the past 20 years

"It's always possible that a white jury will be unable to put away their anti-Indian beliefs," he said.

Bernie McGinn, chief deputy county attorney, said he will ask for arguments on the motion Friday but said the trial probably will not begin before July

He said the jury selection was done in compliance with the statutes and the defense motions are doomed to failure

U.S. Newsprint Users Stocking Up

U.S. newsprint users had slightly more than 1 million tons or a 57-day supply on hand at the end of March compared with 707,302 tons or a 35-day supply a year ago. At the end of December U.S. consumers' inventories were equal to a 44-day supply, the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association said Tuesday.

About 80 major labor contracts covering 40,000 workers in Canada's pulp and paper industry came up for renewal May 1. Negotiations between the companies and the Canadian Paperworkers Union which represents the majority of the workers are scheduled to begin this week.

Canadian newsprint producers account for about 70% of all newsprint used in the United States.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast for Wednesday

Like their signs: Elton John, Aries; Susan Strasberg, Gemini; Roosevelt Grier, Cancer; Katharine Hepburn, Scorpio; Vincent Price, Gemini and Jack Dempsey, Cancer. The zodiacal signs and people go together, including the high and the mighty and the low and the lonely. From the Capricorn of Fernando Lamas to the Libra of Joyce Brothers, the signatures are there for all who will but look.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be more self-reliant than in recent past. A partner, close associate may rebel at previous plans. You could have to temporarily go it alone. You're capable and you will win. Know it; act accordingly. Promotion is in offing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You may be in an operation which previously was clandestine. Know it and be discreet. Insist on proper credits. One who claims to be doing you a big favor should be made to demonstrate. Maintain balance. Finish key . project.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Friends may try to get you in middle of dispute. Maintain neutrality. Those who fight today could become allies tomorrow, leaving you in awkward position. Know it — conduct yourself accordingly. New contact could lead to meaningful relationship. Be receptive!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Commitments to family dominate. You may be able to rise above petty details, but main picture stays in focus. Property evaluation is necessary. Aquarius, Leo persons figure prominently. Follow through on inner feelings.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You may find yourself on wild-goose chase unless details are double-checked. Tendency exists for messages, calls to go astray. Know it and do something about it. Relatives, neighbors may be in mood to do battle. Don't provoke!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Money interests are accented. What was taken for granted should be reviewed. Read between lines of Leo message for valid hint. Marketing, advertising areas are affected. Get together with one close to you and iron out budget differences.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Ask questions. Find reasons. Don't be satisfied with superficial responses. Dig deep for information. Obtain it before committing yourself to any specific course. Gemini, Virgo persons figure in picture.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent is on domestic affairs, basic adjustments, ability to draw together those who hold opposing views. You could be chosen as a mediator. Maintain moderate pace — avoid extremes. Keep diet resolutions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Lovers' quarrel should be kept in perspective. Don't magnify minor setback. You get chance now to correct past mishaps. Do so with aplomb. Means maintain grace, balance and humor. Pisces, Virgo are involved.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): What you decide now could have long-range implications. Know it and act accordingly. Older individual offers benefit of experience. Accept without sacrificing your own independence. Message will be clarified. Home, business, property costs dominate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Hold off on journey, if practical. Means check necessities, reservations and expectations. Don't scatter forces. Get goal in sight. Highlight staying power, ability to finish what you start. Aries is involved.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): New approach to financial matters is indicated. Be independent without being arrogant. Get to heart of matters. Deal with person knowledgeable about display, showmanship. Member of opposite sex flatters you. Keep feet on ground!

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are spiritual, sensitive, stubborn, selective, your own person. You are going through a "test period,' ' deciding what can be maintained, what must be discarded. Pisces, Virgo persons play significant roles in your life. October will be a key month for you, just as was true of this past January. Strive to see situations, individuals in a more realistic light.

(Learn "The Truth About Astrology." Send birthdate (for our survey) and 75 cents to Omarr Booklet, The Lincoln Star, P.O. Box 1111, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053. You'll open door to fascinating study and self-revelation!)

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Stock Prices Plunge

NEW YORK (AP) — Profit taking, especially in blue chip issues, brought an abrupt halt to the stock market's most recent rally Tuesday and sent the Dow Jones industrial average to its biggest drop of the year.

The widely followed average of 30 blue chip industrials, which had gained 52 points in the four previous sessions, fell 20.88 to 834.72.

The Dow's worst previous showing this year had been a 19.63 drop on March 24.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was off 1.44 at 88.64, and the New York Stock Exchange's composite index gave up .69 to 46.91.

Analysts said the market appeared to have been in the process of absorbing typical profit-taking pressures through the morning and early afternoon after the gains of the past four trading days.

The Dow was down about 5 points at mid-afternoon, when the slide intensified after AFL-CIO President George Meany issued a gloomy prediction on the unemployment outlook.

The labor leader forecast an unemployment rate as high as 11.5 per cent before the recession bottoms out.

Administration forecasts are for a peak rate of slightly more than 9 per cent. The rate stood at 8.9 on the last official reading.

Meany had previously talked of a 10 per cent rate by summer.

Hogs, Cattle Post Gains

Already at their highest levels in nearly two years, both hogs and cattle posted good gains.

The hog run totaled just 3,500 head, with barrows and gilts trading moderately active. The butcher trend was 75-cents to $1 00 higher on offerings weighing in from 200-to-260 pounds, $1.00-to-$1.50, instances $1.75 higher on heavier weights.

Cattle receipts totaled 5,000 head Steers and heifers were moderately active, and strong to 50-cents higher Some sales ranged from 75-cents to as much as $1 00 higher.

Cows were strong to 50-cents higher, instances $1.00 to the upside.

Sheep offerings totaled 300, but there haven't been enough slaughter lambs in recent weeks for price a comparison. Slaughter ewes turned steady.

Commodities Fluctuate, End On Mixed Note

Chicago (AP) — Farm commodity futures traded nervously through most the session on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday and most closed on irregular tones. Soybean futures were lower.

There were several factors that influenced the movements of prices, but none was strong enough for a sustained drive. In the closing minutes profit-taking on brief long positions and the selling of old crop soybeans against purchases of new crop produced a loss of nearly 10 cents in the expiring May option.

Wheat, corn and oats prices also were mixed.

There is no reason your warehouse should look like a war-zone.

Not when your warehouse can be in the beautiful new Highland industrial park. At last you can build a neat, clean warehouse designed to promote a smoother, more profitable operation.

Efficiency is the key

Air Fare War Sparks Wide Variety Of Rates

By JANE BRYANT QUINN

Jane Bryant Quinn

New York — We've been blessed, and cursed, with a new air fare war. It's nice, because the price of travel has come down. But it's a blasted nuisance to sort through dozens of promotional fares, trying to find the best rate to anywhere. There are something like 50 possible ticket prices between New York and Honolulu, I'm told by Northwest Airlines, which has to know them all.

The cheapest ones are encrusted with restrictions as to when and how you can fly. But with the patience of Job, you can probably find a way to fit your holiday schedule to the peculiar time requirements of one or another discount fare.

The trick is to discover them all. William Houlihan, of Northwest's New York office, advises would-be vacationers to call airline ticket offices during the evening hours, when the employes are less rushed. Don't ask for "the" fare to your destination, because there isn't just one.

Instead, describe the trip you propose, and let the clerk make some suggestions as to what the best arrangement might be. Or better yet, put your problem in the hands of a travel agent, who should be up-to-date on the promotional fares of all the airlines. He doesn't charge you anything (he's paid by the airline), and his professional knowledge can save you hours of work.

Examples Listed

Here are some of the fares available:

—The No-Frills Fare — Generally available between Florida and a growing number of American cities. You get no food and minimal amenities, although competition is rapidly sneaking a few luxuries (like drinks) into the cheap seats. The discount is 35%, good Monday to Thursday, in certain months, on fares paid at least seven days in advance. If you change your mind, you forfeit $10 or 10%, whichever is larger.

—A Night Coach Fare — 20% off on certain intermediate and long-distance routes. Most of these flights leave late at night, but some can be had at the crack of dawn.

—A Day Coach Excursion — 25% off for trips of at least 750 miles. And a Night-Coach Excursion — 30% off for trips of at least 1,000 miles. You generally can't get these fares on weekends or during the peak summer season, but always ask because there are some exceptions. Your trip must last seven to 30 days. Fares are paid seven days in advance; there is usually no penalty if you cancel at the last minute.

—A Plan-Ahead Fare — Round-trip only, transcontinental, for people willing to reserve 60 days in advance, pay 30 days in advance, and forfeit $40 if they can't go. Discounts range from 30% to 40%, with the cheaper fares offered midweek and off season.

—Vacation Tour Packages — For travelers willing to pay for such ground arrangements as hotels or auto rentals along with their plane tickets. On combination deals, the air-fare portion usually runs around 25% off.

—Midweek Specials — On some routes, such as San Francisco to Hawaii, at either "frills" or "no-frills" rates.

Other Discounts

Other discount proposals have been filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board, including a lower night-coach fare, a youth fare, a fare for people over 65, and a family plan. But the CBA on April 23 turned down Trans World Airlines' proposal to reduce domestic fares by one-third for youths, families, and the elderly.

There are also some specials for overseas flights, but they're not as exotic. All the scheduled airlines except Icelandic have the same rate card. The round-trip summer fare to Europe on Icelandic (New York to Luxembourg, via Reykjavik) is $381 for people who sign up 60 days in advance, compared with $426 on the other airlines.

The real competition among international airlines is in the area of inexpensive packaged tours. With Swissair, for example, you can get a two-week vacation in Switzerland, hotels and some meals included, for $524 plus $194 for car rental. Icelandic offers travelers who want to camp in Europe a round-trip air fare (before June 1) of $290, plus $650 for a four-person camper for two weeks. (After, June 1, the air fare jumps to $420.) There are scores of other such trips available.

To compare them, try a travel agent first. Or pay a visit to two or three airline ticket offices. But double-check the rates before making any final plans. Prices change so rapidly both here and abroad that you might have to pay a little more than you first expected.

Richling Accused Of Misrepresentation

By United Press International

An attorney for an Omaha man told the Nebraska Supreme Court Tuesday that the Douglas County prosecutor of 28 years ago — he's now a judge — misrepresented the weight of the evidence in two murder trials in an attempt to induce guilty pleas.

J. William Gallup of Omaha, attorney for Charles McClelland, told the High Court "appellant's treatment by Douglas County authorities was outrageous and inexcusable."

He was referring specifically to Theodore Richling, who is now a Douglas County district court judge.

"Ever since his pleas were accepted, there has been a dark cloud hovering over the courthouse where they were entered," Gallup said. "It is time that cloud was dissipated by the light of truth."

"Charles McClelland has spent 28 years awaiting that light," he added.

In the case, McClelland pleaded guilty to charges of second degree murder in the shooting deaths of Robert and Elizabeth May on Aug. 27, 1947. He was sentenced to life terms in prison. Gallup is trying for reversals of those convictions.

At the time, Gallup said, McClelland was 17-years-old and he gave five or six written confessions" to authorities. However, the attorney said, none of them were true and they were induced by claims of weighty evidence by the prosecution.

As it turned out, the attorney said, "there was no evidence to connect appellant with the crime." Further, he said, "none of appellant's statements checked out with the physical evidence."

Referring to the activities of Richling as prosecutor, Gallup said, "the relentless, ambitious prosecutor went after appellant like a tiger after fresh meat. By the time he had finished with appellant, neither he nor his attorneys had any desire for a trial."

Further, Gallup told the High Court that one Clyde Thomas, "appeared in the office of this writer unsolicited and unannounced" and "stated that prosecutor Richling admitted that he had convicted the wrong man."

Gallup said some of the claimed evidence which did not materialize was a revolver cartridge that matched and a package of blood-stained clothing.

Uhlig Rites Held In Broken Bow

Mason City — Funeral services for Arnold Uhlig, 63, who was killed in a tractor accident on his farm near here Thursday were held Monday at Broken Bow.

Custer County Attorney Steve Stumpff said Uhlig was pulling a plow with a tractor when the tractor's front wheels apparently came loose, dropping the machine to the ground and throwing Uhlig beneath a rear wheel.

The victim's survivors include his wife, Berniece; sons, Alton of Mason City and Arlen of Cozad; a brother, Leonard of Gothenburg; and three grandchildren.

Polyglas Radial

This new Polyglas tire makes it easy to join the switch to radials — especially during this sale period. Both the 70-series wide tread and the 78-series sizes provide radial handling and performance, with all the built-in advantages of fiberglass cord belts and polyester cord bodies. On dry pavement, the grip-block tread is designed to give real cornering assurance. On wet roads, wide tread grooves help channel water out from under the tire for good contact, good stopping traction. This 30,000 mile tire is an unusual value — especially during this sale period. Act now.
